

SUFFERED FOR YEARS OWE HEALTH TO PE-RU-NA.

Many a matron has lengthened the days of her comely appearance by taking Peruna. To be beautiful, the body must be kept clean internally as well as externally. Peruna produces clean mucous membranes, the basis of facial symmetry, and a clear, healthy complexion.

MRS. GEO. C. WORSTELL

Internal Catarrh. Mrs. George C. Worstell, 11 River Road, Clarksburg, W. Va., writes: "I can truly say I have been much benefited by the use of Peruna. I feel better than I have for two years. It is the best medicine that I know for internal catarrh. When I began taking Peruna I could see that before I had finished taking the first bottle it was doing me good."

Sick Headache. Miss Nettie E. Bogardus, R. F. D. 21, Westfield, N. Y., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from sick headaches, but am now entirely free from that trouble. I have not felt so well in ten years as I do now. I would recommend Peruna and Manalin to all sufferers."

Gained Appetite and Strength. Miss Julia Butler, Appleton, Wis., writes: "My sister advised me to try Peruna. I took your treatment and my appetite returned speedily. I gained strength and flesh and am in perfect health."

Mrs. O. D. Robinson, 36 St. Felix Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I have taken Peruna and it did me more good than all my two years' treatment by special physicians. I can really say that I feel like another person. No more swollen feet and limbs. No more bloating of the abdomen. No more shortness of breath. No more stiff and sore joints. You have no idea what your treatment has done for me. It certainly has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me."

TO PLAY SOCCER FOOTBALL HERE

Salt Lake and Ogden Teams Will Meet in This City on Thanksgiving.

What promises to be one of the most lively games of soccer football ever played in this city will take place on Thanksgiving day, when the local soccer team will oppose a picked team of soccer players from Salt Lake City. The game will doubtless be witnessed by a large number of association football enthusiasts.

The principals and students of the Ogden schools are especially invited to witness the game. Now that the Salt Lake schools have adopted the game the athletic directors of the local schools may decide to interest the students of this city in the game. Further particulars regarding the time and place of the Thanksgiving game, together with a line-up of the players, will be published later.

POLICE RAID TWO GAMBLING HOUSES

Officers Visit the Elephant and Grill Places and Arrest Attaches and Boosters.

Two Twenty-fifth street gambling houses, the Grill and Elephant, were raided by the police last night and a total of thirty men were placed under arrest. Among the number were the proprietors and several attaches of the two houses, but a majority of the number were boosters and hangers-on. The raids were successfully carried out by a party of police officials, consisting of Detectives Pender, Burk, C. Phocok, Wardlow, Captain Brown and Officers Richardson and Marlin. They visited the Grill at 9:30 o'clock, arresting six men, all of whom were found operating gambling devices. An hour later the officers descended on the Elephant and captured more than twenty men who were found in the place.

TONIGHT AND MONDAY, NOV. 20 AND 21 SEATS NOW SELLING

MRS. SCOTT DURAND, SUCCESSFUL FARMER

When the farmers of Illinois gathered last winter at the farmers' institutes of the state a surprise awaited them. Unsuspecting, they arrived in buggy, carryall and automobile. Leaving their spouses trustfully waiting, they entered the halls of learning, doubting not but they should hear the accustomed discourse from sage agricultural experts of their own sex. The surprise that awaited them was in the form of a woman, and the ball with which she bowled them over was the statement that in 1909 she had cleared $11,892 from her farm and that every dollar of this, except for some minor sales of corn, was made from her herd of 60 Holstein and Guernsey cows. To their spouses in wagon and auto the farmers returned, a sadder and wiser group. If Mrs. Scott Durand had left her $11,892 statement where it stood, doubtless her hearers would have assumed the creek on her land and dismissed the matter. But she talked for a considerable length of time, and as the truth gradually dawned that her profits lay in the brightness of her noble band of cows, not in a diluted coil of honor, the audience waxed intent. Before adjournment Mrs. Durand had shown these farmers what a modern, model dairy, run on a scientific and sanitary basis, is; it appeared less whimsical than just that Chicago joyfully gives 15 cents a quart for Mrs. Durand's milk. Mrs. Scott Durand of Illinois, progressive, enterprising, prosperous, is a significant example. She is but one of an army of women who are tussling with the soil from the irrigated apples of Oregon to the rock-bound potatoes of Maine. The lady is taking up the land. Here she pots and pampers a crop of corn in unit care on three she wheeds a flock of hens into laying; again she soaxes her bees to hive, or tempts her pigs to Christmas plumpness. Perhaps—who knows?—it is to be the hand of the lady which shall eventually lead back to nature this soot-stained, ledger-chained world—Collier's Weekly.

