FOR GOD'S SAKE, DO SOMETHING!

We have answered this cry in our new book "Fighting the Traffic in Young Girls," by Ernest A. Bell, U. S. District Attorney, Sims and others. The most sensational indictment of the White Slave Trade ever published. It tells how thousands of young girls are lured from their homes annually and sold into a life of shame. The Cincinnati Inquirer says: "Of all the books of the season, the 'War on the White Slave Trade' is the most helpful; it should be read by every man, woman and child." Agents are making from $5 to $15 a day selling this book. Over 500 pages. Many pictures. Price $1.50. Best terms to agents. Outfit free. Send 15c for forwarding charges. FORMER OGDENITE MEETS SUCCESS

Dr. H. J. Sears, After Accumulating a Fortune, is on a Pleasure Trip—Was Prominent in Ogdren's Commercial Affairs Fifteen Years Ago—Studied Medicine in Chicago.

Dr. Heber J. Sears and wife, now of Chicago, have been visiting in Ogdren for the past few days. Dr. Sears was formerly a resident and business man of Ogdren, living here about twenty years ago. When the panic struck Ogdren, he was victim in its path. He was so situated that the crash caught him almost completely, but having an unconquerable spirit and ambition, he resolved to go to college and take a medical course. He left for Chicago with his family and by heroic efforts he worked his way through college. His pluck and energy led him into business that would yield him a small income that enabled him to carry on his studies. By the time he had finished his college course he was so deeply engaged in business that he didn't have much time to follow his chosen profession.

NEW TIME CARD ON THE O. S. L.

Beginning Midnight, June 12, Two New Trains Will Be Operated, the Los Angeles Limited and the Yellowstone Special—Opening of the San Pedro Road.

On Sunday, June 12 at 12:01 a. m. a new time card will go into effect at Ogdren. Two new trains will be added at that time. One will be the Los Angeles Limited, which made its last trip from Ogdren on January 1, 1910. The other train will be the Yellowstone special. A number of changes will be made on the time of trains on the Oregon Short Line, the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific.

While no official announcement has been received of the resumption of traffic on the San Pedro road between Salt Lake and Los Angeles, yet the bulletins announcing the same

CARPENTERS ARE NOW WAITING

The carpenters' strike remains unchanged today, and the possibility of an early settlement is quite as far remote as yesterday. It is stated by those interested, though, that there is little doubt but that the differences between the carpenters and the contractors and builders will be settled as soon as the interested parties can hold a conference.

In talking of the situation this morning, one of the carpenters a union man stated that the present situation could hardly be called a "strike." "We are not on a strike," said he. "We were simply advised by the walking delegate to take a vacation until an understanding could be had with the contractors and builders. This matter was taken up as early as January 7th of this year, when the union men asked a raise of 50 cents a day in their wages."

"The contractors and builders at no time, as we understand it, have taken exceptions to the request that the carpenters be paid $4.50 a day for their work, but it has been difficult for get them together and have them agree to that wage as a scale throughout the city. It was finally concluded that the best way to get them together on the question was to have the carpenters take a short layoff. We expect them to meet and fix the $4.50 scale before Monday morning."

There are but few union carpenters at work today, but it is stated by the men that inasmuch as the contractors and builders have always expressed a desire to do the right thing, unfinished contracts under the old scale will be fulfilled if necessary, and that the efforts of the carpenters would be to see to it that there be no particular inconvenience to builders or delay in building operations.

UTAH-IDAHO SHOOT TO BE HELD HERE

The Wasatch Gun club of the city is taking much interest just now in trap shooting and, it is said, that before the season is over some of the business men and pleasure seekers alike, remember him for his hospitable tendencies in his handsome home. Many a Utah man has found his delight, in seeing the City of Chicago, in whiling away a few pleasant hours in the automobile of Dr. Sears.

The former townsman has invested his money in about twelve states and, in looking about for opportunities, he has not forgotten Utah. During the past year he has spent with the members of his family considerable time traveling in the United States and in Mexico, entirely in the interest of pleasure. Dr. Sears is well pleased with Ogdren and has his eye on it for business investments in the near future.

His wife is the daughter of the Hon. Lorin Farr of Ogdren. She has been with him through his many experiences and difficulties and is now with him in the enjoyment of the products of his systematic thought and energetic work.

