SEARCHING FOR CORBIN.

GREAT EFFORTS MAKING

Boise, Nov. 29.—For nine days E. Corbin of the Union Savings, Building & Trust company has been missing, and for the past week search parties have been scouring the hills of northern Idaho for traces of him. Corbin was out on a hunting trip with his friend, Harry Lemberon, and left the party in charge of game, but being a strong man and an able hunter, he was gone for two days before his absence caused any worry to his hunting companion. With Big Springs as a center, parties have scoured the woods, but find no traces of the missing man or his horse, and word was received here yesterday that the soldiers from Yellowstone park were to be dispatched that day to assist E. H. Lee of San Francisco, who is associated with Corbin in business, arrived in Boise Sunday, and immediately left for Big Springs, where in company with J. Barber, an old hunter and an Indian trapper, he will organize parties to assist in the hunt.

IDAHO'S HOMESTEAK; EASTERN MAN PRAISES

Boise, Nov. 29.—George E. Roth, collector of customs for the city of Rochester, N. Y., and one of the owners of the famous Homestead mine near Neal, Idaho, who has been stopping in the city for a few days on a return trip from his property. Although much interested in the various industries of the state and being the means by which much eastern capital has been brought here, his greatest interest lies in the mines of the Idaho hills. In speaking of the investments which he has made in the Homestead mine he said:
"We have just installed a ten-stamp mill and cyanide works at the Homestead mine and will commence to ship concentrates within the next month. We have a five foot vein of ore which runs about $18 to the ton, and we figure that the mine will pay and pay well from this time on."
