Theatres

AT THE OGDEN.

"Broadside Bill" Hart, at his best, picturesque and stalwart, playing in masterful style the thrilling role of the abysmal half-brute half-angel of the type surviving today solely in certain wild and untamed portions of the west and south, surpassed all expectations in "Wolf Lowry" at the Ogdien theatre last night.

Capacity audiences welcomed the great "movie" star. In this thrilling production "Broadside Bill" is as quick on the trigger as ever before and plays the role of cattle king and cowboy to perfection. "He's as rough as the devil," as a lady spectator was heard to remark, but at the end when he proved himself a hero and a warm-hearted gentleman, the same critic, absorbed in the development of the thrilling drama, exclaimed: "Oh, what a hero! He's simply glorious!"

"Big Bill" first appears as a cattle king, boss of a vast range domain. "Nesters" or homestead settlers attempt to establish themselves. "Big Bill" chases them away. A beautiful woman finally takes up a claim. Bill sees the smoke of the wickup, gallops over to deliver his marching orders, hammers on the cabin door with his six-gun, threatening to drag out the occupant by the feet and to burn everything of the intruder except his shirt, but he is dismayed and conquered instantly by the sudden appearance and welcome of the lovely girl. The "Wolf" falls head over heels in love, of course. Afterward he haunts the cabin, watching over her from afar. A predatory gambler invades the cabin home. A battle royal ensues in which the "Wolf" is shot, but is tenderly nursed back to life and health by the adored one. They are engaged, but a school days sweetheart appears, precipitating all kinds of comedy and tragedy.

The "Wolf" finally makes the great sacrifice, giving up the girl, sparing her sweetheart's life. They are the principals in the great wedding, feast and ball, and the "Wolf" presents them, as a wedding gift, his great ranch and flocks and herds. He goes to Alaska to mine gold and seek the balm of silence for his wounded heart. He is seen in his lonely hut in the wilderness. Gigantic bears are seen stalking around his cabin.

This play is full of the finest kind of comedy and tragedy. It is the life of early days in the west and south, as it still is lived today in certain isolated sections. The thrills are innumerable.

The Keystone comedy of the program is one of the finest ever seen at the Ogdien. No one can see it and be silent without effort, for it presents Bobbie Vernon and two beautiful comedienne in a play designed for stars. It is a genuine fun producer, full of tragic thrills. There's a dog in the cast—the finest mastiff actor in the world. He performs some amazing stunts.

PLOT UNCOVERED IN COLUMBUS, O.

Printing Shop Is Raided Where Anti-Conscription Literature Is Found.

COLUMBUS, O., May 31.—An anti-conscription plot, with national headquarters in this city, to induce young men of military age to refrain from registering for conscription next Tuesday, has been uncovered by state and government secret service agents, according to announcement made this afternoon by Governor James M. Cox. A printing shop has been raided and a mass of literature seized.

Working women of Hamilton, Can., have organized an Independent Labor party.

JAPANESE WANT TO BE CITIZENS

Would Share in Rights, Duties and Functions and Fight for United States.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Asserting that although discrimination against Japanese with reference to citizenship and land ownership is "both unjust and unwise," Dr. Toyokichi Iyemaga, addressing the national conference on foreign relations of the United States, at Long Beach, N. Y., today declared that "the immigration question with Japan is closed."

The speaker, a former Japanese government official, said he spoke not in the capacity of a representative of the Japanese government, but as a private citizen, wishing to make this point clear, as a belief that he expressed the views of his government tended to interfere with his "freedom of speech."

"What shall the United States do with her 80,000 resident Japanese?" he asked. "Is it wise for America to leave them long as aliens who form no corporate part of the American system and are debarred from sharing the rights, duties and functions of her citizenry? It is my firm belief that once a Japanese is admitted to American citizenship he will be loyal to his adopted country. There are hundreds of Japanese in the United States who would like to enlist in the American army, but they cannot because they are denied citizenship."

The chief demand in England and France is for women mechanics, automobile drivers, cooks and stenographers.

General Crowder Warns Slackers

Provost Marshal General Boech H. Crowder.

General Crowder has made public an official guide showing how men required to register under the selective draft law should answer the twelve questions on the registration cards. He warns would-be slackers that they cannot secure exemption merely by claiming it and says, "Do not hide behind petticoats or children."

