CHILDREN'S WORK AT THE BIG FAIR

commented upon by thousands of fair visitors who came, not alone from the various sections of Utah, but from different portions of the United States and Canada. No other feature could have been planned for the fair that would have advertised the state so substantially. Persons who came west with the idea that half the younger population of the section of the country was not being given the educational advantages of the girls and boys of the east, have been forced to "turn around and look." To say that they were surprised at the progress being made by the western schools is putting it mildly. Most of them "nearly had their breath taken away." Anyway that is the way an educator from the state of New York expressed it to one of those in charge of the educational exhibits yesterday afternoon.

The fair managers have expressed themselves as highly delighted with the excellent showing made by the educational institutions of the state, and, before many more Four-State fairs have come and gone, they hope to have a building erected for the exclusive use of this important department.

Miss Peterson in Charge. Miss Matilda Peterson has the supervision of the educational department of the fair, and she is being assisted by representatives of the different institutions which have displays in this department. All the information desired is furnished, to those who visit the educational show, by Miss Peterson and her obliging corps of assistants. No one visiting the fair should neglect to see the showing of the schools. It is well worth the price of admission to the grounds.

Each of the educational exhibits is most attractively appointed. The minute one enters the tent he is impressed with the pleasing manner in which the different displays have been arranged. There is so much of interest to see that you scarcely know which way to turn. There is something to delight and make you wonder on every hand.

School Life Made Pleasant.

Just supposing you enter the big canvas hall and start along the north side. One of the first things that you will stop and look at is the basket display. These baskets were made of native willow and grasses by pupils of the Huntsville school. There are large baskets, middle sized baskets, and baskets so small that you have to tickle your brains to think what they can be used for. All of them are substantially made.

After you have interested yourself with the baskets, you will probably turn your attention to the work of the Weber county public schools. In this assortment of maps and drawings, and other things that go to make school life a pleasure rather than a drudge, you will find numerous excuses for letting your thoughts drift back a few years to the time when you went to school with a tin dinner pail on your arm, walked home with the teacher, sawed wood until dark and didn't have an opportunity to enjoy the public school advantages that are today offered to the boy or girl who is ambitious to make something out of life.

Artistic pencil drawings are a feature of the showing of the Weber county schools, and the maps designed in clay are also interesting. Pencil drawings picturing the "Legend of Sleepy Hollow" are nicely done. The weaving in the lower grades is especially attractive.

A Real Doll House.

Next you will come right onto a real doll house. A doll house in an educational exhibit! Well, what do you think of that? But it is a real one, and the youngsters who made the furniture for it are pupils in the first grade at the Wilson school. There are tiny paper chairs, tables and beds, and, in fact, everything that goes to make home happy and comfortable. The Plain City schools were awarded the cash prize and gold medal for the best general exhibit from any school from first to eighth grades.

SENSE ABOUT FOOD.

Facts About Food Worth Knowing.

It is a serious question sometimes to know just what to eat when a person's stomach is out of order and most foods cause trouble.

Grape-Nuts food can be taken at any time with the certainty that it will digest. Actual experience of people is valuable to anyone interested in foods. A Terre Haute woman writes: "I had suffered with indigestion for about four years, ever since an attack of typhoid fever, and at times could eat nothing but the very lightest food, and then suffer such agony with my stomach I would wish I never had to eat anything."

"I was urged to try Grape-Nuts and since using it I do not have to starve myself any more, but I can eat it at any time and feel nourished and satisfied, dyspepsia is a thing of the past, and I am now strong and well."

"My husband also had an experience with Grape-Nuts. He was very weak and sickly in the spring. Could not attend to his work. He was put under the doctor's care but medicine did not seem to do him any good until he began to eat Grape-Nuts. It was positively surprising to see the change in him. He grew better right off, and naturally he has none but words of praise for Grape-Nuts."

"Our boy thinks he cannot eat a meal without Grape-Nuts, and he learns so fast at school that his teachers and other scholars comment on it. I am satisfied that it is because of the great nourishing elements in Grape-Nuts."

"There's a Reason."

It contains the phosphate of potash from wheat and barley which combines with albumen to make the matter to abundantly refill the brain and nerve centres.

It is a pity that people do not know what to feed their children. There are many mothers who give their youngsters almost any kind of food when they become sick begin to pour the medicine down them. The real way is to stick to proper food and be healthy and get along without medicine and expense.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. Are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

step over to the domestic science department exhibit of the Weber academy. There you will be greeted by a display of bottled goods that will beat anything you have ever seen. All varieties of home grown fruits and vegetables have been "put up" in a tempting manner. And say, it's all class or two of that fruit jelly. It looks for all the world like the kind that grandmother used to make, and that is, you know, beyond comparison.

Manual Training.

The manual training exhibit of the Weber academy is splendid. Hand-cases, and numerous other pieces show the excellent work being accomplished by those who enter this department at this well known institution of learning.

In the domestic art department exhibit may also be seen the work of skilled hands. It is evident here that the girl who attends the Weber academy is taught that "The Mission of the Ideal Woman is to make the Whole World Homelike," and that she is given the right kind of a start by being taught to mend her own hose and make her own clothes. In this exhibit one sees everything from the smallest kimono of a dam in a dainty stocking to a cleverly made dress.

High School Commercial.

The exhibit of the Ogden High school is large and very attractive. The specimens of the work done in the manual training classes are really remarkable. A number of beautiful pieces of furniture are shown, besides a large collection of other articles turned out in this department of school work.

