LIGHT FLASHED INTO TRADE STRIKE

ALLUSION TO TRADES UNION METHODS IN 'FRISCO.

State Opens Case Against Madden, Who Called Strike, Charging Conspiracy to Extort $1,000.

Chicago, May 19.—A ray of light was flashed into at least one building trade strike in Chicago today.

These features were presented when the state opened its case against Martin B. (Skinny) Madden, president of the associated building trades council of Chicago and his associates, F. A. Pouchetta and M. J. Boyle, charged with conspiracy to extort $1,000 from the Joseph Klicka company, a Chicago concern, against which a strike was called.

George Sanres, a construction engineer, testified that Klicka gave him $1,000 with which to settle the strike. Andres having approached the former with a statement that it could be done for that sum.

And what did he answer? "Bring up the dough." So I went to Klicka, got the check and got ten one-hundred dollar bills at the bank.

Next day the strike was called off. On cross-examination by Attorney A. J. Brady of the defense reference was made to San Francisco.

"Didn't you tell Madden about unions in San Francisco and did not you advise him to get out of town?"

He admitted the talk, but denied the threat. "Did you say to Pouchetta that he could make a lot of money if he knew his job and did not say he was satisfied with what he was getting?"

"No." "Didn't you tell him that out there a man who would stand in a light room and hand the money to a man in a dark room so the man who gave the money never knew to whom he gave it?"

This and similar questions brought forth denials.

STONE IN KIDNEY

An interesting case was that of Mr. H. L. DeDuffe, a member of the firm of H. C. DeWolfe & Co., of the Crocker Building, San Francisco.

The case was puzzling. There was pain in the kidney with a showing of stones. Examination by seven physicians proved that the blood was from the kidneys, and it was the opinion of all that there was a stone cutting the kidneys, as the least exercise caused a showing of blood.

Four X-ray pictures were taken, three of the showing a stone half an inch in diameter. To be certain that it was a stone that cast the shadow, a similar stone about the same size taken from a patient was put under him for comparison—both stones showing on the plate.

An operation was about decided upon when Fulton's Renal Compound was recommended to Mr. DeDuffe. He feared the knife and gave it a trial.

Within ten weeks the blood and pain had ceased and in six months he considered himself well.

We also have a three-page letter from an old school physician, a lecturer in one of the San Francisco medical colleges, covering a similar case of stone in the kidney. An operation seemed inevitable.

He prescribed Fulton's Renal Compound upon the theory that as it was getting results in Nephritis it ought to have some effect to reduce the inflammation and excessive uric acid that attends Calculus. He was so surprised to get a complete recovery that he thought a record ought to be made of it and gave us the letter above referred to.

Fulton's Renal Compound seems to have about the same percentage of efficiency in stone in the kidney that it has shown in Bright's Disease.

mitted to the insane asylum. On two former occasions the three eldest sons have testified that their mother was insane. Victor Cassinelli, 17 years old, told, on the stand today, that his brothers had threatened him with bodily harm if he did not substantiate their stories of his mother's insanity.

Literary Pioneers. Polite literature, so far as this country is concerned, undoubtedly has its fountainhead in the writings of Washington Irving; but the first literature to have the positive American smack and flavor were the novels of J. Fenimore Cooper. Cooper's novels were a revelation to the old world of the fact that in the new world a fresh vein had been struck, something that was as much American as Dante was mediæval or Virgil and Cicero classical.

It is not too much to call Cooper the Columbus of American literature. Charles Brockden Brown, a much greater genius than Cooper, approaching in the subtlety of his intellect the greatest of the ancients, was prevented by his morbidity and introspectiveness from gaining the palm which passed to the author of the "Deerslayer" and the "Pathfinder."

STRIKE ORDER IS DOOMED TO FAILURE

GOVERNMENT REGARDS AGITATION AS REVOLUTIONARY.

Life of Paris Normal in All Respects Today and Threatened Strike Regarded as Fiasco.

Paris, May 19.—The life of Paris was normal in all respects up to noon today, and the strike decreed to commence today with the building trades movement, which was to be followed by strikes on the part of all the other trade unions of France, was voted by the hotheads against the better judgment of the conservatives, who realized that the time was not ripe for such action, and that the whole proletarian movement, which has been preparing for so long, was likely to be compromised for years to come by failure.

