NEW LIGHT REGARDING MRS. CLAUDIA HAINS.

Flushing, N. Y., Jan. 5.—New light was thrown on the relations of William E. Annis and Mrs. Claudia Hains today, when the defendant, under examination, declared that several years ago, in Marlborough, Mass., he became aware that Annis and Mrs. Hains had stopped at the same hotel. Questioned by Justice Crane, Thornton Hains said he never spoke of the relations between Mrs. Hains and Annis to Captain Hains, and had remained silent on the matter until last spring.

The fabric of the case of the defense was badly torn today when Thornton Hains, under sharp examination by the state's attorney, made many damaging admissions. His jaunty manner quickly disappeared in the fire of the prosecutor's interrogations, and several times he admitted that he could not remember the minor details of the same testimony he had given yesterday.

Once, in plaintive voice, Hains said: "I can't remember; I never was five months in prison and I am worn out."

PLANS FOR REBUILDING OF REGGIO AND MESSINA

Rome, Jan. 5.—Plans for the rebuilding of Reggio and Messina already are being discussed in detail. Messina is the second city of Sicily. It is estimated that about $15,000,000 will be required to rebuild the city. It will take about $8,000,000 to rebuild Reggio for 25,000 people. In any event many years must elapse before the terrorized population can be induced to return and live in the stricken territory.

Another project is to transfer Messina provisionally to Milasessa, a small town near Messina.

It has been decided to re-convene the Italian parliament on Friday or Saturday to consider measures of relief. Three members of the chamber of deputies perished in the earthquake.

The Pope today visited the wounded in the Vatican hospital, accompanied by Dr. Giuseppe, his private physician.

Food Knowledge on the Farm.

With the Rural Free Delivery, of mail, the farmer is as closely in touch with what is going on in the world, as his city brother.

What to eat, in order to get the best out of one's brain and body, is as important for the modern farmer as the manufacturer, business man or professional worker. An ill farmer writes:

"I am a farmer and was troubled with chronic indigestion for two years—suffered great agony and could find no permanent relief from medicines. A friend suggested that I quit using so much starchy foods, which are the principal cause of intestinal indigestion. I began to use Grape-Nuts and have continued with most gratifying results."

"Grape-Nuts food has built me up wonderfully. I gained 15 lbs. the first four weeks that I used it. My general health is better than before, my brain is clear, my nerves strong."

"For breakfast and dinner I have Grape-Nuts with cream, a slice of crisp toast, a soft boiled egg and a cup of Postum. My evening meal is made of Grape-Nuts and cream, alone."

"This diet gives me good rest every night and I am now well again."

TOUCH OF WILD WEST LIFE IN CHICAGO

SHOOTING SCRAPE AT RAILWAY CROSSING.

Fight With Four Policemen in Automobile on Principal Thoroughfare.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—John L. Smith was the principal actor in a shooting scrape with a railway crossing towerman and an ensuing fight with four policemen in an automobile on a South Chicago thoroughfare yesterday.

The big touring car in which several men were struggling for a time as it went dashing up the street, with scores of people watching the encounter, eventually landed in a ditch. Smith and his chauffeur were arrested.

This bit of wild western life transferred to a Chicago suburb started when the towerman let down the barriers as a freight train approached. Smith kept his machine going, it is charged, breaking the barriers, and shot at the railway employe, who had climbed down and pursued him. Policemen chased the automobile, climbed into it and in the running fight, one man managed to steer the machine into the ditch, which ended the battle.

Preserving Flour.

Much interest has been shown of late by the army and navy authorities in a new method of preserving flour by means of compression. With hydraulic pressure apparatus the flour is squeezed into the form of bricks, and experiments are reported to have shown that the pressure destroys all forms of larval life, thus preserving the flour from the ravages of insects, while it is equally secure from mold.

Three hundred pounds of compressed flour occupy the same space as 100 pounds of flour in the ordinary state.

MENACING LETTERS RECEIVED BY WRIGHT

SENT BY PERSONS DISPLEASED WITH GOMPERS' DECISION.

Justice Says He Has Not Been Menaced For His Shroud Yet and Is Not Afraid of Attack.

Washington, Jan. 6.—"I have not been measured for my shroud yet, nor can I say I am afraid to go home in the dark," commented Justice Daniel T. Wright, when asked about the hundreds of threatening letters sent to him by persons who were displeased over his recent decision sentencing Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison to prison for contempt of court.

"Of such communications, I have received a waste basketful," said the justice, "but I am losing no sleep over the threats contained in them. I am amused, rather than terrified."

One of the writers declares that he will arrive in five days to kill the justice, while another asserts that "Your decision will be a very unhealthy affair for you before we are done with you. The undertaker will have a job down your way before long and you will be the chief mourner."

Many of the letters sent to the chief justice contain insulting comments on the decision.

The judge says he is consigning all these communications to the waste basket.

BASEBALL WAR IS ABOUT TO CLOSE

Cincinnati, Jan. 7.—Unless something happens tomorrow morning, the clouds that have hovered over the baseball situation will have passed away and there will be no baseball war. The finishing touches of an otherwise interesting meeting will be made by the National Baseball Commission tomorrow.

