

Anty Drudge Lectures to the Woman's Club.

'My dear women, these pictures speak for themselves. Mrs. A uses Fels-Naptha soap in her washing. Mrs. B still sticks to the old, hard-rubbing, boiling, back-breaking way. Which do you want to look like when Monday's work is done? Think it over.'

Why did your grandmother boil dirty clothes? To soften and loosen the dirt. That's the only way she knew. Now Fels-Naptha soap will do the loosening better in cold or lukewarm water. Fels-Naptha is an invention, same as the telephone or sewing machine.

The up-to-date woman uses Fels-Naptha because it saves her the trouble of boiling clothes or heating water and makes hard-rubbing unnecessary. Then her clothes are fresher and cleaner than if washed in the old-fashioned, boiling way. Here's the way to do your white things with Fels-Naptha: Soap, roll and let soak a short time in cold or lukewarm water, then rub lightly, rinse and hang on the line. Try it once.

Be sure to follow directions on the red and green wrapper.

No need of adding ammonia to the water for washing dishes or housecleaning—just make a suds of Fels-Naptha.

INSURGENTS ARE BITTER

Washington, Jan. 10.—A defiant statement which stamps the attempt to read them out of the republican party as "unfair and malicious" and defines Speaker Cannon's administration in the House of Representatives, a climax of autocratic control was issued tonight after an insurgent meeting of the republicans of the house.

They decline to be put out of the republican party by the regulars and announce their intention to carry to a finish the fight against the speaker and the organization. The statement follows:

"In the effort to becloud the real issue an unfair and malicious attempt is being made to represent us as opposed to President Taft's administration and politics. There is not even a semblance of truth in this accusation. Without exception we are firm supporters of republican doctrines and President Taft's administration.

"We are banded together for a single purpose and no other. Our sole aim is to restore to the house complete power of legislation in accordance with the will of a majority of its members. We are striving to destroy the system of autocratic control, which has reached its climax under the present speaker."

Breach Widens.

The breach between the "organization" of the House of Representatives and the republican "insurgents" was widened perceptibly today. Tonight there is every evidence that the mutually hostile acts of the last few days will continue with increasing bitterness.

"The insurgents" caucused in little groups of twos, threes and fours and discussed the desirability of an early meeting to form a battle front to meet the onslaughts that are reported to be coming from the organization. Much secrecy was observed among them. None would say when a formal meeting would be held.

The party caucus will be invoked against the "insurgents," and on the occasion, when there are differences between republican members, the "insurgents" will be made to follow the caucus programme or be forced out of the pale of the party.

The announcement did not disconcert the recalcitrant republicans. They expressed opinions that no compulsory measures would avail anything to the organization. If the test of regularity lies in the following of the "machine" as several denominated it, they say they preferred to be irregular.

No Focus Yet.

The joint republican caucus Wednesday night are not expected to bring affairs to a focus, as it is not thought anything will be considered there excepting the election of a new congressional committee. The first battle will occur, it is believed, over the selection of the committee by the house to investigate the Ballinger-Pinchot imbroglio.

The republicans doubtless will hold a caucus to name a committee and map out a programme, and here the insurgents will be considered "fish or cut bait."

A dozen insurgents said privately today that they would not attend a caucus where they knew there was a pre-arranged plan to discredit them.

Representative Underwood, speaking for the democrats of the house, said the minority would probably hold a caucus also on the Ballinger-Pinchot acquisition. There is a prospect of a joint democratic and republican insurgent committee being named to oppose the committee of the regular republicans which would bring a test battle on the floor.

"We are like the outside nine," said Mr. Underwood, "waiting to see which way the ball is going to be batted. We can't play until they hit something in one direction."

McKinley is Blamed.

The letter issued by the republican congressional committee which has the effect of throwing a few bricks into the insurgent camp, came to "the literary bureau" maintained by that organization. It was stated that the congressional committee did not exist as a body at this time, and therefore was not responsible.

Representative McKinley of Illinois, chairman of the congressional committee, admitted today there was virtually no committee in existence now, but he himself assumed responsibility for the letter. It was sent out, he said, under his guidance from the republican headquarters in this city, as part of the "regular weekly news letter."

Mr. Tawney of Minnesota, former republican whip in the house, and Representative Dwight of New York, the present whip, had a brief conference with President Taft this afternoon. Mr. Dwight, it is said, had informed the President that he had dropped all the "insurgents" from his list of republicans to be notified of caucuses dealing with party subjects. What effect this will have upon certain held-up patronage remains to be seen.

GLAVIS REFUSES TO SAY A WORD

Portland, Jan. 10.—L. R. Glavis, former chief of the field division of the general land office, who has been hunting in the White Salmon country, 125 miles east of Portland for several days past, arrived here today on his way to Washington, D. C., where he expected to appear before the committee investigating the Alaska coal lands case.

Glavis flatly refused to give out any statement for publication regarding the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy, nor would he make any comment on the dismissal from the government service of Chief Forester Pinchot. Asked if he had formally been summoned to appear before the congressional committee which will probe into the affairs of the department of the interior and forestry, bureau, Glavis replied that he had not, but as he fully expected to be summoned he determined to anticipate formal service by presenting himself at Washington. He will leave for Washington tomorrow.

COMMERCE BILL IS INTRODUCED

New Measure Revising Powers of Commission Submitted to the House.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Representative Townsend of Michigan today introduced in the House a bill amending the interstate commerce law to conform to recommendations of President Taft's recent message to congress.

The Townsend bill provides for an interstate commerce court to be composed of five circuit judges, who are to be assigned to that court by the chief justice of the United States for a term of five years.

Terms expire simultaneously. An order of the interstate commerce commission will not be stayed merely by the filing in the court of a petition of the carrier against it, and an order of the commission can be enjoined only upon its rehearing, except on cases where irreparable damage would result from delay.

