IDENTITY OF HOLD-UP GANG IS AT LAST ESTABLISHED

Fitzgerald Is None Other Than the "Combination Kid" of the Nat Reiss Carnival Company at the Four County Fair Last Fall—Gang Broke Into a Car Containing Liquor and Candy and Had a Great Time Coming Over the Cut-Off

The real identity of the six desperadoes now in the custody of the police is being gradually established. Although they have one and all confessed to portions of the crimes charged against them and four have admitted that they are ex-convicts, their real names and former occupations have not been learned.

The first to be recognized of the six, was the one who gave his name as Fitzgerald, but who is none other than "Combination Kid," the popular "hooky" with the Nat Reiss Carnival company which played a week's engagement at the Four-County fair last fall. "Combination Kid" was much in evidence during the races and many of the local sports followed his tips on the races, more or less to their subsequent sorrow. He was formerly a "candy butcher" with the Sells-Botto shows and has followed the circus business for a number of years, being known at one time as "Kid Glove Pete," the gentlemanly Shetland pony chariot driver with Lemon Brothers' circus, and later with Barnum & Bailey in the tour of Europe.

Fitzgerald admitted to the police this morning that he was present at the holdup of B. G. Morehart, the Montello fireman, and that he held the overcoat of two persons, "to him unknown," while the attack upon Morehart was made. He did this voluntarily when it was made known to him that two innocent men are already charged with the crime and are confined at the Montello jail.

Morehart arrived in Ogden this morning with Constable R. J. Davidson of Montello, and as soon as he laid eyes on the men held here, he recognized them as the ones who had attacked him. Morehart's face is badly discolored and he has a slight wound on the back of his left ear as well as a scratch on the cheek. His countenance appears as if it had been battered with a club although the victim states that he remembers but one blow. Martin, the man suspected of having assaulted him, inquired what Morehart remembered of the occurence, and, when told, denied that any club or instrument other than a good, hard fist had been used in the job. "Slim" Joseph would not admit any connection with the holdup, and it is thought now that Martin and another made the attack while Fitzgerald waited for them near the spot as a lookout and to hold their overcoats.

The men told Constable Davidson this morning that while he was searching them in the sandhouse, the watch, which he was unable to find upon them, was neatly concealed in the sand above his head.

"Slim" was evidently the banker of the gang as he pawned the watch in Ogden for $10 and had some $25 on his person when he reached at the station.

The officers suggested that the prisoners return. Morehart's watch, whereupon "Slim" asked his companions if they had any money. They replied that they had none, and "Slim" then stated that he would furnish the necessary $11 with which to redeem the watch and signed a check for that amount against the sum credited to him upon the jail books.

It now develops that the men not only stole the gloves and shoes while coming across the cut-off in a freight car, but also broke open several boxes of wine and candy with which they refreshed themselves until their arrival in Ogden.

Affidavits will be signed by the men today which will probably result in the release of the suspects now held at Montello. Three of them also signed their willingness to plead guilty to burglary in the third degree. Detective Porter made a plain statement to them to the effect that if they desired to fight the case, they were welcome to do so, giving them to understand, however, that the charge would be in the second degree which might land them in the penitentiary for a long term. If they would plead guilty in the third degree, however, and thus save the state the expense of a trial, the opportunity would be given them.

the Utah division of that system during the past week, and has announced his purpose of placing the roadbed in first class condition as early as improvements of this character can be made on both the main line and connecting branches. Aside from giving employment to eighteen additional trainmen, these work trains will afford employment to several hundred men who will be required to make the improvements mapped out and approved by the management.

Married Friday Night—Fred Young, of the Amalgamated Sugar office force, and Miss Margaret Leachhead, a daughter of George Leachhead, were married Friday night at the home of the latter, at 221, Twenty-sixth street. About forty members of the family were present and the ceremony was performed by Bishop Watson of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Young will reside in Ogden. They are receiving the congratulations of a wide circle of friends. This is the eighth marriage in the family of Mr. and Mrs. George Leachhead during the past six years and, in the language of a member of the family, "others are yet to come."

ONE HUNDRED MEN AT WORK

CANYON RAILROAD IS NEARING THE PEERY PROPERTY.

Contracts for Two Steel Bridges Across Ogden River Have Been Let to Eastern Company.

Engineer Joseph West of the Utah-Idaho Railroad company resumed active operations on the Huntsville extension in Ogden canyon this morning, one hundred workmen being started to work on various portions of the grade. The men are divided into several gangs in order to facilitate the work. The first mile of road will probably be completed this month, which will bring it to the property owned by Peery brothers.

