OGDEN PUSHING AHEAD.

There has been a dull season, but in Ogden the return of a most prosperous period is seen in the plans now being perfected for extensive building within the city and the heavy railroad reconstruction to be started in the country tributary to Ogden.

There are half a dozen large business blocks under consideration, one of which is to be a six-story structure.

Only yesterday a Salt Lake man, with business connections in this city, made the initial move toward the erection of a four-story building in this city, to cost $75,000.

The Equitable and New York insurance companies, after an exhaustive study of conditions in this city and vicinity, ordered their agents to make loans on Ogden business property. This is the only city of 30,000 population in the United States where these companies have sanctioned the granting of loans. These companies have confidence in Ogden and their confidence will inspire others.

A local firm is laying the foundation for a manufacturing industry which should employ over 100 men and women within a short time. The machinery has been installed and the plant is now going through the preliminary testing.

All these things are making for good times and a bigger Ogden.

MOFFAT ROAD BOOST.

The Salt Lake papers tell a story of love and affection between the Moffat road and the Harriman system, by virtue of which the Harriman lines have stepped aside and are to invite the Moffat road to build to Utah.

If the story is true, then the millennium has arrived in the affairs of railroads.

The substance of the story is that the head of the Harriman system has withdrawn all opposition to the placing of the bonds of the Moffat road on the New York market, and in return the Moffat road has entered into a traffic agreement by which it promises to be a Harriman feeder.

If true, how can an agreement of that kind be made effective or binding, even though the law allowed such compacts? The promise of the financial promoter of the Moffat road that he will endeavor to turn the through traffic of the road over to the Harriman people can have no binding force on the Moffat railroad.

Why the Harriman people should be concerned over the Moffat road is not made evident. The prospects are the road will never be built west of the Colorado line, as the country through which the survey was made presents great engineering difficulties, the solving of which calls for a flood of money beyond the prospective ability of the road to return interest thereon.

There have been two roads already built into Salt Lake, along lines of survey which were dictated by whims rather than solid business judgment and neither one has paid and perhaps never will. To repeat the mistake a third time would be reaching the limit of financial blundering in railroad building.

BULLDOGS ARE DANGEROUS.

A vicious bulldog is a dangerous animal. Here is an account of a dog making an attack on a horse, taken from a San Francisco paper:

"Charley, a large bulldog, sprang at the nose of a horse attached to a Renown bakery wagon standing at Eddy street, near Market, yesterday morning and, fastening his teeth in the nostrils of the terrified animal, slung for several minutes. Superintendent A. J. Knopf and Special Officer C. F. Kidder of the Pacific Humane society finally succeeded in making the dog release his hold. Dr. Edward Creely of 1818 Market street attended the horse, and said that it will probably have to be shot.

"George O'Leary of Twentieth street and Potrero avenue, a dog trainer, held the dog in a leash at the time, and was arrested for cruelty to animals. The dog was also locked up in the cellar of the City Prison, and was subsequently sent to the pound.

"According to the police, Joe Pine of Twenty-second and Hampshire streets, is the owner of the dog, and the animal is said to be one of the most vicious fighters on the coast.

"The driver of the bakery wagon, whose name was not ascertained by the police, was so startled when the horse reared that he fell back and smashed a score of pies. A big crowd gathered while the dog swung from the horse's neck. The horse kicked with its forefeet and neighed; a bartender came out with a siphon bottle and squirted nearly a quart of seltzer down the dog's throat; another man held a lighted cigar to the animal's mouth. Nothing would induce the brute to let go his murderous hold until Knopf and Kidder hammered him with their clubs."

The Ogden city administration acted wisely when it passed an ordinance requiring bulldogs to be muzzled. The animals are instinctively a fighting machine and the most vicious of dogs and will set upon man or beast and persist in their mad fury until weakened or killed by clubbing. Running at large, without muzzles, they are more dangerous than hungry wolves on a prairie.

THE FUTURE OF ALASKA.

It is becoming increasingly evident that the government will have to take a hand in the development of the Alaska coal fields. For years to come any private investment in that territory will be regarded with suspicion, however honest it be or however closely it follow the law. And yet the loss sustained through failure to utilize the resources of the country is tremendous. The government feels it in purchasing coal, the people feel it in the higher prices they must pay for fuel, and the entire nation feels it in being denied the trade that would immediately follow the opening of the territory to industry and population.