Utah and Ogdren are always ready to welcome back any son who has gone out for conquest and comes back victorious.

are expected to be received during the coming week. Traffic on this line has been suspended since the destruction of the line in the Meadow Valley Wagon Road. The "Yellowstone Special," which leaves Ogdren in the evening, arrives at Yellowstone station on the outskirts of the park the following morning early enough for passengers to take the stage and reach Firehole Basin in the early afternoon. The first trip of the "Yellowstone Special" will be made on the evening of June 15. The employes for the hotels in the park will leave Ogdren on the evening of June 6, and will arrive in the park the next day.

most interesting and noteworthy shooting contests held in the western country shall have been conducted here. The Utah-Idaho shoot has been scheduled for Ogdren and the Club is now arranging for the meet.

In this contest, which will likely be held some time in August, the best marksmen of the two states will be pitted against each other and it is more than likely that some of the best shots of the nation will be in attendance. Members of the local club were at the traps yesterday doing practice work, the results being quite satisfactory.

NOTICE WATER CONSUMERS

Hours for sprinkling lawns will be strictly enforced from June 1, 1910, as follows:
East of Adams Avenue—6:00 to 8:00 a. m.; 5:00 to 6:30 p. m.
West of Adams Avenue—5:00 to 10:00 a. m.; 6:30 to 8:00 p. m.
Inspectors are instructed to see that sprinkling is confined to the above hours, and when water is found running to turn off without further notice. C. H. KIRCHER, Superintendent Waterworks department.

CAMPBELL BROTHERS CIRCUS

Today is Circus Day. Children from six to sixty years are in their glory. Of course the older children must go and take the younger ones to the Campbell Brothers circus, which gives two performances on the Tabernacle square today, this afternoon and the other this evening. The attendance at both performances bids fair to be large.

While the Campbell Brothers have not a large show, they have a good one—two small rings—a large ring and elevated stage—and give a high class and worthy entertainment for about two hours and a half. The acts are all good. Every one has a great deal of merit and out of the ordinary circus acts. One of the big features is the Lemay brothers aerial act, which has received endorsement of the press.

Cossacks furnish amusement in rough riding and other pastimes of their race seldom seen in this country. Some genuine artists furnish some thrilling acts in bareback riding. The menagerie, with eleven head of elephants, contains some rare specimens, such as the tapir, ass, ostrich, camel, lions, tigers, camels, dromedaries, llamas and seals. The Bengal tigers has three kittens which are two weeks old. They are not larger than an ordinary house cat. They are playful and a sight that one may not see in a lifetime.

The circus has side shows with fairly good features. One curiosity is the spotted family, a mother, daughter and two sons that, while they are crooked are covered from head to foot with great white spots.

One thing noted about the Campbell Brothers show is the absence of the sure-thing games and grafters. There are no lottery games and other games of the shell variety by means of which the unsuspecting public can be fleeced of their money. Two or three of the brothers are with the show and carefully watch every feature of it. P. B. Campbell, the press agent of the show, piloted the press representatives of the local papers through the show and side shows today and was very modest and yet fair in his statements concerning the show and its attractions.

SECOND-HAND MEN IN COURT

In the municipal court this morning, George McBride and F. F. Wecker pleaded not guilty to the charge of conducting second-hand stores in the city without licenses.

City Recorder Carl Allison testified to the facts in the case, that the defendants are conducting second-hand stores and that they have refused to pay the merchant's license as prescribed by the city ordinances. The defendants offered no testimony, and the court found them guilty. They were sentenced to pay a fine of $100 each or serve 100 days in the city jail.

The attorney for the defendants stated that they would appeal the cases to the district court, and from there to the supreme court of the state, if necessary, to test the constitutionality of the ordinance under which they were prosecuted.

It was stated at the trial this morning that the second-hand dealers of the city had entered into an agreement to test these cases in the supreme court. The license provided for this class of business is $100 per year.

The court sentenced him to pay a fine of $5.
Ada Brown Heath pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy and was sentenced to pay a fine of $20 or serve twenty days in the city jail. The fine was paid.

It cost John Ragan and Robert Gignin $5 each for participating in an "unlawful drunk" yesterday.
John Sullivan, James Casey, William Egan, M. Murray, Thomas Williams and William McGuire pleaded guilty to vagrancy and were each given a 90-day "floater." The officers were instructed to see to it that the men left the city with two hours' time. G. H. Fish was also requested to leave the city or serve 90 days in jail, for vagrancy.

