JEWISH PEOPLE ARE TO MEET IN I. O. O. F. HALL

According to the Jewish calendar, 5670 years have elapsed since the creation of the world. Kohn, addressing his people, says: "Every person whose heart is beating with faith and love in the One Almighty is cordially invited to attend the ceremonies and lend his aid in the upholding of the principles and duties of Judaism. It shall be considered by God and by the world as a harmonizing congregation. The service will be given in the I. O. O. SENSATION IN THE NICK VACOS CASE

Judge Gives the Slayer of John Contos an Opportunity to Withdraw His Plea, With a Warning That There is a Heavy Sentence Hanging Over Him, If He Does Not—Agreement of Lawyers is Upset.

The district court room was well filled with spectators this morning at 10 o'clock when court convened in the case of the State of Utah against Nick Vacos, called in order that sentence should be passed on defendant in accordance with his plea of guilty of murder in the second degree in shooting and killing John Contos on the night of April 15.

Attorney Sam King of Salt Lake, representing the prisoner, addressed the court, making a forceful and eloquent plea for mercy. He maintained that the man known as John Contos here in reality a man with a criminal record in Chicago, whose right that he was at one time a fugitive from justice from the State of Illinois, where he had been charged with a serious crime. He said Vacos had engaged in business for himself in Ogdan and part of his capital was borrowed from a friend in Salt Lake; that the man known as Contos had interfered and induced Vacos to accept his (Contos) money and pay off his indebtedness in Salt Lake, and then, taking advantage of a critical time in Vacos' business affairs, had endeavored to defraud him of a well-established and paying business, and had endeavored to squeeze Vacos and practically ruin him. There had been several conferences between the two men and Vacos had pleaded with Contos to give him additional time in which to pay the debt; that the latter refused to do so and, in the meantime, had threatened death if the defendant, and told others that he was in the possession of a gun and would have trouble of a serious character with Vacos before the matter was finally settled; that the shooting resulted from threats made, and that while defendant had shot Contos, the crime was not of his own free will, and in the opinion of Attorney King, a light sentence would furnish justifiable punishment for the crime of which Vacos had admitted his guilt.

Attorney Lofborough and District Attorney Harris also addressed the court, maintaining that a reasonably severe sentence should be given the prisoner for the crime which he had pleaded to. Attorney Harris admitted that, in his opinion, 25 years would be quite enough and this, with commutation for good behavior, would reduce the sentence to 13 years and four months. Here the arguments closed and the court said:

"Now I understand that the matter is submitted to the Court at this time. I will say to you gentlemen very frankly that this situation, as it is now before the Court, presents not only a grave question, but one that is full of difficulties. If this case had been presented to the Court at this time in the ordinary way, with simply the plea of the defendant and certain extraneous facts stated to the Court, or purported facts, which would in mitigation or aggravation of the offense, I would have had very little difficulty in knowing exactly what to do. It has developed, however, that there is an absolute conflict of facts here, as they have appeared to the state's attorney and to the attorney for the defendant. If I am to accept the statements which have been made by counsel for the defense as absolutely true, then any punishment that I would impose under this plea, the limit being from ten years to life, would be an injustice to him, because, if those statements are true, then he is either a gullible, or he is guilty of a lesser crime than that to which he pleaded guilty, or he should be sentenced to some other institution than the state prison. If, on the contrary, I accept the statements which have been made by counsel for the state, then the penalty should be greater than that which I am permitted to impose under this plea and under our statute, because, if their statements are to be accepted in toto, then, of course, he is guilty of a greater crime than murder in the second degree.

"So, casting aside, as I feel I must, all that has been said on both sides upon this matter, I am left with the bald charge here and the bald plea to it, which is that the defendant is guilty of maliciously taking the life of another human being, though without premeditation. Viewing the matter in that light, gentlemen, and casting aside all these other things, I do not feel that I can conscientiously do here in my judicial capacity and accept the recommendations which have been made by the state's attorney. I do not feel that the bald, malicious killing of a human being would justify me in sentencing a man to imprisonment for such a period as twenty-five years. It seems to me that that is not an adequate punishment. It seems to me that, if these facts which have been stated on either side are to influence the Court, they must come to the Court in a different way than they have come this morning.

"I will say that I have arrived at this conclusion with some diffidence, that it is my habit usually to accept the recommendations of the district attorney, and especially in this case where more diffidence, because two district attorneys, both of well recognized ability, have made this recommendation, but I do not feel that with the utmost respect to their opinions that I can conscientiously do that which they desire, because, if they say it is right that I should feel that a heavier penalty ought to be imposed, and I am sure that they would join with me in thinking that if the statements which were made by counsel for the defense were true, then not any where near so great a penalty as that should be imposed. Now I will say to counsel for the defense and to the defendant that I am perfectly willing that he should withdraw his plea, inasmuch as the court takes this view of the matter, and that he will not be required to do that at once, but may take such time as he desires to deliberate upon the matter further, if he so desires."

