Theaters

AT THE OGDEN.

A rare treat was afforded the patrons of the Ogdan theater last night, in the heart interest picture "Mother O' Mine." It is one of the most delightful stories that has been seen here in a long time. While the title would suggest a picture with no comedy, the story itself is just the opposite. There is so much comedy that the tender scenes, of the sacrifices mothers make for their boys and of the little things they do for us which we, in our selfishness do not appreciate, do not have the depressing effect they would otherwise have.

It is such a picture that recalls to one the little thoughtless acts we did that hurt our mothers, but that they, in their unselfishness and love for us, never allowed us to see. It points out vividly how prone we are to neglect mother, the steadfast friend and backer through all our troubles. No matter what we may do, mother understands. If we turn from the path of right, mother has excuses for us. If we are unfortunate, mother is the first to come to us in our hour of need. When we are successful, she is the first to rejoice and when we deny her, as is often the case, she understands. Mother love is the most sacred thing in the lives of all. These points are brought out in a most pleasing way in "Mother O' Mine."

In addition to the feature, there is a Keystone comedy that is a winner. While very burlesque, there is not so much "slap-stick" work in it to make it ridiculous or tiresome.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

Koib and Dill are coming back to Ogdan on Sunday next for a return engagement, according to an announcement.