F. W. Jackson pleaded guilty to the charge of riding a bicycle on the sidewalk and was sentenced to pay a fine of $5.
Claude Johnson failed to appear in answer to the charge of speeding an auto faster than the law allows and his bail of $10 was forfeited.

William Connors and Phil Cullen acknowledged that they were drunk yesterday, and they were called upon today to pay a fine of $5 each.

The complaint against William McCarthy accused him of stealing a set of harness, the alleged property of Joseph Deru. McCarthy pleaded not guilty and the case was set for hearing Wednesday morning. The defendant was placed under a bond of $30.

PRESIDENT TAFT DISCUSSES THE LAW
threatening skies and a chilly atmosphere.
President's Speech
In his address to the graduates, the President said in part:
I am going to invite your attention this morning to a subject which is of importance to you in your start in life, the political and economic problems that, should you take part in politics as you ought to do, you will have to occupy your minds with.

In the first place let us take the business situation up. It is impossible to expect that the famous growth of trade shall continue in the proportion in which we have seen it expand during the last ten years, and it is reasonable to suppose that at some time within the next decade there will be some reaction or some financial stringency or perhaps a financial panic. Nevertheless, the progress that has been made is real and substantial. There may be a halt, there may be a scaling down of values, but these have only a momentary effect.

It is thought, and said, that the opportunity for individual success in business does not seem now so great as it was formerly and that, therefore, the opportunity for young men to win success in business seems less than it was thirty or forty years ago.

Promotion Not by Favor.
"It has been my duty to select and promote many men in official life and I know whereof I speak, when I say that successful business, whether government or private, whether small or large, depends chiefly on the selection of men by whom this business is to be done and that the promotion which successful men secure is not that which comes by favor, but by the logic of the circumstances and for the benefit of the employer. There is, therefore, today as much room for fit men as there ever was in business. The kind of success that comes from intelligent fidelity and industry to which a man devotes himself and the work which he does, speaks far louder in the demand for his promotion than all the good will of his employer or the influence that kind friends may seek to bring in his behalf.

Experienced Men Scarce.
"What is the condition of the professions, should you conclude to enter one of them? The enormous demand for the work of the members of certain scientific professions, like engineering, civil, mechanical and electrical, and manufacturing and chemistry, I need not dwell upon. In the last decade it has been hard to secure men with sufficient experience in the professions to justify employing them in positions which are open.

"In the profession of the law there seems an abundance of material, if one can judge by the large masses which institutions like this and other great schools are turning out upon the public. Those who pursue the profession of the law will find in it a tendency of modern days to make a profession a business.

Lawyers and Justice
"No one can have a profounder admiration for the legal profession than I have. We lawyers may properly feel an intense professional pride in the fact that of the great men who have founded this country, who defied the power of England in spreading the seeds of revolution and independence and preserved the institutions of civil liberty in this country nearly all were educated lawyers. Yet one must recognize that the administration of justice in this country has suffered grievously from the intense competition which lawyers have served their clients and the lightness of the obligation which they have felt to the court and to the public as officers of the court and the law to do no injustice. The lack of scruple as to means which counsel too frequently exhibit in defense or preservation of their clients' interests is often the real occasion for popular resentment.

The conduct of the defense of criminals in this country and the extremes to which counsel deem themselves justified in going, save their clients from the just judgment of law, have much to do with the disgraceful condition in which we find the administration. The awakened moral conscience of the country could find no better object for its influence than in making lawyers understand that their obligation to their clients is only to see that their clients' legal rights are protected and that they need not, and ought not, to lose their own identity as officers of the law in the cause of their clients and recklessly resort to every expedient to win the case. I believe that there is no escape from the evils to which I have referred, except by inducing the bar to cleanse itself of those who, in the interest of their clients, forget their obligation as Americans to the court and their duties as citizens.

The rewards of the profession of medicine is in many instances great, but the rush into the medical profession is not explained by the probable emoluments. It comes from the fascination of possible discovery; of that which will aid humanity and secure the investigator world-wide fame.

I regret to say that during the last generation the strongest young men do not seem to have been attracted by the ministry. The inadequacy of the compensation and the change for more commanding influ-
