CALLED BACK FROM THE GRAVE.

One of the most remarkable recoveries from electric shock and burning is that of Vear Ekins of Ogden, a boy fourteen years old. About two weeks prior to the death by electrocution of Fred Bramwell, Vear Ekins, with two companions, climbed a tower of the Telluride Power company, just east of the city. When sixty feet in the air and on the peak of the tower the boy, to signalize his triumphant climb, waved a handkerchief, which struck the high voltage wires, communicated the current to the body of the youngster and threw him headlong downward, through the network of wires and cross pieces of the tower to the ground.

When picked up Vear Ekins was deeply burned on his legs and arms. The flesh peeled off the bone. The current which passed through his body caused death, so the doctors declare. On that high tower the boy's heart had ceased to beat when the lifeless body commenced its fall. But with each knock, as the body in its descent struck the cross pieces, the heart was shocked until finally the dead was restored to life and the heart beat once more.

We have inquired as to the present condition of this youngster called back from the grave and find that, after extreme suffering, the little fellow is well along toward recovery, though he may be crippled for life. The flesh on the outside of the left leg was burned to the bone and the right leg on the inside was made a mass of sores, while the right arm was almost destroyed. The boy is still in bed at his home, 2844 Sheridan avenue, and requires tender handling by two persons when he is moved to dress his wounds. Though the worst sores have healed in the thirteen weeks since the accident, there are three sores, each a foot long, which are bandaged daily, the changing of the clothes causing excruciating pain.

Inasmuch as the boy still lives, we presume no one thinks of flowers—we keep our posies and roses for the dead. But would it not be a thoughtful act if some one should enter that home, where there is a large family and none too much of luxuries we take it, and do some one act which might help cheer the little sufferer?

IRISH HOLD BALANCE OF POWER.

The Unionists are gaining on the Liberals in the British elections, but evidently the government had such an advantage at the opening of the contest that the lead cannot be overcome.

The elections held so far prove that, aside from party prejudices, the people of England are for the House of Lords, their deference to nobility being greater than their devotion to principles of government as enunciated by party leaders. Had the Liberals gone into the elections with a majority in Parliament less than overwhelming, there would have been nothing but defeat for them. As it is, their strength of 355 votes will be cut to less than 200 and they will be saved from a complete rout by the eighty odd votes of the Irish party and 40 odd votes of the Laborites.

At present the indications are the Irish party will hold the balance of power in Parliament as it did during Parnell's supremacy when Gladstone, to retain a mastery of Parliament, made overtures on "Home Rule" which were accepted.

The Liberals, prior to election, made promises of a Parliament for Ireland and this promise may save them the loss of the reins of government.

RESPONSIBILITY RESTS WITH WOMEN.

Because Dr. Anna F. Ries has failed of confirmation as city physician by the city council, and because Councilman Dana, in a letter to the Standard, said he is ready to vote for Dr. Ries if the councilmen who supported her and the Republican city committee who recommended her are in earnest, the Salt Lake Tribune, just to sound a discordant note and cast a reflection, exclaims:

"Ha, ha! So there never was a real desire on the part of the administration to name the talented lady as city physician!"

There is nothing to indicate that the Mayor has failed to zealously support Dr. Anna F. Ries; there is no good reason for assuming that the city committee is not sincere.

Mr. Dana, we know, has intended no reflection on the Mayor, for he admits that the head of the city administration has earnestly advanced the claim of the lady to recognition.

If there is any criticism to be offered, it should be directed at the ladies themselves who have neglected to unsparingly urge upon their representatives the fitness of a woman to serve in any and all honorable capacities which, undoubtedly, include the profession of a physician.

The women of Utah can decide for themselves whether this profession shall be open to them. If their decision is in the affirmative, they should be influential enough as a body to establish a precedent in Ogden by having one of their number made city physician. It is for the women to determine the final outcome of this test of woman's rights.

IMPORTING DISEASE.

Have the officials of Utah connected with our state institutions been victimized by the cattle owners of other states? Government experts in tuberculosis have condemned a big percentage of the animals in the dairy herds of four of our state institutions, while outside those herds the number of infected animals discovered has been almost unworthy of mention.

The government officials do not hesitate to say that the state officials have been imposed upon.

If there is to be any more buying of "prize" stock outside the state, some one should be held responsible for the purchases. There is a double offense committed in these importations—that of wasting the people's money and endangering all the livestock of Utah by the presence of a destructive disease.

Why is there no certificate of health required with the purchases of these animals?

Editor Standard:—Simon Bamberger's opinion of Mayor Brewer and his pals in office may be gathered from the treatment accorded to the people of Ogden in general and the residents of Lincoln avenue in particular.
 At best railroading has many hazards, but railroading a la Bamberger as exemplified on Lincoln avenue is the limit. During the construction period no markers were displayed to betray the necessarily dangerous condition of the street.
 Judging the superstructure by the foundations, we may assume that it is a matter of indifference on this road (so far as Ogden is concerned) whether or not the customary safeguards against injury to persons or destruction of property are enforced.
 Without pleading poverty the city should demand that the portions of Twenty-fifth street and Lincoln avenue which constitute the Bamberger "depot" should be thoroughly illuminated at Simon's expense. After all, light is cheaper (to the city) than holdups and accidents.
 The immediate occasion of this communication is the use of steam power on the Bamberger early morning train—a clear case of insult added to injury and delivered in assorted packages.
 It has come to pass that the things the late mayor left undone are of greater importance than the things he did. His neglect—not malice on