EDWARD MOST PARISHIAN OF KINGS.

The high place which the late King Edward VII. won among the monarchs of the age has been acclaimed by the writers of the press in all parts of the world, and will be formally acknowledged on the scroll of history, but to those who were intimate with the king the human side of his character was the more interesting. As a matter of fact, the land is almost unoccupied, and settlement makes little progress. A Sydney newspaper is now publishing a series of papers on "The Empty North," describing the vast natural resources, agricultural and mineral, of the northern part of the continent, showing that mines have been closed down and rich lands neglected all for want of labor. Nevertheless the commonwealth as a whole and each of the states are resolved to keep Australia a white man's country. They hold that slow progress is better than the importation of Asiatic labor. If free Asiatic labor is once recognized it must soon be the only labor employed. Europeans can not and will not compete with Orientals in the labor market, and the country which introduces Asiatic labor banishes the white laboring class. Australia does not consider it desirable to reduce the British population from work and have all the labor performed by immigrants from Asia. Better that the world should go elsewhere for sugar and the island laborer than that servile races should be introduced, preventing further immigration from Britain, and dividing the European population into two classes, one composed of gentlemen of leisure, the other of "poor whites"—Vancouver (B. C.) News Advertiser.

AUSTRALIA A WHITE MAN'S COUNTRY.

The opposition to Asiatic labor is stronger in Australia than in Canada. Canada has a climate suited to Europeans. The northern part of Australia has a climate almost tropical. It is difficult for Europeans to endure the life of a plantation laborer in that part of the commonwealth. As a matter of fact, the land is almost unoccupied, and settlement makes little progress. A Sydney newspaper is now publishing a series of papers on "The Empty North," describing the vast natural resources, agricultural and mineral, of the northern part of the continent, showing that mines have been closed down and rich lands neglected all for want of labor. LOUISA M. ALCOTT FLIRTED WITH PRINCE

It seems an awful thing, but here is the circumstance on record that Louisa M. Alcott, the sainted author of "Little Women," once publicly flirted with Edward VII. That fact comes out in Mrs. Belle Mose's book, "Louise May Alcott, Dreamer and Worker." There is a passage in the book which contains Miss Alcott's personal account of the incident. It refers to the time when the late king then Prince of Wales, made his famous visit to this country. "I went to Boston," Miss Alcott relates, "and saw the Prince of Wales trot over the common with his train at rielway—a yellow-haired laddie, very like his mother. Fanny W. and I nodded and waved as he passed and he openly winked his boyish eye at us, for Fanny with her yellow curls and wild waving looked rather rowdy and the poor little prince wanted some fun. We laughed and thought that we had been favored and flattered by the saucer wink than by a stately bow. Boys are always jolly—even princes." By the way, this incident occurred in 1860, when the Prince of Wales was 19 years old and consequently quite a brood of a boy, and when Miss Alcott was blushing to record it was 28.—New York Mail.

INDIAN WROKERS FOR TEMPERANCE.

Working quietly but steadily, a little band of Indian Shakers, adherents of a new Indian religion, are doing more to stamp out intemperance in the Northwest than any other factor. Asking no help from the whites or from the Indians themselves, but believing that they are directed by the spirit of their departed leader, the new Indian religionists are doing the priests of the belief are found in nearly all the Indian villages of Washington and Oregon. They teach one doctrine—temperance—cry continually against the evils of the liquor habit, and expound crudely the teachings of the Bible. John Slocum, the Moses of the Shakers, though dead, is their prophet. Through him the "Great Spirit" is directing the work of saving the red men from their greatest curse—whisky. Since the Shaker priests have started their crusade, the authorities are doing their best to stop the illegal traffic of liquor among the Indians. When an Indian, a member of the faith, backslides and falls by the wayside, the priests or the priestesses find out who sold the liquor and report the seller to the authorities. Convicted men are assessed the price of the Shakers, though dead, is their prophet. Through him the "Great Spirit" is directing the work of saving the red men from their greatest curse—whisky.

SHAVIAN WIT.

