SPECIAL CANYON CAR SERVICE TO BEGIN TOMORROW

Ogden citizens who have decided to go early to Ogden Canyon this year will be provided with special street car service, commencing tomorrow, to enable them to come in to the city to their work and to return in the evening, according to an announcement made this morning by the traffic office of the Utah-Idaho Central Railroad company.

According to the announcement made this morning the special service will be given until the regular summer schedule of 45-minute service goes into effect on Decoration day, the special service providing for an early morning and evening train from the Union depot to Pineview and return. This will be in addition to the regular Huntsville service.

The special morning service will start with a car leaving the Union depot at 6:00 a. m. and leaving Pineview on the return at 6:45, arriving in Ogden at 7:25 a. m. Under the present schedule the last Huntsville car leaves Ogden at 5:00 o'clock in the evening. This does not permit the canyon campers to get away from their work in time to get home by street car and only those having automobiles can get out after that hour. To overcome this handicap the special service car will leave the Union depot in the evening at 6:15, going direct to Pineview and return.

GOOD JOBS STILL OPEN IN ARMY SERVICE

Several good jobs are still open in the army according to Sergeant George D. McLeod of the local recruiting station, and men who can qualify as to age and physical requirements can secure one for the asking.

The sergeant said this morning: "Brother, do you really desire a fine profession? If you do, Uncle Sam is looking for you—you are just the kind of a fellow he wants to help get on in the world. He will put you in the way of learning any trade you desire. Here's the whole thing in a nut shell—Uncle Sam has discovered he must have just 12,000 machine and auto helpers over in France immediately. Consequently he'll go strong.

"He'll take you in, pay you fine wages, care for you in every way, feed you the best of food; sleep you in steam-heated quarters; won't ask you to drill or get into danger, and teach you any trade you want to learn.

"You work, not fight. Look in to this at once, as you young men who have turned 21 since June 5, 1917, have less than a month to pick your branch, and as some of you know, lots of the boys could not get in to the army December last as we had a rush on by the last minute men and we could not handle the crowd. So take warning—Don't be left out as they were, come in now before the rush starts. You can pick any branch you wish; we have fine chances in the 34th Engineers, quartermaster corps. Clerks are much in demand. No night fight or guard, all office work and pen pushing. Typists and stenos get fine jobs, promotion rapid. You can't get canned or you can't get sore and tell the boss to go to — and quit. Families are well taken care of by Uncle Sam, while you are in France.

"Think it over boys, but think fast or you will be late for the good jobs. Drop in and talk it over with me at the recruiting station, up stairs, Twenty-fifth and Hudson streets, or 'phone Sergeant McLeod at 1735 N. R."

The students of this class have been much benefited recently by a number of lectures delivered before them by District Attorney S. P. Dobbs at the request of Miss Gillard.

JAMES PINGREE CASE BEFORE MUNICIPAL COURT

The case of the state against James Pingree for maintaining a nuisance was called in the municipal court this morning and Dr. T. B. Beatty of the state board of health was on hand to represent the state as the chief witness, but the case was not heard because County Attorney Charles L. Farr moved to amend the complaint and Attorney H. H. Henderson stated that the defense would take the time in demurring to the complaint as amended. Judge Henderson said that he demurred to the amended complaint and asked for a continuance until he could look into the new phases of the case. Judge Barker set the hearing on the demurrer for Monday, May 20 at 10 a. m. and reserved the following day for the trial in case the demurrer is overruled.

The case arose out of a complaint filed some weeks ago against the pool of water that formed during the early spring on the lot on Hudson avenue next to the Browning Brothers store, it being alleged that it was a nuisance to the health of citizens of the city.

Dr. Beatty came up one day specially to investigate the condition of the pool of water and declared it a menace to the public health, whereupon a complaint was issued against the owner, charging the maintenance of a nuisance, or words to that effect. Mr. Pingree proved to be the owner of the property.

Considerable notoriety was given to the pool before the formal charge was made by stories that appeared naming it "Hudson Bay." J. U. Eldredge, manager of the Examiner, was one of the witnesses called by the prosecution this morning. A. P. Bristol was also called as a witness in the case. No testimony was taken this morning, however, on account of the continuance of the case.

THE "REVELATION" IS CLASSIC

Mme. Nazimova's debut is truly an auspicious one and her reappearance on the scene should be hailed with delight by the thousands who have seen "War Brides." "The Rosebush of a Thousand Years," is the story provided and the character of Joline is peculiarly suitable to the star's personality and mannerisms. The picture as a whole is one that should prove a great drawing card for it is big in every way.

Joline, an Apache dancer, meets Granville, an American artist, and agrees to pose for him. His picture, "The Bacchante," brings him fame and fortune and Joline lives with him as model and inspiration. La Roche, her vivacious and connoisseur, commissions Granville to make a picture depicting the Madonna of the Rosebush and Joline accompanies Granville to the sacred monastery in which the rosebush grows. As no women are permitted to enter the gates, Joline poses as a boy and gains entrance to the garden. Donning the garb of the Madonna, Joline poses and is seen by brother Augustine, a sick and delirious member of the monastery. Augustine falls unconscious at the sight of the Holy Mother and next morning comes word that the rosebush, for many years apparently dead, had suddenly bloomed. Joline, unable to bear the continued statements that the Madonna had been responsible for the rosebush blooming, confesses to the Prior that she had been that Madonna. The good Father convinces her that God had created his will through her and advice received by his admission and advice, resolve to leave Granville and start life anew.