EUGENE BATTELL OFFERS A FEW WORDS OF CRITICISM

Editor Standard:—The price of fresh eggs will drop in the next five or six days, if the predictions of the South Water Street commission merchants and large retailers materialize. Storage eggs are not likely to be affected by the change.
 The present spell of open weather has started the hens laying and if it continues, eggs are bound to go down," said John H. White. "Last week we got forty-four cents a dozen whole sale for our eggs, the highest price we have ever received. At present they are selling for 37 and 38 cents per dozen and probably will go as low as 32 cents next week. But I do not think the campaign against the high cost of living has had, or is likely to have any effect on the produce market."

my part—has qualified him as whipping boy to his successor.
 Bill's readiness to "do things" will soon put an end to the agony due to unfinished business. But there are still a great many mechanical details to be attended to. For instance, in addition to keeping cases on obstructions in the roadways, a list should be made of the sidewalks where water stands and forms ice. Head the list with the old high school and the Twenty-fifth street side of Fountain Park.
 We'll have to hurry or get a lemon in the shape of increased fire and life insurance rates.
 Respectfully (signed)
 EUGENE A. BATTELL.

CONDITIONS OF FOREIGNERS IN CHICAGO DEPLORABLE

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Foreigners in Chicago are in little better condition than they were in their own down-trodden lands, according to Miss Mary McDowell of the Chicago university settlement.

In a speech before the Chicago Life Underwriters' association last night, she asserted that Europeans in settlements back of the stockyards were left to herd together in unhygienic quarters and, as a general rule, were ignored by the authorities. When conditions became so bad that individuals were brought to the attention of the police or health department, she continued, they were treated with the same degree of force that they would receive in the countries from which they came.
 Miss McDowell advocated an effort to explain American conditions to the new citizens and induce them intelligently to obey United States laws rather than to gain blind obedience by force.

TRAINMEN PLAN FOR RAILROAD NEGOTIATION

Cleveland, Jan. 21.—Plans for negotiating with the railroad systems of the eastern part of the United States and Canada, for a wage scale increase and uniform working conditions were formulated at the headquarters of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen today. President Lee of the trainmen said that substantially all of the railroads had been heard from either formally or informally, with respect to the proposition submitted by the trainmen and order of railroad conductors. None granted any of the terms proposed by the employees, but each has expressed a willingness to negotiate a settlement. Prospects of a strike are considered meager.
 It is expected by Mr. Lee that the negotiations, which will begin at once, will last several weeks.

ALBERTA TO ESTABLISH PORK PACKING PLANT

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—Premier Rutherford has just made an important announcement to the farmers of Alberta. Rutherford and Minister of Agriculture Marshall at Edmonton met 90 delegates representing farming interests from all parts of Alberta.
 The premier gave official assurance that the Alberta government would establish a system of pork packing plants as soon as possible, provided farmers would guarantee to furnish the necessary animals to keep the plants running.

sently fingering her new diamond ring.

 "Hm," said Sophie, "I know a better way than that."
 "Do you?"
 "Yes, indeed. By my plan you take one particular man, place him on the sofa in the parlor, sit close to him with the light a little low, and look into his eyes. And then if he doesn't pop you'll know it's time to change the man on the sofa."—Ladies' Home Journal.

THEY ATE A CEMENT BET

SIXTEEN GUESTS AT UNIQUE AFFAIR LAST NIGHT.

Came About as the Result of a Wager Between M. S. Browning and Henry C. Baker.

Sixteen guests, half of them at the invitation of the winner and half at the solicitation of the game loser, last night, became active participants in a wager, their role being permanent stakeholders in the bet in which the stake was a dinner.

Two or three months ago, during the luncheon hour at the Weber club one day, Matthew S. Browning, prompted by a friendly interest, casually asked Henry C. Baker how the affairs of the Ogden Portland Cement company were progressing.

"Great," was the emphatic response. "We are running part of the machinery on test now."
 "What's your capacity?"
 "Five hundred barrels. We'll be turning out that much every day by January 1."

"Well, I'll just bet a dinner that there won't be any day between now and January 1 that you produce 400 barrels," snidingly offered Mr. Browning.

"Done, and I'll go you just one better. The winner will select the date of the dinner, and both the winner and loser will each invite eight guests, so that it will be a real dinner."

The raised wager was promptly taken—and the bet was paid last night by Mr. Baker.

The affair was an event even among the unique social affairs for which the club is known, and Mr. Baker, true to the role of a game loser, saw to it that nothing was lacking or wanting. Still true to his faith pinned in Ogden's Portland cement, he found ways to bring the cement manufacturing process even to the aid of the chef.

The champagne was of the "quick setting" variety, of 2,400 degrees Fahrenheit. At the cement works the effect of the degrees would be that of vitrifying the marl and clay mixture into a clinker, but it is stated on authority that the only clink last night resulting from the heat was that of the glasses.

The menu card, elaborate in its decorative effects, and showing with the fidelity of the camera lens Mr. Baker in the act of "digging" from the rocks at least the means of the dinner, formed a unique and pleasing souvenir of the delay in the opening of the Og-