Bernard Shaw, although a vegetarian himself, does not fail to see the possibility of humor in the practice. Presiding recently at a meeting he was called upon to introduce Sir Edward Lyton, who confines his diet to nuts. "And now," said Shaw, "I present to you Sir Edward Lyton, he of the earth, earthy, and of the nuts, nutty."—Ladies' Home Journal.

SEEK DAMAGES FROM RAILROAD

Rocky Mountain Stud Seeking to Recover Damages for Lost Stock.

The Rocky Mountain Stud Farm has commenced suit against the Union Pacific Railroad company to recover $6670, alleged to be due for damage done to a carload of blooded sheep, 77 head, while they were being transferred from Council Bluffs, Iowa, to Utah. The complaint alleges that the sheep were held at Castle Rock, Utah, a station near Evanston, Wyoming, September 12, 1910, for a period of 29 hours without food or water, and that they were turned out upon the range along the track of the defendant company for 17 hours where there was scant feed. It is also alleged that the sheep were given cold water when their stomachs were empty, greatly damaging the sheep. The complaint further alleges that the sheep were ordered transferred from the Union Pacific train at Ogden to the Southern Pacific railroad, to be carried on to San Francisco, Cal., but that the sheep were not in a fit condition to be transferred when they reached Ogden because of the careless and negligent manner in which they were handled between Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Ogden.

RESOLUTIONS.

Ogden, Utah, Nov. 17, 1910. At a regular meeting at Ogden Lodge No. 211 Loyal Order of Moose of Ogden, Utah, held on November 11, 1910, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted: WHEREAS Harry E. Laine having been called by death from our midst we desire to express our high appreciation of his life and genial manner, his sterling qualities, our entire confidence in his sterling character, and deep sympathy of our loss of a most esteemed and valued brother. THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that while we deeply feel his loss we hereby extend to his family and relatives our sincere sympathy and commend them in their sorrow to Him "Who death all things well." RESOLVED, that these resolutions be placed on file, published in the daily papers and a copy be engrossed, framed and presented to his family as evidence of our esteem. Committee, W. M. THOMAS, Chairman, W. E. ALTHIBALD, G. F. ROACH.

OFFICER BREAKS UP INCIPIENT RIOT

Officer Robert Paine Arrests a Quartette of Sluggers Who Were "Mixing It Up."

A new record for the greatest number of single-handed arrests was established by Officer Robert Paine of the local police force yesterday afternoon. Shortly before 6 o'clock Officer Paine bumped into an incipient riot on Grant avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth street. There was a battle royal in progress, but the officer was not daunted in the least by the fact that there were four participants in the pitched battle. He had arrested two of the offenders and started for the police station, when the remaining two renewed their efforts to muss up each other's countenance. Turning his men over to the custody of a spectator, Officer Paine went back and arrested the other combatants. When lined up at police headquarters the names given by the quartette were John Van Arne, Lester Mahlin, Earl Jacobson and B. P. Pease. Each gave bond in the sum of $5 to appear before Judge Murphy Monday morning.

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS"

From all accounts a most interesting and very successful play will be Frederic Thompson's big New York success, "Polly of the Circus" which comes to the Orpheum theater, Saturday, December 3rd. One of the big features of "Polly of the Circus" are the circus scenes which are shown in the last act. The first shows the "Pad" room, a place where the acrobats limber up before entering the ring. The second scene shows the interior of the circus where for two minutes the "real thing" is presented in order to give around the ring—a regular circus ring and faint. Horses are galloping around the ring—regular circus ring in every particular. The tumbler and acrobats and clowns are all working as if their lives depended on their efforts, the trained dog and animals are all in the picture—and only for two minutes. It seems a great deal of trouble to take for one short stage picture, yet it is said to be the most realistic scene ever produced on a stage. The third scene is the one that shows the Frederic Thompson touch and atmosphere, and which was a sensation in New York City last season, having played at the Liberty theater over one year. In this scene a circus leaving the "lot" after the performance at night is shown. Mr. Thompson has provided a cast of well-known players assisted by fifteen circus performers of reputation. Ida St. Leon will be seen in the title character in which from all accounts she quite outdone her predecessors in the role.