The case was then continued until October 25th.

STANLEY KETCHEL IN GOOD CONDITION.

New York, Sept. 13.—Stanley Ketchel now weighs 176 pounds and says that he will be under the weight of the ring for a ten round bout with Sam Langford at the Fairmount Athletic club in this city next Friday night. Ketchel is working like a beaver and is apparently in as good condition as ever he was.

After reeling off eight miles in a dog trot over the Westchester county roads, the Montana cowboy returned to his quarters, stripped and took on four training partners for four rounds each in succession. Each bout was a fast and hard one and with the conclusion Ketchel did not seem to be in the least winded. Instead of showing any distress he punched the bag for fifteen minutes at a lightning pace.

Reports from Boston indicate that Sam Langford is preparing himself for what he considers the most serious battle of his career. It is not believed that he will weigh more than 160 pounds—possibly 158. A large delegation of his supporters plan to accompany him to New York, but there is little likelihood of these witnessing the fight as only record members of the club will be admitted and these members have already engaged all the seats.

JAPANESE NARROW ESCAPE

TRAVELING CRANE IN SOUTHERN PACIFIC SHOPS STRIKES HIM.

Fellow Countrymen Much Excited Over Accident and a Great Crowd of Them Gathered at Hospital.

Oto Odama, a Jap, better known around the Southern Pacific shops as "Orlando," where he is employed as a general roustabout, narrowly escaped being crushed to death yesterday afternoon and at present lies in the general hospital suffering of a broken collar bone and other injuries of an internal nature.

"Orlando" was employed in washing the large windows in the back boiler shop and neglected to notice the approach of the huge traveling crane, used in conveying heavy material from one part of the shop to the other, until it was too late to escape being squeezed. Had he not made a valiant effort to get out of the way, however, he would have been crushed to death between the window frame and the rolling machinery.

He was taken to the emergency hospital after the accident, but the hurried assembling of half a hundred excited Japs at the little hospital made it impossible to treat the injured man for his injuries and he was sent to the Ogdan General hospital, where his injuries are receiving the attention of railroad surgeons. He will recover.

Nice, little, pleasant, gentle, easy, safe and sure pills, are Rings Little Liver Pills. Pinesalve, carbollized, soothes pain. In any emergency—bruises, cuts, sores, burns, scratches, etc. Pinesalve, carbollized, is best. Sold by Geo. F. Cave Drug Stores.

The officers of the Peery estate are planning other improvements on Twenty-fifth street, between Washington and Adams avenue. A sixty-foot avenue will be made midway between the two avenues—Washington and Adams—from Twenty-fifth to Twenty-fourth streets. Abutting this narrow avenue, and having a frontage of about 100 feet and a depth of 160 feet, will be built a modern business block that will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000. The structure will be three stories high and contain a large basement. The top floor will be used for lodging purposes, the second floor for offices and the ground floor for stores.

The building will be modern in every detail, and it is expected to be a credit to the city. It is not anticipated, however, that this building will be erected earlier than next year.

UTAHNA WILL BE A LARGE THEATER

PLANS HAVE BEEN ENTIRELY CHANGED SINCE WORK BEGAN.

New Avenue to Be Opened and Another Large Building to Be Erected by the Peery Estate.

When the officers of the D. H. Peery estate started to remodel the old Utahna theater on Twenty-fifth street, near Washington avenue, it was thought that not more than $15,000 would be expended for that purpose, but today, with the work only fairly begun, the owners concede that it will cost not less than $50,000 for the planned improvement. It was expected, too, in the beginning that the building could be remodeled in time for September shows, but now it is certain that the house will not be fit for occupancy earlier than November 1st or 15th.

There is not much left of the original building; indeed, there is nothing remaining except parts of the side walls and a dilapidated portion of the roof. It will be a new building when completed, almost in its entirety. There will not be a landmark of the old structure in existence.

The work of reconstruction has been materially retarded by wet weather and the encountering of seepage water in the basement at the rear of the building. The excavation force is now working in mud and water foot-deep. But the work is being prosecuted with the greatest possible speed in hope of finishing the structure before the winter weather.

A new name for the place has not yet been determined upon, but it is said by the architect that it will be, when finished, among the most modern theaters west of the Missouri river. It will be three stories high, the upper floor to be used for office rooms; it will contain two balconies and the ground floor for seating space, will accommodate from 1,100 to 1,200 people. The stage will be thirty-five feet deep and back of the stage
