Will Be Three Stories With a Frontage of 100 Feet and a Depth of 140 Feet—Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows Decide to Erect a Beautiful Structure for Lodge and Business Purposes.

A three-story building of attractive architectural design, one of the largest structures in the city, is to be erected jointly by the Knights of Pythias and the Odd Fellows of Ogden, on the ground now owned by the former lodge, north of the Baptist parsonage, on Grant avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-third streets.

The decision to build was reached yesterday afternoon, after a conference of the building committees of the two lodges.

About three years ago the Knights purchased two pieces of land on Grant avenue, with a frontage of 104 feet. What is to be known as "Fraternal Hall" will be erected on this ground at an outlay of $50,000. The structure is to be of brick, three stories, 100 feet front by 140 feet deep. The first floor is to be cut up into business blocks, the second floor is to be devoted to offices and rooms and the third to lodge halls. There will be a solid division wall, with the exception of the third story, where an arch will connect the halls of the lodges. One of the store rooms may be built for a garage.

The building committee for the Knights is made up of three members, J. M. Forristall, L. N. Meid and H. L. Taylor. P. F. Kirkendall is chairman of the I. O. O. F. committee.

The tearing down of the dwellings now on the building plot will be commenced not later than the first of the year and by spring the foundation will be ready for the brick work.

TWO HORSES ARE ELECTROCUTED

Exposed Wire on a Pole on Hudson Avenue Kills Animals—First Horse Was Thought to Have Broken Its Neck Until the Second Accident Disclosed the Deadly Electric Current.

Within less than 24 hours of each other two horses were electrocuted by a broken wire from the line of the Utah Light & Power company at the rear of the Proudfit Sporting Goods store on Twenty-fourth street. The first horse was killed at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and at the time it was thought that its neck was broken by a fall. It was not until the second horse was killed today and the wire was found that the cause of the first horse's death was explained.

George James was the owner of the horse killed last night. He is working on the site of the new Kiesel building at Twenty-fourth street and Hudson avenue and has been tying his horse to a pole at the rear of the Proudfit store. Shortly after 4 o'clock Patrolmen Peterson and Herrick were attracted by a prostrate horse and upon investigation found that it was dead.

At that time it was believed that the horse had slipped on the ice and had broken its neck, and no close investigation was made.

John Van Zweden, a farmer living at 535 Third street, drove a team to town this morning and tied up at the same pole. While he was doing some purchasing pedestrians passing along Hudson avenue noticed that one of the team was acting strangely and its team-mate was also excited. Some one mentioned the fact in the Exchange bar and a number of men went to the place.

At that time the horse was lying on the ground but the other was prancing about in a wild manner. Abe Kershaw, who was standing near, attempted to get the fallen horse on its feet and, not knowing the cause of the trouble, grasped the bridle and was sent sprawling to the ground.

When the cause of the trouble was discovered they moved the wire, but the horse was dead and the team-mate had been severely shocked by contact with the charged body.

The wire formerly led to the ground and was inclosed in a bed of wood, but evidently horses had destroyed the insulation by biting at the covering until the horse owned by James was able to get its teeth in the naked wire. When the second horse was killed the wire was hanging parallel to the pole and the marks of the horses' teeth could be seen in the insulation. Later an employe of the light company deadened the wire by grounding it.

DEFENDS THE RIGHTS OF WOMEN

Editor Standard: A morning paper carries an article signed "Subscriber" that should double the vote of any woman aspirant for membership on the school board, likewise it should add materially to Wade Johnson's vote.

If women of the married variety are so miserably unbusiness-like and if they should be absolutely absorbed in caring for their children, how, pray, can they have sufficient business acumen to manage the important affairs of a home, how disburse the family purse, establish a systematic working of a concern more intricate in its requirements than any bank or corporation? If one questions the statement, give a woman ten days' training in a man's business and give that man ten days' training in the business of making an "allowance" do the family buying and at the same time running the home, caring for said children physically, morally and withal being alert and companionable for the very business like "other half" and maintaining harmony throughout. Any woman—and I here cite Mrs. Coolidge, who is alert enough to make a successful home builder and at the same time keep a broad interest in public affairs is well fitted for the position. If Ogden refuses to endorse this call of womanhood for recognition, let us blot

STOCKMAN IS KICKED BY HORSE

Lying in a stock car in an unconscious condition due to the kicks of a stallion, W. Marr, 59 years old, a resident of Woodrider, Nev., was found by a freight crew last night at 6 o'clock in the local yards and rushed to the Dee hospital, where he is in a serious condition.

Marr had been east to secure the stallion and was accompanying the horse west to care for him on the trip. When he entered the car last night just before the train was ready to leave the animal made a lunge at him and knocked him down. The man was being kicked and pawed when rescuers came to his aid and beat the horse away with clubs. Marr has several cuts and bruises about the head and body.