Today the commission, in conjunction with the national association, decided to accede to the requests of the eastern league and the American association in all but one particular, that being that the two leagues be made a third party to the national agreement and be given representation on the national commission. The eastern league and American association gained the privilege of being put in a class higher than class A and this was allowed. The class is termed Double A.

The Pacific Coast league is also raised to this class. It was agreed that they be allowed to govern their internal affairs, although still a member of the national association; that they be allowed to draft from Class A leagues and those beneath Class A, under certain conditions laid down by the national commission and that they be allowed certain territory rights to be decided upon by the commission tomorrow.

While the commission and the minors were having their hearings the big league magnates, as well as the managers of the smaller clubs, were busy trying to deal. Charles Ebbetts, president of the Brooklyn club of the National league, announced that he had signed James Sebring, the player reinstated by the commission Monday, providing that he pays $350 fine. Manager Clark Griffiths of the Cincinnati team announced that he secured Frank Rothen from Milwaukee for a player and a cash consideration. It was announced later that Griffiths had purchased Catcher Hostetter of the St. Louis team for a cash amount, and that Hostetter would figure in the Roth deal.

Jap View of Baseball.

One strong-arm gentleman called a Pitch is hired to throw. Another gentleman called a Stop is responsible for whatever that Hon. Pitch throw to him, so he protect himself from wounding by soft pillows which he wear on hands. Another gentleman called a Striker stand in front of that Stop and hold up club to fright off that Hon. Pitch from angry rage of throwing things. Hon. Pitch in hand hold one baseball of an unripe condition of hardness. He raises that arm lofty—then twist—a sudden—He shoot them bullet-ball straight to breast of Hon. Stop. Hon. Striker swing club for vain effort. It is a miss and then dear my ball shoot Hon. Stop in gloves. "Struck once!" decried Hon. Emperor, a person who is there to gossip about it in a loud voice.—H. Togo, in Atlantic.

Getting Out of Tight Place.

When the late William Windom, secretary of the treasury, dropped dead at a chamber of commerce dinner in New York some years ago, just as he was speaking, there were but two reporters present, says the Saturday Evening Post. The others had written their stories, sent down their copy and the text of the speeches, and gone to more interesting places. In one newspaper office the news did not get in until a minute before time for going to press. Two columns of Windom's speech were in type in the form. As it was too late to make over and catch the mass, an enterprising editor wrote: "The Hon. William Windom dropped dead at the chamber of commerce dinner last night. If he had not dropped dead he would have spoken as follows: Thus it stood until they could make over."

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—Senator and Mrs. Smoot with their son, H. E. Smoot, are due to arrive in Washington this afternoon and it is probable that the question of the marshaling will be taken up between Senators Smoot and Sutherland and Representative Howell within the next few days, with a view to agreement upon one of the many candidates to be recommended to the president. Sad Fate of a Human Sign.

"I found that 300-pound dentist sign of color who used to stand on Sixth avenue, near Twenty-third street," said the girl, "and I was sorry I found him. He was standing on a corner of Canal street, 'way down in an unimportant neighborhood, with hardly any body looking at him. Just a few short-skirted children and some of us who were passing in the car."

"He still is a dentist sign, but it is pitiful the way he has gone down in the scale of taking the looking at. He was dressed differently, too. Instead of the Uncle Sam stripes he affected on Sixth avenue, he wore a dinky light blue suit, with stripes running around the bottom of his coat and his trousers. I think he recognized me. He looked my way as I passed and smiled apologetically, I thought."—New York Press.

Passing the Time.

From an eastern city comes a sad story of a pawnbroker. He was enjoying a beauty sleep when a furious knocking at the street door brought him to the window with a jerk. "What's the matter?" he shouted. "Come down," demanded the knock.

"But—" "Come down!"

The man of many nephews hastened downstairs and peeped around the door.

"Now, sir?" he demanded, "I want to know the time," said the reveler.

"Do you mean to say you knocked me up for that? How dare you?"

The midnight visitor looked injured. "Well, you've got my watch," he said. —Aronaut.

Couldn't Believe It.

"Er—er—this can't be the place," stammered the city visitor, as he dropped his bags on the platform and hurriedly wiped his glasses. "Here, my good man, is this Caryville and is that magnificent building up there among those trees the Cary house?"

"Wal, I guess as how you've got it about right, stranger. What's bittin' you?" answered the native, with true country curiosity.

"Oh, I was sure I made a mistake," said the visitor, laughing hysterically, "because those buildings and the scenery tally exactly with the descriptions and pictures in the Summer Vacationists' Catalogue."—Puck.

Church Tower His Pulpit.

Sunday last being "Feast Sunday," the vicar of Selston, the Rev. C. Harrison, hit upon the novel idea of preaching from the church tower. The greater part of the congregation seated themselves in the churchyard, while many stood on the highway. The reverend gentleman took as his text, "The Builders and the Towns," and, possessing a strong voice, his remarks were heard distinctly by the large crowd of colliers and others gathered together, the weather being all that could be desired.—London Evening Standard.
