AOKI KNOWN IN THIS CITY. SABURO ICHIMURA IS WELL ACQUAINTED WITH HIM. Japanese Who Married Miss Emery of San Francisco Not Well Thought of. The sensational marriage of Gunjiro Aoki, the Japanese waiter, to the daughter of Archdeacon Emery of California, was somewhat localized today by the discovery that the groom is well known to Saburo Ichimura, cashier of the local Japanese-American bank.

Mr. Ichimura, better known as Iida, the name he bore in Ogden previous to his recent marriage to a charming daughter of Nippon, whose name he has adopted after the Japanese custom, stated that he was well acquainted with the husband of Miss Emery, having known him some three or four years ago in the vicinity of Oakland, California. "Aoki, the groom," said he, "lived near me during my residence in California and I was also acquainted with his two brothers. One of the brothers is an Episcopal minister and an educated man. The other brother is a manufacturer of noodles. He is at the head of a wholesale firm which manufactures Japanese macaroni, and is fairly well off. Aoki, himself, however, is not of the same stamp as his brothers. He has little or no education and has been employed in various capacities about his brother's establishment and also as a waiter in restaurants in Oakland and San Francisco. Aoki is of what would be called in Japan, the lower class, and I cannot say that I would recommend him."

E. H. HARRIMAN ENJOYING THE BEST OF HEALTH. Head of the Great Harriman System of Railroads Arrives from the Coast and Talks Freely With a Representative of This Paper—Says Ogden Will Receive Its Full Share of Improvement Work.

President E. H. Harriman and a party of personal friends and prominent railroad officials arrived from the west on a special train over the Southern Pacific at 9:15 this morning and a few minutes later the special left for Salt Lake where the visitors remained a short time before returning to Ogden on route to New York City over the Union Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern and New York Central roads. A few minutes after the special rolled into the Ogden depot from the west, President Harriman emerged from his private car escorted in a heavy overcoat buttoned from his chin to his ankles and a moment later he grasped Depot Master Shields by the hand, inquired if this was the best weather Utah could serve at this season of the year and asked if the newspaper men were on hand to apply the honorific art for the benefit of the public.

Mr. Harriman was active, in splendid humor and evidenced a greatly improved condition over that noticeable during his last visit to Ogden several months ago. His color was good, his eyes sparkling and he was talkative, pleasant, genial and almost humorous at times. Replying to queries submitted, the small, delicate appearing, and yet all powerful railroad magnate, said: "My general health during the present trip through the Southwest and on the coast has improved wonderfully and I am feeling better physically than for a long time. I have been largely free from exacting cares and have met with a kindly and cordial reception everywhere we have stopped. I am not in the invalid class in any sense of the term and now feel equal to anything which may arise in connection with our railroad interests. In such a condition, I am not likely to retire from active railroad service for a long time to come."

"We are going down to Salt Lake as the result of a promise I made last year to visit that city on my next trip west, but we will only remain there two or three hours, as I am anxious to return to New York as early as possible. "From a railroad point of view, I found everything in admirable shape on the coast, and really no changes of an important nature in railroad management are contemplated at this time. Business is being handled satisfactorily on all lines in the transcontinental system and trade will increase from this time on and there are no reasons for radical changes anywhere at present. "No, there is no important new work mapped out in the West at present, but improvements and enlargements already approved will be carried to completion without unnecessary delay during this year—and that in itself will keep every department pretty well engaged. Ogden has been treated fairly generous in every way and will get its proportion of the large appropriations already made for such improvements as are necessary or requisite. "We traveled along from Sparks yesterday so as to reach the cut-off in daylight this morning, as I was anxious to cross the lake at a time when I could inspect conditions there. Everything is in good shape there and no trouble of a serious nature is even apprehended by those in authority. "Here the little big man glanced casually at the great viaduct across Twenty-fourth street, over the big crease in the large machine shop plant and around the handsome Union depot, and then he wandered across the platform, shook hands with several local railroad officials, two big Ogden policemen and stepped on board his private car, while the train pulled out for the south. "Accompanying Mr. Harriman in his car were Dr. Dixon and his wife, Mrs. Goebel and two daughters, Miss Harriman and a retinue of servants. "Among the railroad officials who arrived on the Harriman special were General Manager Calvin of the Southern Pacific; General Manager Hancock; General Superintendent Davis and Chief Engineer Ashton of the Oregon Short Line; Superintendent Manson; Resident Engineer Fitzgerald and Master Mechanic Malone of Ogden. "General Manager Mohler of the Union Pacific road arrived from Omaha last night and this afternoon, with Superintendent Whitney, left with the Harriman special for the east on its arrival from the capital city. "Back From Salt Lake. The Harriman special from Salt Lake returned to Ogden at 1:45 this afternoon, the distinguished visitors to the capital city cutting out much of the elaborate program arranged for Mr. Harriman by the citizens of the capital. After the special had been thoroughly inspected by local employees, the train proceeded east on a fast schedule—with a right-of-way over all trains between Ogden and Omaha.

