

The Fountain Head of Life Is The Stomach

A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY makes the stomach strong, promotes the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and restorative nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgment.

This "Discovery" is a pure, glyceric extract of American medical roots, absolutely free from alcohol and all injurious, habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its wrappers. It has no relationship with secret nostrums. Its every ingredient is endorsed by the leaders in all the schools of medicine. Don't accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this time-proven medicine. No known cure made by it during past 40 years, right in your own neighborhood. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

CEMENT INDUSTRY IN UTAH IS CROWDING RAPIDLY

From reports received from cement plants in Utah by H. T. Haines, state statistician, it is shown that the cement industry in the state last year was nearly double that of 1907, and that this field is steadily growing more important. Two of the plants are being enlarged, and P. J. Moran of Salt Lake has just started the rebuilding of the local plant, which will mean a great increase in the output of Utah. The deal means an expenditure of $200,000 in enlarging the plant here, and another $200,000 outlay in getting materials and starting the business on the largest scale of any plant in the west.

Mr. Haines has been getting statistics on most of the industries of Utah and previously received the last from the cement makers. Last year the output was 469,127 barrels, while the record for 1907 was 271,123 barrels. The plants at Devil's Slide and at Salt Lake were improved and enlarged last year and another factory is in course of construction at Brigham City. This, with the enlargement and rebuilding of the local plant, will greatly increase the output for 1910 and will supply Utah with all cement needed instead of having it shipped in from outside. Raw materials are found at Devil's Slide and in Parley's canyon.

The figures compiled by Mr. Haines show the importance of the industry as follows:
Amount of capitalization, $3,000,000
Total value of capital invested in the business, 2,800,000
Total number of barrels of cement manufactured, 1908, 469,127
Total value of all products manufactured, 1908, $68,372.50
Total number of employees, 287
Total amount of wages paid employees, 1908, 159,190
Average number of hours per day employees required to work, 10.7
Amount of products sold within the state, 73 per cent
Total number of barrels of cement manufactured, 1908, 271,123

JOHNSON AS SEEN BY A FIGHT EXPERT

Naughton Admits the Colored Man Has All the Qualifications of a Champion.

(By W. W. Naughton.)

San Francisco, Sept. 15.—Those who rallied at Jack Johnson because he did not fight like a whirlwind in each round of his fight with Al Kaufman have gotten over their ill-humor and are now fairly admitting that the champion is the marvel of the age in the boxing line, even if he does fool away much valuable time when he is in action.

The philosophy of the thing is you have to take Johnson as you find him. He will be always erratic, as a glancer at his past engagements will show, and it appears hopeless to get him to change his style. When he boxed George Gardner in this city he began to loaf as soon as he had established a fairly strong lead.

With Marvin Hart, he dominated the white man for a few rounds and then loitered so long that he lost the decision. In his Colma affair with Sandy Ferguson he did a comedy turn for 20 long rounds and when he knocked out Sam McVey at Old Mechanics' pavilion he held himself in leash until the last round of a 20-round bout.

He slows or quickens as the whim seizes him and he defends his tactics by saying that he usually brings the decision away with him.

Johnson Explains His Tactics.
"I came out of the Kaufman go without a scratch or a bruise, and I had the other man pretty badly punched up," remarked Johnson. "What more do they expect? I don't advertise to kill a man over time I enter the ring. I have lots of fights to look forward to. I have to keep my hands in good shape and protect the title I have gained in the face of greater difficulties than any man deserving of the championship ever encountered.

"Those who blamed me for using my cleverness to my own advantage would be the first to howl with joy if I blundered and was knocked over by some lumbering opponent. I win my fights, and I intend to win them my own way. There is no complaint among a favorite in a home race comes home eased up half a length ahead of the next best, is there? Those who handle him know there will be other races on other days and the nag isn't asked to burst a blood vessel when there is no occasion for it.

