RAIN IN CANYON KEEPS RIVER AT HIGH LEVEL

Commissioner Chris Flygare directed a large force of men today in safeguarding the canyon road from possible flood waters of the Ogden river. There was a heavy fall of rain in the canyon last night and this morning, which kept the river at its high level of yesterday, but the outlook was that the stream would fall rapidly during the late afternoon and evening.

The commissioner stated that he would keep his squad of workmen in the canyon until all danger was past. As yet, no damage has been done.

TEUTONS USING NEW SYSTEM OF MINES

COPENHAGEN, via London, April 27, 1:52 p. m.—The Norwegian bark Thekla owes her escape from sinking in the war zone to the fact that the "warning shot" from a German submarine smashed both of the bark's lifeboats. This led the submarine commander, who was unable to take the crew on board, to spare the vessel.

The Germans are said to be employing along the British coast a new system of Siamese twin mines, resulting in a double explosion which is said to insure the instant destruction of any ship no matter what her size.

PRESIDENT IS URGING CITY IS DIVIDED INTO MEN TO STAY ON FARMS 12 DISTRICTS FOR GARDENS

President Woodrow Wilson, acting through the various departments of the government, today repeated his appeal for competent farmers and farm hands to stay on the farms and serve the nation as best they may by raising large crops to feed the home folk and the men of the army and navy.

Through the tireless efforts of the general chairman and the various chairmen of subcommittees of the committee on preparation and safety, the plans to transform all vacant land, lots and lawns within the city into food-producing gardens for the common defense were perfected today. Perfect team work and supervision are assured.

Local patriotic organizations and recruiting officers have been informed of the government's policy. The assurance from Washington is that the nation recognizes the fact that the farmers are intensely patriotic, but they cannot be spared from their productive labor, and their places on the farm cannot be filled by men from the cities.

Chief Forester Henry C. Graves today sent broadcast an order advising the officers and men of the forest service to stay on their jobs and perform their vitally necessary work, at least until the military plans of the government are worked out in a practical system.

Hundreds of the foresters have evinced a desire to enlist, but they are greatly needed just now in the mobilization of the food resources of the nation and their places could not be filled on short notice.

The city has been divided into twelve districts, as follows:

No. 1—East of Washington, south of the city limits to Ninth street. Agricultural and labor supervisors yet to be selected.

No. 2—West of Washington, south of the city limits to Ninth street. Agricultural and labor supervisors yet to be selected.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The French war mission has informed the American government that the things France needs most from the United States are money, food, fertilizers, coal, steel, oil and transportation equipment, especially ships in which to carry goods from the new to the old world.

No. 3—South of Ninth street to Ogden river and west of Washington. George H. Butler, garden supervisor; labor director, Earl Pingree.

No. 4—East of Washington, south of Ninth street to the river. John L. Wilson, garden supervisor; G. Fred Jensen, director of labor.

No. 5—South of the river to Twenty-third and east of Washington. W. T. Stillwell garden supervisor; J. J. Vandergraft, labor director.

No. 6—West of Washington, south of the river to Twenty-third street. Joseph B. Dana, garden supervisor; Jesse Draper, labor director.

No. 7—South of Twenty-third street to Twenty-sixth street and west of Washington. J. H. Wardleigh, garden supervisor; Wilford Nuttall, labor director.

No. 8—Twenty-third to Twenty-sixth street, east of Washington. J. J. Harrison and J. H. Wardleigh, garden supervisors; Irving C. Emmett, labor director.

No. 9—Twenty-sixth to Twenty-ninth street, east of Washington. F. J. Hendershot, garden supervisor; L. Dow Browning, labor director.

No. 10—West of Washington, between Twenty-sixth and Thirty-second streets. Richard D. Pincock, garden supervisor; Robert A. Hunter, labor director.

No. 11—West of Washington, between Thirty-second and Thirty-sixth streets. Thomas Parker, labor director; garden supervisor to be selected.

No. 12—East of Washington, Twenty-ninth to Thirty-sixth street. Abraham Kershaw, garden supervisor; Albert S. Ferrin, labor director.

Supervisors All Experts.

All supervisors above named and those to be selected are men possessing expert and practical qualifications for the work expected of them. The same is true of the labor directors and all of them are volunteers—soldiers of the commissary in the national cause.

Fred A. Huish has volunteered to serve as general superintendent, in charge of all planting, cultivating and harvesting. The marketing problem will be handled in a scientific manner, so that those who produce the crops, who do the work, will have all profits from it. The committee and its workers will not receive a penny in profit of any kind.

General Labor Director.

Robert E. Wilson, scoutmaster, will have general supervision of the marshaling, application and execution of labor. He will be assisted, as needs require, by the general committee.

No loafing will be allowed in Ogden this summer. This does not require elaboration at this time, but it will be fully demonstrated in a little while.

The Home Guard, with five hundred men under arms, will probably see to it that vagabondage be prohibited in all Weber county. The old New Eng land motto will be adopted: "He that won't work shall not eat."

The committee stated today that it, and all profits from his labor; seed for gardens and crops will be furnished free to all who need it and may be paid for from crop benefits. No trifters need apply. For this great work, they say, only earnest and industrious men can qualify.

Assurances were received today that all kinds of produce will sell higher than ever before, no matter how much is raised.

All persons desiring garden lots should apply to the supervisor or labor director in his district, to General Superintendent Huish, Mr. Wilson, or at the committee's headquarters, room 6, Utah National bank building.

Jim's Groceteria