EXTRA ATTRACTION AT THE GLOBE NEXT WEEK

WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP BASEBALL SERIES will be shown at the Globe theater as an extra attraction in addition to a regular bill of very fine pictures, for which the Globe theater is noted. This graphic film story of the big event shows the choicest bits and the most important plays in the entire five games. Subtitles explain plays and designate famous players. They show Big Chief Bender, Ty Cobb, big chief of the Detroit; Captain Davis and Manager Chance, Combs, the tares-time winner; Thomas the Athletic catcher; Johnny Evers on crutches, Old Cap Anson, Gary Herman, all the Chicago and Philadelphia players. The film closes with an interesting view of the great crowd which attended the final game, estimated at 27,000. THIS IS THE GREATEST AND MOST INTERESTING OF THE WORLD'S SERIES GAMES EVER PLAYED. In addition to this extra feature picture at the Globe many excellent subjects have been selected for the coming week. "The Vampire," a picture dramatization of Sir Ed Burne-Jones' famous painting, with suggestions from that world-famous poem by Rudyard Kipling—each conceded a peer in literature and the world of art. "Abraham Lincoln's Clemency," an intensely thrilling story of the Civil war, founded on facts, with titles in verse. A magnificently colored religious story, "The Woman of Saffron," the acting is perfect and the open air settings are wonderful. An interesting, entertaining and very novel picture is "A Day on the French Battleship Justice." To see how the "middles" and "jacks" do things in the French navy is very interesting. "A Trip Through Scotland," presenting a view of old Edinburgh, Fortbridge at Queensberry, River Craigie, Urquhart castle, Fingal's cave on the Isle of Staffa, Stormoway castle and bay and many other views. "A Trip Over the Rocky and Selkirk Mountains in Canada," along the Canadian Pacific railway from Calgary, with a few minutes' stop at Laggan, then down Fraser canyon and the Selkirk mountains. A visit to the National park, containing the largest herd of buffaloes in the world and on until Victoria is reached, where a pause is taken to view this beautiful city. Good comedy pictures will be in each house, including good laughs and pleasant recreation. Good music and some very pretty songs. All programs change Monday afternoon, and if you want to spend a real pleasant hour spend it in the houses of Photoplays.

KING GEORGE DISTILLER.

Although King George is almost a teetotaler, he is the owner of a private distillery which produces excellent Scotch whisky. The whisky distillery is on his Scotch estate of Balmoral. For a long time it was operated commercially by a dealer, but when the lease lapsed to the crown Queen Victoria continued its operation. Its product was not marketed, but was kept exclusively for the use of the royal family. Queen Victoria was partial to Scotch, and drank it at her luncheon. The whisky is sent to Buckingham palace, where expert cellar men keep an eye on it while it is maturing for 15 years. After maturity the casks of it are sent as gifts to the crowned heads of Europe.—London.

THE FIREFLY PUZZLE.

Despite the fact that science has been puzzling over the problem for many years—experimenting and analyzing and dissecting—the glow-worm's secret is still unsolved. We know very little more about its mysterious lamp—physiologic light than we do about the mechanism of the insect's body is a mistake. Analyses show very minute quantities of this element, and these in the form of phosphates. The light is the most economical form of illumination known. Its efficiency is ninety-six per cent, as compared with four per cent for the best artificial light now known. The amount of heat produced by the firefly in running its lamp is so small that it can not be measured. The light from different phosphorescent organisms has been described as of very various colors—red, blue, green, yellow, etc. Spectroscopic analysis of the common firefly's flashes showed "an unsmoky structureless band in the red, yellow, and green." A fluorescent substance may be extracted from the common firefly. When some of its luminous tissue is carefully dried, it may be made to glow again by moistening it with water. It retains this power for considerable periods if kept dry. It is practically certain that oxygen is necessary to the production of physiologic light, so that it may be considered as due to some mysterious process of oxidation. The structure of the light organs of all phosphorescent organisms is quite similar. They "appear to be masses of cells of some special kind" penetrated by a network of passages. What these tubules contain during life is not known. It is evidently from the above summary that all we are really sure of at present regarding physiologic light is that we do not know anything at all about it, at least anything of scientific value in explaining its mysterious characteristics. The field is an extremely fascinating one, and a real solution of the problem might have important and far-reaching economic results, because the present artificial lighting methods are highly inefficient and wasteful. Of course the puzzle will be unraveled sometime or other, and a second Standard Oil fortune may be awaiting the lucky man.—From Collier's for September 2.

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL

All too knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbago, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuritic pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these troubles.
