ARRIVAL OF OFFICERS RECALLS STRANGE CIRCUMSTANCES

An unusual set of circumstances is recalled with the visit to Ogden of two young men, Lieutenant Colonel Mack Carr of the United States army and Lieutenant William A. Corn of the United States navy.

Eight years ago both were students of the Ogden high school. Announcement was made to the students of a competitive examination for Annapolis. Both took the examination. Carr was successful.

Garr was disappointed, but he was not discouraged.

When Carr set off for Annapolis, Garr enlisted as a private in the army and did his first soldier duty at Fort Douglas.

While Carr was plugging away at school Garr was plugging away in the ranks and both became officers about the same time. Both saw service in the great war.

This is the first time both have come home together since they left high school eight years ago.

Lieutenant Colonel Carr is believed to be the youngest lieutenant colonel in the army. He is the son of Mrs. Benjamin Carr.

Lieutenant Corn is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Corn and is a son in law of A. L. Brewer.

YOUNG FUNERAL TO BE THURSDAY

Ogden Veterans of World War to March in Military Cortege

Ogden men who served under General Richard W. Young during the world war are expected to attend the funeral of their former superior officer Thursday. Many Ogden officers who served under General Young are completing plans whereby Ogden will be well represented. All Ogden men who served in the 145th Field Artillery are urged to attend the services.

Announcement was made last night by Bishop C. Clarence Neslen of the Twentieth ward, where General Young resided for many years, that former associates of the general in the army will arrange the details for the full participation of the military in the funeral arrangements.

The services will be held at the tabernacle at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. President Heber J. Grant of the L. D. S. church will preside and will be the principal speaker at these exercises. The general committee in charge of arrangements for the funeral is composed of Bishop Neslen, chairman, his two counselors, Louis R. Wells and David I. Watts, Frank R. Snow and B. F. Grant, counselors to General Young as president of Ensign state.

Subcommittees Named. The subcommittees on military arrangements consists of Lieutenant Colonel Fred C. Gundry, chairman; Lieutenant Colonel E. LeRoy Bourne and Major Wesley E. King. On the music committee are D. J. Watts, Anthony C. Lund, Professor J. J. McClellan, Edward P. Kimball, Henry E. Giles and Lieutenant Clarence E. Hawkins, formerly leader of the 145th Field Artillery band.

The Utah regiment's band will form a part of the funeral cortege and will play selections which General Young was accustomed to request when he commanded the regiment.

Bishop Neslen said last night that scores of former soldiers who served under General Young have volunteered their services to stand watch over the body at the undertaking parlors, together with residents of the general's neighborhood. Former soldiers and friends of the general have stood watch over the body since his death on Saturday night and will remain with him until the funeral services are held.

Honor Escort to Be Held. Colonel Bourne yesterday issued a notice calling on all men who have served under General Young in the Sixty-fifth Field Artillery brigade to form a military escort of honor for the funeral procession. The 145th Field Artillery will form the escort of honor.

A provisional regiment of men who served with the organization will be formed under the former officers of the command now living in Salt Lake and Ogden. The escort will form on West Temple street prior to the funeral on Thursday and uniform men are requested to wear their uniforms complete.

Members of the escort will report at the west entrance of the tabernacle grounds to the following: Headquarters company, Captain B. H. Wayne, supply company, Lieutenant Charles C. Budd, a battery, Lieutenants Irving D. Offer and Harold S. Jennings; B battery, Captain Irwin Clawson; C battery, Captain E. G. Woolley, Jr.; D battery, Lieutenant Don Williams; E battery, Captain F. Roy Williams; sanitary detachment, Major Willard Christopher.

Invitation was extended yesterday to the 159 Field Hospital, at one time connected with the 145th; to all members of the American Legion, to members of the Spanish War Veteran posts and to all former soldiers who have served under General Young to attend the funeral services and participate in the formation of the cortege.

Major King said last night that it is expected that the general's casket will be carried in the cortege on a flag-draped caisson. He added that the members of the American Legion and other veterans attending the service are requested to wear their uniforms.

All Ogden will pay respect to General Richard W. Young, next Thursday, when funeral services for the noted Utahn will be conducted at Salt Lake. At a meeting of the city committee this evening a resolution for the placing at half-mast of all flags in public places, over business houses and over all city property will be made.

Scowcrofts Entertain Employees at Hotel

Twenty-two grocery salesmen and eleven heads of the grocery department of John Scowcroft & Sons Co., were the guests today of the management at a luncheon at the Reed hotel cafe.

It was brought out at the luncheon that the Scowcroft company has done a business of $6,000,000 in 1919, and the payroll and expenses had totaled $300,000.

Women Rescued From Death By Phone Call

Four women were saved from suffocation at the home of Mrs. W. H. Watts, 214 Twenty-seventh street, early Sunday morning when a telephone call aroused Miss Nellie Watts.

In attempting to answer the phone, Miss Watts was overcome by gas fumes and fell to the floor.