MORE CITY PAVING IS AUTHORIZED BY BOARD

Bids will be sought immediately by Ogdien City for three more blocks of paving, the district that includes Moffatt avenue, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets, and both Twenty-third and Twenty-second streets, between Washington and Adams avenues, having met with approval of the property owners, according to a report filed with the city commission this morning. City Engineer Tracy reported that protests received only showed 1.06 per cent of the frontage affected.

The city commission also approved the tax levy for Sewer District No. 137, Jefferson avenue from Twenty-eighth to Twenty-ninth streets, and created Sewer district No. 136, Butler avenue, from Twenty-fifth to Twenty-sixth street, levying a tax of $2,100.

Property owners on Thirty-second street petitioned the commission for an extension of a water main for a distance of about one block. This petition was referred to Commissioner Jones for consideration.

The report of John H. Hughes, dog tax collector, showing $10 in dog taxes collected, was received and ordered filed.

RACE RIOTS AGAIN DISTURB ST. LOUIS

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., May 31.—Race rioting broke out again late last night despite the fact that the city was patrolled by local police, special deputies and national guardsmen. Fifty men shot one negro and beat two others.

The disturbances which started Monday night grew out of a protest against the importation of negro labor from the south. City officials believe the situation is well in hand today.

CONSCRIPTION IS CONDEMNED

NEW YORK, May 31.—The conscription act was characterized today as both immoral and unconstitutional, at the First American Conference on Democracy and Terms of Peace, which was again in session today at Madison Square, with Socialists and pacifists in attendance. The speaker was Daniel Kiefer, of Cincinnati, who was introduced after Dr. Judah L. Magnes, one of the organizers of the conference, had referred to newspaper dispatches from Washington telling of the purpose of the department of justice to take stenographic notes at peace meetings and prosecute those who infringe the law.

"I don't know whether this is the kind of meeting the department of justice means," said Dr. Magnes, "but if it is and there are stenographers here, I would like to invite them to this platform where they may see and hear everything that transpires. In Prussia, at political meetings, the stenographers are seated on the platform. They take notes and report to the government. Inasmuch as we are very rapidly becoming Prussianized, we should follow the Prussian example at our meeting."

Dr. Magnes pointed out that the organizers of the conference had resolved that proposed adoption of any action contrary to the law would be declared out of order but that they regarded as "perfectly within the law and favored all discussions as to the wisdom and unwisdom of existing laws."

Kiefer in his address advised appeal to the courts as "the first duty of a patriotic citizen who has been drafted."

"The conscription act," he said, "is both immoral and unconstitutional. It violates the prohibition against involuntary servitude. Not even the hair-splitting plea can be urged in the present case that the thirteenth amendment does not forbid national defense. Sending conscripts to Europe is not national defense but mixing in the quarrels of outside nations and if, as is suggested, conscripts can be compelled to work as farm hands, factory hands or in other civil occupations, the thirteenth amendment is not worth the paper it is written on."

MAJOR RAY RETIRED AS LIEUT. COLONEL

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Army orders today show that Major Beecher B. Ray, quartermaster corps, has been retired for disability with the rank of lieutenant colonel. His withdrawal from active service clears the way for promotions in the corps held up for a long period as the result of a controversy which attained the proportions of a congressional inquiry in which Ray was the central figure.

Kiefer said it was not a question of a citizen's duty to defend the country, as such a situation "does not confront us." He declared the United States was at war because "certain persons with authority wish to have us at war regardless of necessity or of popular wishes; otherwise there would have been a referendum on war and conscription."

"We have been told that is a war for democracy," he continued. "Well, any people that are determined to have democracy can have it without war. When Russia definitely decided to send the czar packing, she did not need to wait for a victory over Germany to do so. She simply sent him away. We can have democracy in the United States, too, whenever we get as ready for it as Russia is."

Democracy, he said, cannot come in Germany until the German people want it and when the German people want it they will get it.

The speaker declared that "the first thing that democracy must win is the fight against conscription and against war without consent of the people," and after quoting the president's proclamation as saying that it is to be "in no sense a conscription of the unwilling," he added:

"I fear before long that Mr. Wilson will be explaining that in more senses than one it is conscription of the unwilling."

TOPEKA, Kan., May 31.—Dr. Eva Harding, former candidate for congress, and Ike Gilbert, both of Topeka, were arrested here this afternoon by federal officers for alleged connection with anti-draft meetings. Both were present at the anti-conscription meeting here last Sunday.
