EPIDEMIC IN THE SCHOOLS REQUIRES DRASTIC ACTION TO KEEP DOWN THE DISEASE

Reports of new cases of scarlet fever in the city continue to come in to the office of the city health department. This morning two new cases were put under quarantine, making a total of twenty cases. The department is investigating other cases of illness to determine whether they are scarlet fever.

WAR WORK OF FOREST SERVICE IS HELPING UNCLE SAM TO GET READY FOR THE BIG DRIVE

That the forest service is doing a most important work along lines of preparation and assistance in the war is shown by the statements of Associate Forester A. E. Potter, who is acting as chief forester during the absence of Mr. Graves in France as adviser to General Pershing on matters pertaining to forest work.

Mr. Potter and District Forester L. F. Knipp returned this morning from Mant, where they have been in conference with stockmen and ranchers. The trip was made for the purpose of getting in touch with conditions there, with a view to increasing the stock production on the forests to the utmost capacity. It was also for the purpose of talking over with the land owners and farmers other ways the forest service might help them in increasing production during the war.

The chief forester stated that already the normal stock grazing on these lands has been increased and it is possible to make an even greater increase. The ranges will be stocked to the limit of safety, he stated.

The foremost task of the forest service at present is to help with the war. Every other thing has been placed in the background, for the time being. All of our efforts in every department are concentrated in every way possible, to aid the government in the successful termination of the struggle, he said.

The very first thing we undertook was the organization of two forest regiments. Their need was shown to us at the early entrance of this nation into the war. We saw the prime necessity of training men for the task of working in the forests in France, in co-operation with other branches of the army. It was shown to us how essential it was to have men who could perform the duties of supplying timber for the many uses to which it can be put, without having to take men from the fighting lines.

It has been stated that lumber is the next important factor to food in this war. It is needed everywhere. Therefore, we have sacrificed men to the service, as well as time and labor.

antine. With the sudden change in the weather, George Shorten city health officer, warns the people that additional precautions must be taken. He urges them to report the least signs of illness among the children.

At the Quincy school a number of children were sent home this morning, showing symptoms of sore throats. A prominent citizen suggests that during this epidemic daily physical examination be made of the children in the schools of the infected districts.

We have laid aside all work that was not absolutely essential to the needs of the war. Departments of research and preparation work have been curtailed. Workers in these departments have been placed where they could do more good in the crisis.

The second great thing, aside from the equipping of the regiments, is in special research work with regard to ship building and aeroplane construction. This is next in importance. We have experimented in the effort to find the most suitable lumber to be used for these two purposes.

In aeroplane work, we have paid great attention to the working out of satisfactory kiln drying methods of woods suitable for the construction of flying machines. We have found that spruce is the best wood for the purpose. It has great tensile strength and other qualities required.

By the ordinary air-drying process used generally in the treatment of woods, it was found that it took far too long to get ships and aeroplanes constructed in the specified time. So we got to work in our special research laboratories and have discovered a possible substitute for kiln drying. By this method, we can take the green wood and get it seasoned in remarkably short time.

In addition to these things, we have co-operated with the aircraft board and with the signal corps in finding a possible substitute for wood, if it is needed. Wood is the best material in the construction of aeroplane propellers and we have carried on some very valuable tests in the laminating, or gluing of woods for this purpose.

Mr. Potter departed this afternoon for Montana, where he will meet stockmen. With Chief Forester Graves absent, Mr. Potter stated that the only chance he has of doing field work is during the recess of congress.

COLORED MEN ARE TO LEAVE OGDEN ON OCTOBER 27

Definite information has been received by the local draft board for Ogden city today concerning the departure of the negro men from Ogden for Camp Lewis. These men will form part of a contingent of colored men from the whole state and will be taken to the camp in special cars over the Oregon Short Line, leaving Ogden at 1:25 a. m. October 27. There are two colored men to go from Ogden and none from Weber county.

At Camp Lewis all of the colored men will be formed into one regiment and trained as a distinctive organization. Credit for the men taken from Ogden will be given on the 15 per cent quota required of the state as a final contingent.

The department of justice of San Diego, Cal., has wired a request to Ogden for information concerning Edward Hill, who registered here, stating that he is under arrest there. Hill registered here and has the order number of 228 and the serial number of 852 which places him in long way down the list of men from Ogden.

HOSPITALITY PLAYS AN IMPORTANT PART IN A TRIAL

The case of the state of Utah against Holton Olsen came to trial in Judge Pratt's division of the district court today. Olsen is charged with violation of the liquor law and was arrested some time ago. Motion for a continuance was made by the district attorney on a hearing several days ago in order that witnesses might be brought from Camp Lewis to testify in the case but the trial was postponed only two days as the defense granted the admission of evidence of this witness without hearing it.

The witness point in the case seems to be whether Olsen intended a drink which he gave two young men in Huntsville on a certain date as payment for carrying a jug of liquor to the valley for him or merely intended it as an act of hospitality.

YOUNG WOMEN PLACE THEIR NAMES FOR BONDS

The young women employes of the Kern Confectionery store of Ogden have responded in a truly patriotic way to the request of the government for loans for liberty bonds and have come forth almost "to a man" with subscriptions. J. D. Abbott visited the store this morning as a member of the city canvassing committee and asked Mr. Kern what he intended doing for the government in the way of buying a bond. Mr. Kern named the amount of bonds he wished to buy and then told Mr. Abbott to see the young women.

Chicago Quotations

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Notwithstanding that stormy weather led to a little firmness in the corn market today, the effect soon disappeared. Buying was largely confined to shorts, and as most of their wants had been supplied yesterday, a downward movement of prices began. Selling, however, was not aggressive, and seemed to come mostly from pit traders. Opening quotations, which ranged from half cent off to quarter cent advance, with December at $1.14 to $1.14 1/2 and May $1.02 1/2 to $1.10, were followed by a moderate general setback.

Oats eased off with corn. Trade, though, was well divided and more active than usual. Lack of support brought about sharp breaks in the provision market. Buying was minimized owing to downturns in the value of hogs and corn.

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Open. High. Low. Close. Corn—Dec. $1.14 $1.14 1/2 $1.13 1/2 $1.14 1/4; May 1.09 1/4 1.10 1/4 1.09 1/4 1.10 1/4.

Oats—Dec. .58 .58 1/2 .57 1/2 .58 1/4; May .59 1/2 .60 1/2 .59 1/2 .60 1/4.

UTAH STOCKS

Quotations Furnished Over the Private Wire of J. A. Hogle & Co., 2409 Hudson Avenue.

Cold weather seems to have had effect on market. Rexall and Silver King Corn declined on second call. The cold weather that set in today seemed to have had effect on the trading on the Salt Lake Stock & Mining exchange, and most of the issues were a little weak with some declining. This was most noticeable on Silver King Consolidated, one of the market's richest stocks, which declined from $3.65 to $3.02 1/2 after trading 600 shares of its security from $3.50 to $3.10.

Column's Retail, which was not as active as usual and only 1700 shares were transferred on both calls, at $1.27 1/2 and $1.30, closing at $1.27 1/2. Big Four also slumped and sold for 3/4 cent at the close of the second call. This is on account of the heavy assessment that was levied, and becomes delinquent today. New Quincy was about the heaviest trader, selling 10,000 shares at 3/4 and 3/8 cents, and was very steady at the close. Tintic Standard also had a fair day around $1.55 and 3400 shares were exchanged. It is thought by some of the Salt Lake brokers that the bottom of the market has been reached and the stocks will begin to advance very soon. Closing quotations and sales are as follows:
