HOW TO HELP FIGHT FOR AMERICA.

In an appeal to the men and women of the country, Dwight Partridge says: The man who gives up his private income, his family and the pursuits of contented civil life and takes up arms for his country—ready to die, if necessary—is giving the greatest service that any man can give. But there are many loyal sons of the nation who, for one reason or another, cannot take up arms. It is for them to serve the nation in activities behind the firing line.

"What can I do for my country?" is being asked by hundreds of thousands of American men and women today.

Many answers have been given to the question and, already, small armies of loyal men and women have taken to gardens to raise large crops against a possible food famine. Thousands of women are doing Red Cross work and other thousands are keeping their knitting needles busy, making things for the fighting men to wear. Business men are lending employes for government clerical work; others are aiding in the establishment and management of defense councils in the states of the union; others are members of local committees, entrusted with the development of the home defense idea.

High school and college men throughout the country are drilling, most of them against the day when, as members of a huge national army, raised by selective draft, they will go to the front to fight for democracy.

Others of these youth of the land are training especially for commissions as officers. Thousands of young men also are in training corps for reserve officers, doing their bit every hour of the day for the nation.

All of these things detailed above are the obvious, the plainly evident things, for men and women to do. These duties are necessary and must be done.

What are they?

Firstly, there is patriotic missionary work. Men and women should give up what time they can to steering back to the straight line of national love and loyalty those in their communities who show signs of wavering. There are many of these, most of them men and women whose natural fondness for other lands in which they were born is completely blinding them to the fact that the land of their adoption should come first. Each man and woman conscientiously seeking a chance for service, can do much good in this direction. One wavering or doubtful house maid, for instance, may be a potential secret agent for the enemy. With tact and diplomacy and common-sense argument, this potential spy can be made, at the very least, a disinterested person.

Secondly, there is the chance for voluntary secret service work. This may sound romantic but hearken to the words of the chief of department of justice agents in one of the busiest judicial departments of the country. He said, recently: "No suspicion is too slight, no lead too unimportant, no bit of information too uninteresting

Evening of Grand Opera Music

Group of advanced pupils of Prof. Joseph Ballantyne, who will give an evening of Grand Opera in the Ogdens Tabernacle Monday evening, June 4th, assisted by the Ogdens Tabernacle Choir of 240 voices. Sam F. Whitaker, organist; Miss Verna Van Dyke, accompanist; Mr. T. Earl Pardo, interpretation of the Opera Thomas. Top row, left to right—Verna Van Dyke, Edward Saunders, Douglas Brian, Wm. S. Wright, Walter Stephens, Myrtle B. Higley. Sitting—left to right—Annie Williamson, Ruth Groesbeck, Vera Jones, Mildred Ware.

Monday evening in the Ogdens Tabernacle will be given an evening of grand opera music by the advanced pupils of Prof. Joseph Ballantyne, assisted by the Ogdens Tabernacle choir of 240 voices, Mr. Sam F. Whitaker, organist, Miss Verna Van Dyke, accompanist, and Mr. T. Earl Pardo, who will interpret the opera theme. The program will include excerpts from the grand operas, including the finale to Act I and Act II, complete, of "Lucia," by Donizetti. The program follows:

Part I.
Quartet (Rigoletto).....Verdi
Myrtle B. Higley, Mildred Ware,
Douglas Brian, Walter Stephens
"Ah Mon Crede" (La Sonnambula)
.....Bellini
Ruth Groesbeck

for investigation. Any person who has the slightest suspicion that another person is disloyal and, therefore, possibly a potential menace to the country, should report all he or she knows about the suspect to the department of justice and, in addition, should consider it his or her duty to keep tab, at all times, on the suspect. The spy is ever-present and each spy in our midst is as bad, in many ways, as are the shells of the enemy, actually fired into our homes. Look over the field in your home community. Isn't there some man, or woman, who will, in your estimation, bear watching? There must be. You need not put on false whiskers or other disguises to do your duty. Many disloyal citizens are frank in proclaiming their disloyalty. Report them.

I. W. W. HEADQUARTERS IN SALT LAKE.

One of Ogdens' ministers of the gospel was in Salt Lake last week and was prompted to search out I. W. W. headquarters. On State street, near First South, he found a bookstore, in the rear of which was a hall where a number of men were assembled. The idlers evidently were not tramps. They were fairly well dressed and showed signs of having some of the comforts which are denied vagabonds.