More Legal Talent. The department of justice is to represent the interstate commerce commission, in all cases before the special court, and for this purpose, an assistant to the attorney general is to be appointed. As recommended by the president agreements between carriers will be permitted, provided they are made public and filed with the commission, subject to the same rules and regulations as to reasonableness as are rates.

Carriers must quote correctly in writing on the written report of a shipper any rate between the place of proposed shipment and any other places on the carriers' line or any other line with which the original carrier has a traffic agreement.

In case an erroneous rate is given in writing whereby a shipper is injured, the carrier is subject to a penalty of $250 to be collected by and paid to the government.

The bill empowers the commission to suspend the carriers' notice of changing of rate pending decision as to whether the proposed new rate is just.

Regarding Stock. As for freight right, the shipper is given the right to classifications just and reasonable.

It is proposed to prevent the issuance of stock and bonds except for legitimate purposes and upon the approval of the commission; and as recommended in the special meeting of the president, it is proposed to prohibit every carrier from acquiring stock in a line of railroad which it may compete with it, except as a court may find that the people are better served by such acquisition. It is not proposed to compel carriers to dispose of stock they now own in competing lines and where a carrier now owns a majority of stock of a parallel line of railroad which it purchases the balance of the stock if a carrier is now operating a competing line under a 25-year or longer lease it may purchase such road at the expiration of the lease.

The bill will be presented to the senate tomorrow by Senator Ellinger.

COTTON EXCHANGE IS HARD HIT

New York, Jan. 10.—Under pressure of enormous liquidation involving the sale of approximately 1,500,000 bales, the New York cotton exchange was hard hit by a bear raid today, with losses as high as $4.80 a bale. Wm. P. Brown and Frank B. Hayne, who headed the bear campaign which of late has taken profits estimated at $13,000,000, were on the floor of the exchange, active figures in one of the most exciting sessions in its history.

May cotton, which recently has been as high as $16.19, dropped as low as $15.32; March touched $15.06 as its lowest point, while July opened at $15.89, dropped to $15.32 and closed at a point higher. May closed at $15.34 and March at $15.11.

The bears fought bitterly and sold at an enormous scale, several brokers, each selling 25,000 bales. The bull market, seeing the drift of things, took profits on a large line of cotton, probably with the idea of allowing the shorts to sell themselves into a hole, and the slump of $1 to $2 points resulted.

At New Orleans.

New Orleans, Jan. 10.—One of the wildest days of trading ever recorded on the New Orleans cotton exchange was seen today, following the census bureau report on the amount of cotton ginned up to Jan. 1. This report was regarded as decidedly bullish and the first tendency of the market was to go up. Active deliveries first advanced $1 a bale, and then under an avalanche of selling orders, which increased rapidly in volume, slumped off and finally broke $2.50 a bale. Partial recoveries were made on profit taking by shorts, but the market was unable to withstand the terrific hammering of the bears and at one time as low as 116 points below the high level of the day.

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE WORKMEN

SUPREME COURT GIVES DECISION

Washington, Jan. 10.—The United States supreme court today handed down a decision sustaining the power of the interstate commerce commission to regulate the distribution of railroad cars among coal companies. The decision is regarded by the government as most important, and it is expected to have an important bearing on the rate cases to be heard by the court.

Justice White, in announcing the decision, considered two objections to the delegation of power to the commission, the first being that no such delegation had been made by the interstate commerce law in the matter of the distribution of company fuel cars as a means of prohibition, of the preferences and discrimination.

The first objection, he said, rested on the erroneous assumption that commerce, in the constitutional sense, embraced only supreme in the technical sense, and did not therefore extend to carriers engaged in interstate commerce.

"It may not be doubted," he said, "that the equipment of a railroad company engaged in interstate commerce, included in which are its coal cars, are instruments of such commerce. From this it necessarily follows that such cars are embraced within the governmental power of regulation, which extends in time of car shortage to compelling a just and equal distribution and the prevention of an unjust and discriminatory one."

Of the second contention, Justice White said: "The construction with the interstate commerce act had necessitated and the remedial character of an amendment adopted in 1906 all served to establish the want of merit in the contention."

"In addition to adopt it would require us to hold that congress, in enlarging the power of the commission over rates, had so drafted the amendment as to cripple and paralyze its power in correcting abuses as to preferences and discriminations, which it was the greatest and fundamental purpose of congress to further."

As the suit was originally instituted by the Illinois Central and other railroads in the Illinois coal fields, the courts were asked to enjoin the enforcement of the interstate commerce commission's order, as it applied to the distribution of the fuel cars of foreign railroads and prevent cars of other shippers as well as the cars employed by the initial railroad companies themselves in handling their own fuel.

METHODS CHANGED BY THE TINTICS

A dispatch to the "News" at Salt Lake, from Provo, says: At the regular monthly meetings of the Sloux, Colorado and Iron Blossom companies this morning it was decided that dividends in the future shall be quarterly instead of monthly as has been the policy. This is the first time in more than a year that Colorado and Sloux have failed to hand out a velvet roll to the stockholders each month.

The meeting of the Sloux directors was the first since the annual meeting and the board was organized with Reed Smoot as president, Thomas R. Cutler, vice president and Reed L. Enderberg, secretary and treasurer. Although the directors decided to place the payment of dividends on a quarterly basis, no date was set for the initial payment.

Colorado and Iron Blossom directors decided that the first dividend in March. According to the reports made to the boards both mines are in excellent condition and a great deal of exploration and development work is being done.

The reason given out by the companies for paying dividends quarterly is that the monthly payments take up too much of the time of the clerical staff. This it is declared can be economized to a great extent by the new plan.