Engineer West stated that the first two steel bridges over the river would be completed by April 20, and the third about May 15. The contracts were secured by the Minneapolis Steel & Machine company of Minneapolis, Minn., their bid for the bridge work being the lowest of those received by the company.

Mr. West attended a conference of the commissioners of Plain City relative to the contemplated route of the Harrisville extension. The details will probably be determined upon by the first of next week to permit the local farmers of that district to commence their work of constructing the new grade at once.

SUGAR PLANT WILL BE MOVED

BUT NO DECISION HAS BEEN MADE AS TO NEW SITE.

La Grande Country Has Been Unable to Sustain Sugar Beet Factory—Sanpete Asks for a Plant.

It seems that it is deemed advisable by the Amalgamated Sugar company to abandon the operation of their sugar factory at La Grande, Oregon, because of the inability to make it pay. The board of directors have arrived at the conclusion that the Oregon valley cannot furnish sufficient acreage of sugar beets to supply the factory. The great question before the company just at the present time is where to move the factory so as to operate it upon a paying basis. President Sanpete is giving the matter his personal attention and, in conjunction with the board of directors of the Amalgamated company and other members of the firm, likely will de-

GLENN HALL, A BARITONE, TO BE HEARD IN OGDEN

Glenn Hall, the famous tenor who appears here on March 24, was greeted by an enthusiastic audience in Sacramento on February 26, and the Bee of that city, in commenting upon his singing, said:

Baritones there are in scores, but the rarity of a tenor of parts is such as to make the coming of one a musical event. The Saturday Club seemed to be of one mind concerning that and last evening at the Glenn Hall song recital, every seat was occupied. It was soon evident that the brief hours spent with Mr. Hall were to be pleasant and profitable ones. The program—a generous one—contained not a song too many and even though several of the groups were added to by encores, the audience would have wished more.

As a group, the second on the program containing "Du liebst mich nicht" and "Der Jüngling an der Quelle" of Schubert, Liszt's "Gistoben war ich" and

CONGENIAL WORK

And Strength to Perform It.

A person in good health is likely to have a genial disposition, ambition, and enjoy work.

On the other hand, if the digestive organs have been upset by wrong food, work becomes drudgery.

"Until recently," writes a Washington girl, "I was a railroad stenographer, which means full work every day. 'Like many other girls alone in a large city, I lived at a boarding house. For breakfast it was mush, greasy meat, soggy cakes, black coffee, etc.

"After a few months of this diet I used to feel sleepy and heavy in the mornings. My work seemed a terrible effort, and I thought the work was to blame—too arduous.

"At home I had heard my father speak of a young fellow who went long distances in the cold on Grape-Nuts and cream and nothing more for breakfast.

"I concluded if it would tide him over a morning's heavy work, it might help me, so on my way home one night I bought a package and next morning I had Grape-Nuts and milk for breakfast.

"I stuck to Grape-Nuts, and in less than two weeks I noticed improvement. I can't just tell how well I felt, but I remember I used to walk the 12 blocks to business and knew how good it was simply to live.

"As to my work—well, did you ever feel the delight of having congenial work and the strength to perform it? That's how I felt. I truly believe there's life and vigor in every grain of Grape-Nuts."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Schumann's "Messages" was most affecting as a whole. To each, the singer brought the art of which he is master to a large degree. Among the most beautiful of written songs, they demand above all an understanding—which Mr. Hall possesses. And the smoothness and rare finish which is very much a delightful part of all of his work, made of these songs something more than an acceptable rendition.

Strauss' "Freudliche Vision," sung in the most floating, delicate pianissimo, was one of the artistic gems not too often heard. It was followed by the drinking song "Trinklied"—Erich Wolf—which ended the fifth group and brought a storm of applause. Mr. Hall is gifted with a good bit of dramatic quality which he uses to good purpose in his singing.

DOES DEATH END ALL

The question of the place of death in human life never seems to lose interest. It is as new now as when man first began to wonder whether death was the end of life or only an incident in the march toward perfection. Today, however, we have the experience of all the thinking ages to draw upon. The evening sermons at the Congregational church are dealing with the problem. Sunday evening the second sermon in the series will be preached. Its subject will be "The Soul Homeward Bound." Carlyle said the question of life after death was of no importance. He said that while his house was standing. But one day in the churchyard at Ecclefechan, a change took place. His old vitality was gone. The question became of vital importance.