The minister did not make known his mission. He inquired for Socialist literature and, with a paper in front of him, sat down to listen to the exchange of ideas, which were being freely given. "I came out of the place," he said, "with full knowledge of the fact that a hotbed of sedition and treason exists in the center of Salt Lake. Every man present was denouncing the government and preaching the doctrine of resistance to the calls to arms, and one loud talker declared he would never fight for any flag. Nearly all of the loafers spoke in foreign accents."

This presents one of the problems confronting this nation. There is in this country a detached body of men who are no more devoted to the republic than if this land were ruled by a czar and the common people held down by the iron heel of despotism. The I. W. W.'s and the radical Socialists are preaching disloyalty with all the ability at their command, and, before many days, they must receive attention.

This government of ours must begin to display more authority and exact greater service from every man. The preacher of treason must be taken by the collar and shaken, and, if necessary, harsher methods must be employed.

We are in a war of self-preservation and cannot tolerate treachery in any form.

IT WILL BE YOUR NEXT TURN.

Why should you subscribe for a Liberty Loan bond?

Because— If that line of flesh and blood and steel in France goes down before the attacks of Hindenburg, it will be our turn next.

Your turn. And it will go down unless you help to do your part.

The least you can do is to subscribe to the Liberty Loan. Food for the men—food for the guns—a future free of tyrants; that is what your money will help buy.

If you don't use your money for that, your money in the end will be used to buy millinery and country houses for the German Crown Prince's latest favorite.

It will do you a lot of good then, will it not? Save your money by investing it in the Liberty Loan.

BUILD A CANTONMENT IN OGDEN.

Having planned 32 towns to be erected for housing the soldiers of the new army of a million men, the war department finds the task too great and has decided to concentrate the men in 16 cantonments.

This should prove an opportunity for Ogdens capital to obtain a camp for this city and at the same time assist the government. There are a dozen men in Ogdens who could finance the building of the camp and, it is our opinion, if they were to get together and make an offer to the war department to prepare, under military supervision, a cantonment large enough to care for an army division, the proposition would be accepted and the men of money later be reimbursed.

for their outlay, plus a small margin as interest on their investment.

Ogdens has several desirable sites, affording perfect drainage, where an abundance of water could be supplied, and every requirement of an army post be met.

SUBMARINE DESTROYERS AND NET CUTTERS.

Did Chairman Saunders, when he said the U-boat problem had been solved, have before him the submarine destroyer lately invented by an American which is a small floating mine that attaches to the bottom of an undersea boat as it floats on the surface and explodes owing to water pressure when the submarine submerges?

Holland's description in the Wall Street Journal lends color to the statement that this is the little device which is to do the work. Costing less than $5, tens of thousands of them could be made and the submarine zone covered so completely as to make certain of the destruction of every U-boat coming to the surface.

In time the Germans might find a method of escaping these leeches of the sea, just as they have found a way to overcome the nets by placing something similar to buzzsaws on the nose of the submarine to cut through the wire entanglements.

This battle of wits is wonderful to contemplate. One finds it in every field of warfare. As a French artillery expert, who was with Joffre in this country, remarked:

"Artillery tactics are changing so rapidly during this war, I am afraid of growing stale before getting back to the trenches."

NO GOUGING AT THIS TIME.

Our attention has been called to the fact that some outrageous prices are being charged by men who are called to plow small gardens in different parts of the city for widows and others who have no teams with which to do the work.

While every person is entitled to reasonable compensation for his service, this is no time for gouging, nor extortion, by those whose services are required to assist in the production of food products. It is a patriotic service to do the work at a fair price, or a little less than a fair price, but it is far from being patriotic to take advantage of the necessities and overcharge, at this time, for services rendered.

MUNITIONS PLANTS BEING DESTROYED

COPENHAGEN, via London, June 2, 7:44 a. m.—A semi-official communication to the German press expresses the fear that recent numerous fires in munition factories and establishments engaged in war work may be attributed in part to peace at any price advocates, who have taken this means of hastening an end to the war.

The French commissioners have captured America in the only way America can ever be captured.

THE PARTING GIFT--A Kodak

It is monotony, not bullets, that our soldier boys dread. No fear, when the time comes, they will uphold bravely the traditions that are dear to every loyal American heart.

But in the training camps and during the months of forced inaction there are going to be some tedious, homesick days—days the KODAK can make more cheerful.

Pictures from home to the camp and from camp to the home can do their part. There's room for a little VEST POCKET KODAK in every soldier's or sailor's kit. The expense is small—the cheerfulness it may bring is great.