"And on top of all this I'll tell you something. Knocking Kaufman out isn't as easy as it may look. Black Man George Infighter.
The writer is inclined to think that knocking out anybody isn't an easy task with Johnson, great fighter and all that he is. The only men he is reasonably sure of tumbling are the sawed-off heavies like Flynn and Burns, men who are natural targets for that punishing right uppercut.

In order to make the uppercut effective in Kaufman's case he had to change gear as it were. He didn't try to nail Al as the latter came in, feeling probably that Kaufman's face was so far away and that there was a strong likelihood of the blow wasting itself in the air, or, at the best, before it reached the mark.

But when it came to holding and free-arm fighting, my, how that hitting punch slipped upward over Kaufman's chest and damaged his nose and mouth. It is Johnson's best asset, beyond doubt.
Johnson uses the straight left in a pokey way and his body punches are nothing to blow about. He doesn't seem able to follow his leads in a way to lend force to them. Unlike other clever men, he is seen as his worst when outfighting.

His knowledge of the science of the game is usually employed in protecting his hide when he and his opponent are standing off, but when it comes to closing in, he is one of the most famous fighters the ring has known.

Johnson Is Real Champion.
It is then that his great arm and shoulder strength is seen as he twists his adversary about and disorients him with his own right hand for uppercutting. And, my, what a punishing soak it is. It may fall 40 per cent short in the force that generally accompanies a knockout blow, but in a long fight it would eventually subdue a big man like Jeffries, even. Provided always, of course, that nothing happens in the meanwhile.

With all his faults of omission, Johnson is now regarded by the sporting public as a real champion. It is felt that no one in the lists at present can conquer him, and our thought turns to Jeffries more than ever. The alfalfa baron is our only dependence. As to Jeffries, there arises the old question: Can a prize fighter relinquish his calling for four, five or six years and then take it up where he left off? There have been instances where pugilists, after years of inactivity, have shown indications of a return to form, but as a rule, they have merely performed in a desultory manner.

KETCHEL SURE HE CAN BEAT NEGROES.
Middleweight Champ Pleased With Thursday's Battle.
New York, Sept. 15.—Stanley Ketchel is highly pleased by the report from the Pacific coast concerning the 10-round bout between Al Kaufman and Jack Johnson. Previous to this contest at Colma, Kaufman was considered the most likely young heavy-weight contender in the field against Johnson. Of course this did not include Jeffries. The negro's lack of hitting was a notable feature of the Kaufman fight, and as that eliminates the greatest danger, Ketchel is now confident that he will whip Johnson.

Apparently Johnson considers Ketchel as lightly as he did Kaufman, but Ketchel's friends believe that the negro is not figuring on the Montana pugilist. Ketchel, who is training here for his fight with Langford next Friday night, says that the most notable feature of the fight in Colma was Johnson's defense.

Wrestling Shooting Automobiling

able feature of the fight in Colma was Johnson's defense.
"I do not expect to penetrate Johnson's wonderful defense in the first few rounds," said Ketchel, "but I propose to weaken him with attacks on the body until he is ready to lower his guard. His fight with Kaufman shows that his body is his most vulnerable point, and that will be my object of attack. Johnson is a fancy but slow fighter, and I will have no trouble avoiding his leads. There is no doubt that I will be the champion pugilist in a short time, and that Jeffries will be spared the ignominy which he dreads so much in meeting the negro."

Ketchel, contrary to his statements when he arrived here from the Pacific coast, is reducing his weight. He has already taken off from 12 to 15 pounds and now weighs about 170 pounds, stripped. He says he will maintain that weight until he enters the ring with Langford.

WOMAN'S NIGHTMARE

No woman can be happy without children; it is her nature to love them as much so as it is the beautiful and pure. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass is so full of dread that the thought fills her with apprehension. There is no necessity for the reproduction of life to be either very painful or dangerous. The use of Mother's Friend prepares the system for the coming event, and it is passed without any danger. This remedy is applied externally, and has carried thousands of women through the crisis with but little suffering.