The commercial department display occupies considerable space and is of more than ordinary interest. It shows the work of beginning in book-keeping, and also the efforts of the "finished product" when he is prepared to receive his diploma. The business dealings of the "High School Mercantile Co." are also displayed on paper and prove that much business activity goes on in the high school commercial work.

An excellent exhibit is the grade work of the Ogden schools. This display starts with the first writing lessons given to the little people in the first grade, and leads up to the more advanced work accomplished by the pupils of the higher grades. It is all interesting, and an education to the older "boys and girls" who visit the fair just to see what is going on.

Deaf and Blind.

The wonderful good that is being done by the Utah School for the Deaf and Blind is forcibly demonstrated by the large exhibit which this institution is maintaining at the fair. One can hardly understand how it is possible to do those things which persons not so unfortunate do, but, nevertheless, they are trained to do most of the things that the samples of their work at the fair demonstrate.

Among the collection of specimens of work done at this institution are several sizes, and shapes of shoes and boots. These were made by the deaf and blind. Their work shows unusual care. The boots and shoes are not cheaply made, but are put together as if to last. There are other things in this exhibit of equally as great interest to the fair visitor. A small locomotive, made at this school, attracts much attention. It is constructed for all the work that the big ones, and has all the outside trimmings that are found on the real railroad engine. A painted map of the United States on which is shown pictures or bits of products of the different industries of the country, is another interesting feature to look at when visiting the exhibit of the School for the Deaf and Blind.

AT THE FAIR GROUNDS MONDAY

WILD WEST SHOW TO CLOSE WITH BIG STUNTS.

Six Running Races, Cowboy Exhibition and Fireworks—Storms Interfered With Program.

The weather being rainy, the track bad, the Wild West Show program for today has been postponed until next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock sharp. The cowboys promise that next Monday's Wild West Show will be the best of all the stunts they have given during the week.

Monday evening will close the Fair. There will be no races tomorrow, Sunday, but the Fair grounds will be open and the exhibits can be seen during the day and by electric light in the evening.

Monday a full program will be pulled off. There will be six running races and the best cowboy stunts of the season and at night the program will close with a grand display of fireworks, all to conclude with the final eruption of the volcano Mauna Loa.

There are 2,000 watermelons and cantaloupes left over from the feast of yesterday and they will be passed out to the first 2,000 persons to pass

Nature at Her Best

Look at the "Model A" Gossard Corset, which we depict herein, as drawn from life. Could any corset be more exquisitely beautiful? Could any corset give more genuine comfort, sitting or standing?

Could any corset be in more perfect accord with the fashions of the hour?

We make you, madam, the wearer, the judge. And we know that your answer will agree with that of thousands of other discriminating women who have found in the Gossard, absolute corset perfection.

This perfection is not accidental nor incidental. It is the achievement of the perfected methods of the New School of Corset Design, from which emanates the Gossard.

THE Gossard Corsets

"They Lace in Front"

Nature at her best is the ideal of this New School of Corset Design. This ideal is realized by methods that leave nothing to the judgment of the operatives. Every seam and gore is placed with scientific precision. Every bone is located with the accuracy that obtains in adjusting the balance wheel of a fine watch.

Model A is the extreme of long corset elegance and long corset comfort. It moulds the generously developed figure into lines of natural grace. The beauty of its sculptured habit back is instantly recognized. The hygienic construction of the front lacing feature is endorsed by physicians. Instead of pressure it gives support to the organs. It allows full diaphragm breathing; easily but surely compels a correct standing position; gives poise to the figure and grace to the carriage.

We should be pleased to have your judgment on the Gossard models for Fall.

MRS. M. A. MILLER, an expert corsetiere, trained under the tutelage of the New School methods will be in attendance. She will fit you personally and advise you as the model that will give the greatest charm to your type of figure

BODY OF JOCKEY SANDY IS SHIPPED TO OAKLAND

During the early morning something over three hundred people, horsemen, jockeys and other friends, visited the bier of Tommy Sandy at the undertaking establishment of Albert F. Ritchey. It will be remembered that the deceased lost his life from injuries sustained in a fall in one of the races at the track last Thursday. He died yesterday morning without having regained consciousness.

The brief ceremonies over the body today at 11 o'clock were imposing, and had a tendency to bring out the better part of manliness, and dim the eyes of the 100 comrades who came to pay their last tribute of respect to the one they so much admired.

At 11 o'clock six jockeys of the Ogden race course, carried the body of their friend and comrade to the hearse which conveyed it to the depot, where it was shipped to Oakland, California. The pall bearers, with 100 other jockeys and horsemen, headed by the Auditorium band, passed along Twenty-fifth street to the depot, where they gave a last and tear-stained farewell to "Tommy." It was a solemn procession, made doubly so by the sacred strains of music by the band.

The boys who acted as pall bearers were Jockeys Borel, Cavanaugh, Shriner, Ludwick, Tinkins and Palm. The body was accompanied home by John Walker, a boy who had acted as valet to Tommy Sandy for a number of years. A purse of about $400 was raised among the jockeys and horsemen to defray the expenses of the illness and death and the shipment of the remains to Oakland.

FIREWORKS ENJOYED BY LARGE CROWD

The fireworks display was witnessed by the largest crowd of the week last night. Those in attendance appeared to be immensely pleased with the exhibition.

An informal reception was held in the educational building last night. The entire teaching corps of the Ogden city schools was tendered a reception by the school authorities. Superintendent Mills greeted each one of