The fall awoke other members of the family. A brother rushed to the home of Dr. Roy Wilson and procured aid.

The women were unconscious when rescued. Three were revived after a few minutes' work but Mrs. Watts was unconscious for several minutes after being taken from the house.

Late Saturday night the officials of the gas company according to members of the family, were informed of a leak in one of the pipes.

Judge at Poultry Show Declares Exhibitors Keep Down Cost of Eggs.

"Through this and similar shows arranged in the last few years by the American Poultry association, and its members, the price of eggs has been kept under the dollar mark per dozen, whereas the price would be $2, were it not for the shows."

This statement was made this morning by Judge O. L. McCord, who is today checking the various displays at the armory, preparatory to the opening of the poultry show tomorrow.

Judge McCord stated that through scientific management, a standard breed of chickens was being developed. Trap nests prove to chicken growers which hens are worthy of their keep and by careful breeding from steady, reliable, good laying hens, a standard of chickens long desired by American poultrymen is being achieved.

Regarding the show which will open tomorrow, Judge McCord said: "The one which will be held in Los Angeles next week will not be any better and cannot have a great deal more variety." The local show is composed mainly of standard breeds of poultry, with little regard shown fancy species of a frank nature.

One of the features of the show is the uniform wire caging arrangements. A tag bearing the name and address of the owner, the leg band and entry number, was proclaimed by Judge McCord to be an innovation in mid-western poultry shows.

No winners of the various varieties have yet been picked. The chickens present a beautiful appearance, having been carefully groomed for the event. Probably the most beautiful birds from a color standpoint are the Blue Andalusians.

The majority of the displays bear evidence that the sort of birds portrayed in poultry catalogues exist in reality in this city.

AGED WOMAN RECOVERING AFTER TERRIBLE EXPOSURE TO ELEMENTS

Mrs. J. N. Kimball, aged 72 years, who was found on the river's edge near the Ogden Packing & Provision company at 4 o'clock yesterday by three boy scouts, after she had spent the night wandering in that vicinity, will recover unless complication arise, according to Dr. E. R. Dumke, attending physician.

Although the aged woman had suffered from the cold, it being thought at first that both legs, a foot, and a hand were frozen, amputation of the frost bitten members will not be necessary, Dr. Dumke declares.

The physician says that circulation was restored at midnight.

Mrs. Kimball disappeared Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The police were notified as were 500 boy scouts of the city.

Collin Lowder, Ernest Landis and Spencer Bennett were the scouts who found Mrs. Kimball. Upon locating the woman they notified the police. Mrs. Kimball is the wife of Attorney Kimball. Her two daughters, Josephine Kimball and Mrs. Shields, were at the hospital as soon as word was received that she had been found. Mrs. Louise Dyer of California, and Lieutenant Colonel N. J. Kimball, who is at present in Washington, were notified.

COMMUNITY COASTING PARTY THIS EVENING ON 27TH STREET HILL

Mrs. Ruth Watis Gwilliam, Miss Dorothy Wright, Miss Aileen Doon, Miss Gene Browning, Miss Kathryn Joyce, Miss Lophelia Runyan, Miss Gladys Rich, Miss Helen Rich, Miss Marian Wright, will be the young ladies in charge of the Community coasting party tonight on Twenty-seventh street hill. These young ladies will insure a good time and refreshments for all who attend. Mrs. A. P. Bigelow will have her home open for all assistance that she may be able to render to make the evening an enjoyable one for the party.

The center of attraction will be the bonfire about which the coffee and "hot dogs" will be served. Everyone, of course, is to wear real outdoor winter clothing and each one is to do all in his power to bring a sled or coaster or bob or schooner. As the sled supply in town is limited, owing to this being the first attempt to make a real sport of coasting in the city, it will be necessary for those attending to beg, borrow, or in any other manner secure a sled. The community service will pay rental to any boy for the use of his bob if he will bring it tonight.

Coasting parties have become very popular in other cities but as they are new to Ogden and as Ogdenites are not accustomed to outdoor winter sports staged as a community effort the party tonight will be interesting and memorable as the first attempt to utilize the natural advantages of this city for real healthful winter pleasure and exercise.

William Stephens, her husband, was the next witness and he gave a detailed story of the rumpus, insisting that Lethbridge was to blame, declaring that he struck the father. Stephens said he and his brother, George, had removed Lethbridge's furniture from his apartment to the hall because "Lethbridge had not paid his rent."

His father was in the hall, he said, and also his brother Frank when Lethbridge came tearing in. He was positive Lethbridge had tapped around his right hand.

"Do you know what the tape was for," his attorney asked him. "Yes."

"What was it for?" "It was to skin the face." The testimony of Frank Stephens was almost identical with that of the brother and he was being cross examined at the noon recess.

It developed today that while the rumpus was on in full blast at the apartment, a woman tenant seized a glass vase and wielded it with the threat: "If you strike Mr. Lethbridge, I'll strike you with this."

