

March the First

We welcome the first of each new month. It is always the occasion of new people adopting the "Cash and Carry" method of buying their foods.

Our pleasure in meeting new people who are starting the cash way is not altogether because of our gain in dollars and cents. It affords us greatest pleasure because of the benefit to the individual and the fact that such people are loyal supporters and appreciative of our efforts.

Make your start March the first. Make it the way that counts the most to you in savings. Make it the Skaggs' "Cash and Carry" way.

SPECTACULAR SNOW VISITS THE CITY OF OGDEN

One of the most spectacular snow storms of recent weeks visited Ogdene this morning. Hugs flakes, resembling large, downy feathers, cascaded the cheeks of workmen, hurrying to their work.

While the snow that fell on the pavements of the city immediately melted, it is thought that the colder air in the mountains caused a quantity of the moisture to pack and, although the heavy flakes fell for nearly two hours so thick that vision was nearly obscured, no traffic accidents were reported.

A warm, drizzling rain that followed the snowfall removed practically all traces of the snow.

"There seems to be considerable misapprehension concerning the rights of a citizen to the road adjoining his property," said Mayor Frank Francis today. "In the outlying districts of the city there are a number of roads streets which have been fenced across by the owners of property situated at the end of the road or street. Having been accustomed to non-interference they have grown to think that the road actually is part of their own property, and such is most emphatically not the case. So long as all the residents of an outlying district find no fault or hardship with one another by reason of such practice the city commissioners are not called upon to remedy any body as to what is the law in the matter. But the law is that the road is the property of the city and not of any private citizen or group of private citizens. We have had occasion to know that in one instance lately had blood been caused by one man claiming a right to fence the road by his property. He is totally in the wrong and all who do as he has done are in the wrong."

John S. Lewis presided over a luncheon at the Weber Club today attended by members of the aviation committee of the Ogdene Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Frank Francis and city commissioners Ward and Flygare, city engineer, J. M. Tracy and County Commissioners M. P. Brown, John Child and D. H. Ensign when the whole matter of securing a large tract of land especially adapted for a flying field and as a link to the city-county park system was informally discussed. The present intention is to procure, if possible, a field that will answer all aviation purposes for federal government and commercial planes.

CITY APPLICATION FOR WATER FILING IS APPROVED

According to word received by Mayor Frank Francis yesterday Ogdene City's application for water filing at South Fork has been approved by the state engineer. The city is allowed six months in which to start work on the claim. Sufficient work has already been done, however, to hold the filing for a year.

Under the project the city plans to store 8000 acre feet of water by building a masonry dam across the narrow pass at the upper end of South Fork canyon. A flow of 50 cubic feet per second is expected by the city. This water is to be piped to Ogdene, according to the plans, to increase the present supply of water for domestic use.

The only protest against granting the application of Ogdene City for the water filing was from the Huntsville Irrigation company.

U. S. Life Insurance to Be Paid in Lump Sum

That United States government life insurance, converted from the term insurance of ex-service men, may now be paid in a lump sum at death, is the information received today by the local home service bureau of the Red Cross.

The statement received today also indicates that an additional list of beneficiaries has been arranged and that ex-soldiers may make over their insurance to almost any relative, or person who has acted as parent for a period of over one year.

Parents Called to Court For Underfeeding Child

Two hard biscuits and a piece of bologna, given an eight-year-old girl by her parents as a school luncheon, caused the youngster to appropriate more substantial food from her classmates, according to word from the juvenile court. The principal of the school investigated the case and found that the food was unfit for the child. He then made a complaint in the juvenile court against the child's parents.

The father of the child, a machinist, is reported to be making $160 a month. The parents of the child will appear before the juvenile court Wednesday.