How absurd it is that now, forty-four years from the time we obtained possession of the territory, we are still wrangling over a way to begin the development of the wonderful coal beds it contains.

That the laws which have kept the territory closed should be changed is certain, but there has been so much trouble that even after new statutes are enacted, every man who endeavors to dig coal or help build a railroad in Alaska will be denounced as a grafter, says the Sacramento Union. There has been a great deal of dishonesty in connection with the filing of mineral claims, but hundreds of persons who are within both their moral and their legal rights have been made to suffer when they should have been protected.

That is a field in which the government might try its hand at railroad construction and operation. Let it open the way from the coast to the coal deposits and thereafter encourage mining under regulations that would guarantee capital security. Only by an enormous expenditure of money can the coal be obtained and the riches of the territory be made a part of the national wealth.

LIEUTENANT OF NAVY COMMITS SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Lieutenant Charles Brillhart, of the United States Navy, was found dead from a bullet wound at the Hotel Astor late today. There were no circumstances to contradict the coroner's opinion that the case was one of suicide. In one of his hands, which were crossed over his body as it lay in a chair, he clutched a .22-caliber revolver, with all but one of the six chambers loaded.

The bullet from the empty chamber had struck his right temple, made its way through his head and was found on the floor behind him.

Letter to Young Wife. To Mrs. Charles Brillhart who is said to be his bride of eight months, the lieutenant had sealed, addressed and stamped a letter which the coroner forwarded to her without opening it at Washington, D. C.

Lieutenant Brillhart arrived at the Astor shortly before noon Tuesday, without baggage. No special attention was paid to the guest and nothing was heard of him until a maid complained that she could not get into his room. Erasmund C. forced and the body was found as described.

Complete Identification. Identification was made from a checkbook showing a balance of $202 on a Washington bank, cards and a signet ring.

An autopsy will be performed. No one at the hotel could be found who heard the shot, but it was the coroner's opinion that the lieutenant had been dead 12 hours. He was apparently between 35 and 40 years of age.

BUNKER HILL STRIKES A ROCK

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Aug. 4.—As the steamer Bunker Hill, bound from New York to Boston with 275 passengers aboard, was proceeding through Vineyard Sound in the starlight early today, the vessel suddenly ran on a rock off Nobska Point. The passengers awakened by the impact, scrambled on deck in their night clothes, but when they found there was no immediate danger, they returned to their berths.

The Bunker Hill backed off easily in a short time. The pumps were then set to work and the steamer, leaking badly, proceeded to Vineyard Haven harbor, where she remained for several hours. Soon after sunrise the passengers were transferred to the steamer Uncatena, of the Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard and New Bedford line and taken to Wood's Hole and then to Boston by train.

While no official statement has been made, an officer of the Bunker Hill stated today that the ship was trying to avoid striking a tow of barges.

Freed of her 275 passengers, the Bunker Hill started for New York. Although leaking considerably, the ship's pumps were able to dispose of the water taken in.

The Bunker Hill left New York yesterday afternoon. Its crew numbers about thirty-five. A year ago the steamer was rebuilt for passenger service, previous to that time having been a freight and passenger ship. The Bunker Hill is a sister ship of the steamer Massachusetts, which Wednesday night ran into the schooner Susan Pickering, in Long Island Sound, only a few miles from where the Bunker Hill struck the rocks early today.

WOMAN IS IMPALED ON PICTURE HOOK

Sharon, Pa., Aug. 4.—Mrs. David Frankovich, while dusting pictures on the wall, fell from a step-ladder. She threw out her arms in an effort to save herself and a large picture hook in the wall penetrated her right arm, holding her suspended from the floor. When neighbors, who heard the woman's screams, rescued her, the

JOHN W. GATES NOT IN IMMEDIATE DANGER

Paris, Aug. 4.—According to those in attendance, the condition of John W. Gates was unchanged at noon from the state observed late last night.

Last evening Mr. Gates recovered partly from the sinking of the afternoon while he was so pronounced that it seemed that the end was near.

The relapse followed a chill and left the patient weaker and with increased congestion of the lungs.

