FINANCING FOR WOOL GROWERS MADE EASIER UNDER U. S. PLAN.

Wool producers of this district were to meet at the capitol in Salt Lake today to go over with a federal representative the plans devised by the government to assist the woolmen.

Under the United States warehouse act, the wool growers are given facilities which approach those enjoyed by other business men.

The act provides for the licensing of warehouses wherein wool will be stored. Warehouse receipts will be issued. These receipts can easily be negotiated by the grower, warehouseman, manufacturer or other depositor...

The receipt will have several points of value. In the first place it is issued by a warehouseman licensed by and bonded to the United States, who operates under government supervision a warehouse which has been found to be a suitable place for wool storage.

The Salt Lake meeting was called for the purpose of hearing the tentative rules and regulations for governing wool warehouses. The government wants a free discussion of the regulations with further suggestions from wool men.

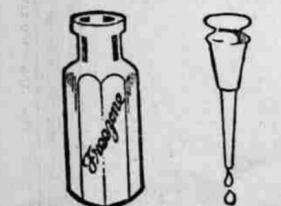

WONDERS OF HARMONY.

One of the most wonderful things of the world is a symphony orchestra. Nothing can rival the music which an orchestra of from fifty to one hundred trained musicians can produce...

Books can be written about the orchestra and many books have been so written, giving descriptions of the instruments that make up the whole, the tone of those instruments, how played and what parts in music are given to each instrument. Anybody interested in music can obtain much pleasure and information by perusal of such books.

A brief description of a symphony orchestra might be given as follows: The foundation of the organization is the string band. This group consists of the violins, the violas, the cellos and the bass violas.

Another group is made up of the so-called wood-wind instruments. This group includes the flutes, piccolos, oboes, clarinets, bassoons and the English horn.

Nearly everybody is familiar with the individual instruments of an orchestra. It is a pleasant game at a symphony concert to listen for the several varied sweet voices as the instruments sound the solo passages given to them in the course of the symphony.

VALUABLE SERVICE RENDERED COMMUNITY BY FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

A woman who did much volunteer nursing during the influenza epidemic last year and this year says she was surprised by the number of poorer homes she found to be without books, except the one which had come from Ogden's free library.

In many instances she found that the father and mother were not interested in reading. In many instances they were working virtually all of their waking hours. They did not have the desire nor the money to buy books.

But the children had developed a desire to read through the interest aroused by the teacher at school and they were satisfying this desire through the facilities offered by the library.

What a misfortune it would have been if the children of such homes were denied the facilities of a free public library!

It is when we learn of such conditions that the real service of a library becomes apparent.

The American Library association finds that the public libraries of the United States receive an income of only $16,500,000 a year, while an adequate income would be six or seven times that amount.

A nationwide campaign in the interest of public libraries is to be undertaken soon. It will hit Ogden where there is ample field for enlargement. The Carnegie library in Ogden is doing a great public service with limited facilities and it will not be long, it is hoped, until the library is placed in position to supply the increasing demands that are made upon it.

FEDERAL AID TO SOLDIERS.

In almost every community in the United States there is a discharged soldier, sailor, marine, or war nurse, suffering from some injury, or ailment, which dates back to service with the fighting forces.

Often this injury or ailment has made it hard or impossible for them to fit in where they did formerly. They are handicapped and need help, not charity, but mental and physical reconstruction. In many cases such people unfortunately keep their troubles to themselves. They are reluctant to seek aid or advice, for fear their friends might consider them weak.

If you do, encourage him to take his troubles to the government. The war risk insurance bureau and the United States public health service are especially anxious to get in touch with such individuals. The public health service has set up a chain of reconstruction bases throughout the country for beneficiaries of the war risk bureau. These are not army hospitals, nor is there army discipline in connection with them, but rather a system of hospitals similar to the general hospital in large cities except that the treatment is free and goes much further than in the ordinary hospital.

Recreation, vocational training and wholesome entertainment are combined with treatment. While men are being bodily rebuilt they have the opportunity of learning some useful occupation, or pursuing academic studies. They are taught not only to find themselves, but to better their condition. The environment is as homelike as it is possible to make it.