The government now regards the agitation as purely revolutionary, and as foredoomed to failure. A soldier on duty at a branch post-office was attacked last night and almost stabbed to death by three discharged postmen.

Only a fraction of the diggers and masons quit work at noon, and a meeting held this afternoon was attended by not more than 1,500 men. Nevertheless the speeches delivered by the leaders were highly inflammatory. They assured their followers that the "mobilization" of the proletariat had begun, and soon would sweep everything before it.

M. Pauron, the principal agitator among the postmen, has been dismissed. A congress of the Seamen Unions tonight decided to join the movement inaugurated by the general federation of labor in aid of the postal employees and an appeal has been sent to all the seamen at large and small ports to cease work immediately.

The copper moulders and cabinet workers also decided to strike. The gas men rejected the strike projected by a large majority.

How Some Men Work. "My boss," said the blonde stenog, "nearly breaks his neck getting to office in the morning, and then he puts his feet on his desk and gazes out of the window. In the afternoon he makes golf appointments by telephone, and about 4:30 he is ready to begin dictation. He is rushed to death until about six, and he isn't the only one of his kind down town, either."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

MINING NEWS OF UTAH And Other Western States

MINING COMPANIES BEGIN WORK ON LARGE SCALE.

Salt Lake City, May 19.—A number of mining companies having property to the north of Salt Lake City and in the vicinity of City Creek canyon have begun work on a large scale and something may be expected from that vicinity this summer. The Wandering Jew property, in which Willard Weihe and a number of Salt Lake musicians are interested, intends to begin work soon.

The several mining companies that have claims in this county are preparing to do more development work than in any previous year.

One or two of these companies have worked a small force of men all winter and most of the others will resume work in the near future.

Burro Mining company, whose claims are located between Mill Creek and City Creek canyons, have had three or four men working all winter. This number has been increased to seven. It is expected that this force will be increased to thirty men in June, when the company begins shipping ore.

In addition to the men at the mine the company has four men at work building a road up the main canyon. The road in its meanderings up the canyon crosses the creek something like eighteen times. Many of these crossings have to have bridges built over them. The water is very high, so.

What is known as Camp Richmond has been established just above the forks of Mill canyon, which is the headquarters for the road builders and the main base for supplies. Provisions can be hauled to this point with teams. From there they have to be carried by the men or taken on the back of animals.

The company has just purchased four mules and four horses, one Studebaker army wagon, heavy ore wagon, and a buckboard.

An order has been placed with Silver Brothers' Iron works for steel bunk houses, which are to be finished by June.

It is understood that work is to be resumed at the Wandering Jew mine at the summit of Sessions' mountain, within the near future.

Newton Tuttle and A. I. Stone will likewise resume development work on their claims in Ward canyon as soon as the snow disappears. Mr. Tuttle was up there last week but he says the snow is still three feet deep on the sunny side and double that depth on the shady side.

The Buckland company will increase the force of men at its mine in the mountains east of Centerville.

IRON BLOSSOM IN ORE.

Salt Lake City, May 19.—Reports from Provo this morning were to the effect that Iron Blossom has broken into ore further to the south and that the quality is much improved over anything thus far found. It is asserted that in the south workings of the new shaft one has been encountered in no less than three places and prospects are good for the richest kind of an ore body being opened up further to the south.

It is understood that a number of people from Eureka were at the property early this morning but were denied admission. It is asserted that the company asked to be excused at the present time from allowing visitors to see the underground workings.

The report received this morning was that in one place in the south drift where the company has found no ore for some time, the drift is now in ore and the quartz formation has become thoroughly mineralized. Full details of the present condition at the mine have not been made public.

It is declared that there is considerable dissatisfaction at Eureka over the performance of Iron Blossom, and many of the people are becoming wary. It is asserted that they have been going on information that apparently comes from the inside and have been "stung."

A report was circulated yesterday that the mine was not looking as bright as it might, and orders to sell stock came in thick and fast this morning. This afternoon, under the changes that are said to have taken place, the orders to buy commenced piling up. Perhaps a good press agent with a real nerve might do some of the Tintic properties good. If he told the truth some fine gambling would be eliminated.