NATURE PAINTS CITY ESCAPE OF WOODARD WITH COATING OF FOG SPARKLE

Ogden was wrapped in beauty this morning. When citizens awoke from slumberland the entire city was covered with frozen fog which made a beauty spot of the city for hours. The trees in every part of town were decorated with a small coat of frost, which gave the trees the appearance of a flashy oil painting and sparkled in the sunshine.

Mother nature was the artist. Her painting was complete. The thermometer at the city hall registered four degrees above zero at 8:30 o'clock this morning, according to the weather man. Yesterday morning at the same hour the mercury stood at 7 above. The weather prediction for tonight and Tuesday is—fair and not so cold.

The action of the police department in connection with the escape of Roy Woodard, under sentence of the district court for participation in the mob demonstrations in Ogden on August 25, last, may be investigated by Judges A. W. Agge and A. E. Pratt. Such intimation was given by the judges this morning. It is said that no decision was reached early today as to what action would be taken.

Saturday night both judges of the district court before whom Woodard's cases were heard and who passed the sentences, expressed indignation at the action of the police department.

Judge Agge said that if such things were permitted by officials of the jail that the courts were useless. He said that a grand jury should be called to investigate such action.

Sergeant A. B. Jensen acting chief in the absence of the city S. E. Browning said that Woodard left on Christmas eve. He said Woodard and his family were both out of the city.

FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR VICTIM OF INTEREST CENTERS ON COMING WRESTLING MATCH

The Jack Harbortson-Ad Santel wrestling match, to be held at the Alhambra theatre on the night of January 19, is attracting widespread interest among followers of the game. There is a great demand for tickets, and although the tickets have not been placed on sale as yet, the committee has received several hundred requests for reservations. These requests are from all parts of the middle west.

Owing to the fact that both men are claimants for the world's middleweight championship title and that both men have enviable records in the game, it promises to be the greatest match ever staged in the Intermountain country.

It has been announced that the stage for the bout at the Alhambra will be arranged, that the view will be excellent from all parts of the house. A thousand ringside seats will be placed on sale and the men in charge have no doubt but what this will be a "S. R. O." event.

An excellent card of preliminaries are being arranged, but no announcements will be made until all parties have been lined up and a definite program can be stated.

Stockmen Here for Meeting About Elk

To discuss ways and means of transporting the cattle from Jackson's Hole, Wyoming, in order to release quantities of hay for the feeding of elk this winter, a number of stockmen from that vicinity arrived in Ogden this afternoon to meet with Supervisor McCale of the Teton forest.

Conditions of various apartment houses in the city are being investigated by the juvenile court. It is claimed that in some apartment houses that ventilation is poor, and sanitary conditions are very bad. In one instance, two men, a woman and a child were found to be occupying the same bed room. The juvenile court asserts that unless conditions pertaining to the housing problem are bettered that an epidemic of disease will occur.

Housing Problem Is Alarming, Court Says

Amia Broton, arrested last night on a charge of having liquor in his possession, forfeited bail in the sum of $100 in the city court this morning, when he failed to appear for trial. Broton was arrested by Sergeant A. B. Jensen.

When arrested Broton had three one-half quarts of whisky in his possession. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest on the recommendation of Attorney Royal Douglas.

WILLIAM AND FRANK STEPHENS TELL OF ARGYLE RUMPUS

All blame for the rumpus in the Argyle apartments December 19, which resulted in the arrest of William J. Stephens, Sr., and three sons, William, Frank and George, was placed upon William P. Lethbridge at the hearing before City Judge D. R. Roberts this morning when William J. Stephens, Jr., and Frank Stephens testified.

They testified, in substance, that Lethbridge entered the apartment "with fire in his eye and his right hand raised," that he struck William J. Stephens, Sr., with his fist and his head and that the sons then conducted Lethbridge out of the building.

The witnesses declared that Lethbridge resisted being taken from the building, but they denied they struck him or pulled his hair and said they did not know how he received a black eye.

Mrs. Lulu Stephens, who said she was the owner of the apartments, was the first witness for the defense. She related the discussion with regard to the increase in rent and said Lethbridge had told her she was a Bolshevik and a profiteer and that he would kick up the fight she ever saw.

William Stephens, her husband, was the next witness and he gave a detailed story of the rumpus, insisting that Lethbridge was to blame, declaring that he struck the father. Stephens said he and his brother, George, had removed Lethbridge's furniture from his apartment to the hall because "Lethbridge had not paid his rent."

His father was in the hall, he said, and also his brother Frank when Lethbridge came tearing in. He was positive Lethbridge had tapped around his right hand.

"Do you know what the tape was for," his attorney asked him. "Yes."

"What was it for?" "It was to skin the face." The testimony of Frank Stephens was almost identical with that of the brother and he was being cross examined at the noon recess.

It developed today that while the rumpus was on in full blast at the apartment, a woman tenant seized a glass vase and wielded it with the threat: "If you strike Mr. Lethbridge, I'll strike you with this."