Harriman in Salt Lake. Salt Lake City, March 29.—E. H. Harriman arrived here today on his special train, en route to New York, and spent several hours in this city as the guest of the Commercial club, at whose rooms an informal reception was held. Mr. Harriman was joined here by General Manager Mohler of the Union Pacific. In a brief address at the Commercial club, Mr. Harriman said that, in traveling across the continent, he had observed the growth of a more popular sentiment towards railway corporations. "From here Mr. Harriman and party will go to Denver. MONTEREY RECORD 2:09:14. Is the fastest trotting stallion in the west, and the only one to produce a colt with a race record better than 2:09. He will be in the stud at the Ogden Fair Grounds after April 1, 1909. C. B. JOHNSON, Owner. DEPOT TO BE BUILT IN A RUSH. WILL BE A HANDSOME STRUCTURE TO COST $100,000. Standard Can State With Authority That the Improvement Work is Not to be Allowed to Lag.

The new and handsome $100,000 Harriman joint freight depot at Ogden will be built this year, and preliminary work on the big structure will be inaugurated within a short time after the viaduct has been completed and formally turned over to the city administration. There is no doubt of this now, as the Standard's information emanates from a reliable source and an authority on this subject. Work on the new structure will be commenced before the first of July, and the building will be pushed to completion as fast as possible, with a view to having the structure enclosed before cold weather sets in again, in order that the interior of the building can be finished without delay regardless of climatic conditions. During the construction of the freight house foundation, the work of rearranging parts of the yards adjacent to the new freight house will be commenced, and pushed forward as rapidly as the work can be done. No details are obtainable at this time, further than the announcement that work on both the freight depot and the yards will positively commence within the next few weeks. CONFERENCE EXCURSION TO Salt Lake City via Oregon Short Line daily, April 2nd to 6th. $1.10 round trip. Tickets good to return until April 12th. WHO GETS THE MONEY SENT TO CHAS. PRICE. Herald: From Portland, Ore. comes word that a man has been captured by the police of that city who has confessed to being one of the highway-men who robbed the Portland National bank, and who sent $2,500 to Ogden, wrapped up in a newspaper and addressed to Charles Price. He is said to have told the police authorities in Portland that the money sent to Ogden was part of the amount taken from the Portland National bank last night and this afternoon, with Superintendent Whitney, left with the Harriman special for the east on its arrival from the capital city. Back From Salt Lake. The Harriman special from Salt Lake returned to Ogden at 1:45 this afternoon, the distinguished visitors to the capital city cutting out much of the elaborate program arranged for Mr. Harriman by the citizens of the capital. After the special had been thoroughly inspected by local employees, the train proceeded east on a fast schedule—with a right-of-way over all trains between Ogden and Omaha.

The robber will probably soon be given a trial on the charge of robbery. The matter, however, will not be fully straightened out by the conviction of this man. There is a puzzling question to be answered: To whom does the $2,500 belong, and which of the three parties claiming the money will the court award it to? Charles Price of Five Points, Ogden, is now in possession of the money, and apparently intends to keep it. The Portland National bank now demands the money as part of the amount stolen. The United States postoffice department is laying claim to the possession of the money on the grounds that it was delivered into the hands of the wrong person. A complaint issued by the government officers also seeks to recover the newspaper in which the money was wrapped on the same grounds. Within a short time, it is stated, the government will begin suit against Charles Price of Ogden to recover the money and newspaper, and, if successful in obtaining the amount from him, will hold it until the court decides the rightful owner. The confession of the robber, although it be the truth, cannot be taken as sufficient evidence that the money belongs to the bank. Another suit will probably be necessary on the part of the bank to prove to the satisfaction of the court that the money really belongs to them. The man who a few months ago robbed the bank of its gold and currency will, when the case comes to trial, play an important part in helping the bank recover that which he had stolen.

JUDGE FINES RAILROAD MEN. In the United States district court, in Salt Lake today, Judge Marshall fined the Union Pacific Railroad company, the Oregon Short Line, the Union Pacific Coal company and J. M. Moore, manager of the Union Pacific Coal company, $3,000 each. Everett Buckingham, division traffic manager of the Oregon Short Line, was fined $1,000. These fines are the result of a suit against the coal company and two railroad companies by the D. J. Sharp Coal company of this city, who alleged that the defendants had conspired and had refused to haul coal previously purchased by the Sharp company. These charges were sustained at the trial by a jury who found the defendants guilty of conspiracy in restraint of trade and in violation of the anti-trust law. The defendant railroad companies have given notice of an appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

Washington, March 29.—The forestry service is preparing to distribute 100,000 basket willow cuttings from its experimental farm at Arlington, Va. The government has been conducting experiments with several grades of willow to determine the best stock and its value under different soil and climate conditions, with the idea of promoting the industry. Most of the willow used in this country in the manufacture of baskets is imported from Europe at a high price, but it has been proved that the best grades can be profitably raised in this country. Consequently, farmers are applying their attention more and more to its culture each year. Only four varieties are being distributed. WANTED ADS BRING BIG RESULTS.