In spite of this, Dr. Gros and his associates did not despair of the outcome and said that at least there was no immediate danger of a fatal termination of the disease.

SUCCESS OF THE RESCUE WORK

Washington, Aug. 4.—Mine rescue apparatus has passed the experimental stages and is now an important factor in reducing the toll of life and loss of property resultant from fires and explosions in mines. In the opinion of John W. Paul, the mine rescue expert of the federal bureau of mines.

Mine rescue parties should not number less than five, all of whom should be well trained in the use of rescue apparatus. Four such crews should be located at each large mine, two outside and two inside crews.

Through the campaign of education for rescue crews, inaugurated by the bureau, it is hoped to have well trained crews located in the mining centers throughout the country in the near future.

MORE BONES ARE FOUND IN MAINE

Havana, Aug. 4.—The work of removing the wreck of the battleship Maine entered an interesting phase this afternoon when there was begun the process of dissecting the shattered and distorted remains of the vessel by a gas blast apparatus.

This is operated by one man and projects a tiny flame of intense heat and brilliancy against the steel, melting apart the heaviest deck beams and side frames in less than five minutes.

Some bones were found today embedded in the snarl of wreckage in the bow, but it will be impossible to extract them at present.

is asked for in a bill introduced by Representative Jackson of Kansas. Mr. Jackson wants the president to invite all nations to send delegates to Washington in 1912 to consider the possibility, desirability and feasibility of recording all elementary sounds of the human voice, which may be used in human speech or expression of ideas, and of formulating a graphic sound notation or alphabet for all such sounds, which alphabet shall be adapted to the use of every language, dialect and form of human vocal expression, and shall be suitable for writing, printing, engraving and other forms of presentation.

In preparing this "universal scientific alphabet," Mr. Jackson particularly asks that the views of all "linguists, phoneticians, philologists, lexicographers, orthoepists, orthographers, translators, transliterators, teachers of languages, artists, oculists, physicians, missionaries, neurologists, printers, typists, linotypists, stenographers, photographers, and typofounders" be taken into consideration.

LEISHMAN GOES TO THE GERMAN COURT

Berlin, Aug. 4.—Germany has accepted John G. A. Leishman as ambassador of the United States at Berlin. Emperor William on receiving the proposal of Washington, telegraphed his reply to the foreign office from the grand duchy of Mecklenburg, where he is touring. The action taken is almost unprecedented in promptness.

It can be stated that Major von Kiderlen Waechter, the German secretary of foreign affairs, who has a personal acquaintance with Mr. Leishman, is much pleased with his appointment.

Mr. Leishman's long service as a diplomat qualified him particularly in the eyes of the emperor, who several times has spoken of the need of an experienced ambassador for the Berlin post. The selection also is very acceptable to German society, in which Mr. Leishman and his family have many friends.

WHY PITCHERS ARE BEGINNING TO HIT

Minneapolis, Aug. 4.—The secret of improved hitting among the pitchers of the Minneapolis American Association team is out. Every morning and afternoon, after the game, the sixteen of the local team can be seen sweating the ball at practice batting. This is why the pitchers are making themselves felt with the stick these days, students of the game say.

Some of the fielders, it is said, took the pitchers to task in a friendly club house chat not long ago and it was not long before the argument waxed into practice. When the infielders saw what was going on, they sought to get into the practice batting column. Not so. The pitchers refused to throw to anybody but a pitcher and nobody was permitted to bat but a pitcher. So the pitchers are beginning to hit.

PUSHING A WHEELBARROW CURES HIS RHEUMATISM

Centralia, Ill., Aug. 4.—Rufus Clark, a septuagenarian of Chester, arrived here today with a wheelbarrow which he had pushed from Chester, Ill., a distance of 65 miles.

He said he had made the trip as a cure for the rheumatism, and that he is now cured. He was 13 days on the way.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Twenty-eight persons were injured late last night, six of them seriously, in a collision between an automobile and a horse-drawn omnibus on one of the roads at "Spir Farm," Whitelaw Reid's estate.

The omnibus, filled with pleasure-seekers returning from an outing, was "sideswiped" by the automobile. Both vehicles turned turtle.

In central Kansas the railroads have suffered greatly, while between Clay Center and Phillipsburg the tracks of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific have been washed out. The through trains are being detoured over other lines.
