REHEARSAL IS A BIG SUCCESS

Under the direction of Conductor Joseph Ballantyne and Stage Director John D. Spencer, a full rehearsal of the opera "Erminie" was held in the Ogden theater Friday evening.

The result of the consistent rehearsals of the chorus and principals which have been held during the past week was plainly apparent in every feature of the opera, and the rehearsal proved a distinct encouragement to those in charge.

The score of the opera contains some real musical gems, which are now well under control by both soloists and chorus.

David Reese, who sings honor roll of Eugene in "Erminie."

The story of Erminie deals principally with the adventures of two thieves, Cadeaux and Ravennes, who have escaped from the convict prison at Toulon, and for whom a company of soldiers are in pursuit. On their way across the country these two robbers meet a certain Viscount De Brissac, whom they rob of all his effects, letters of introduction, etc., and leave him bound to a tree in the forest of Toulon. In the first act we see them at a roadside inn and coach house, the Lion D'Ore, where the marquis has arrived, accompanied by his daughter Erminie, her friend Cerrise, the Chevallier De Brabazon, an old roue, and Eugene, the marquis' secretary, a brother of Cerrise and lover of Erminie, without the knowledge of De Brissac, whom the marquis is about to betroth to Erminie.

Ravennes, the robber, overhears this, and at the same time, learning that none of the party have ever seen the viscount, presents the letters of introduction and introduces himself as the viscount, and his friend Cadeaux as the Baron Bonne, accounting for their appearance by stating that they have been waylaid and robbed in the woods. This is for the double purpose of escaping from the soldiers, who are in hot pursuit, and at the same time afford them an opportunity, as guests of the marquis, to rob his house. The soldiers arrive at the inn, and just as the party are about to set off for the chateau, the real viscount appears, but is at once denounced as the robber by the two thieves and is arrested and taken to prison as the curtain falls.

The second act takes place in the ball room of the chateau of the marquis, where a reception is being held to celebrate the betrothal of Erminie to the viscount. Eugene, fearful of losing his love, is watching with jealous and suspicious eyes the attentions of the pretended viscount, while the false baron is devoting himself to an eccentric old princess, and incidentally relieving her of her cash and valuables, under the pretense of leg- ermain, and causing much amusement by his antics. The captain of the soldiers arrives from the prison with a statement from the viscount to the marquis, which is secured by Erminie, on the advice of Ravennes, who promises to aid her in her love affair with Eugene, and thus averts the threatened arrest and disaster for the second time, and the curtain falls on a picturesque tableau.

The third act is in a reception hall in the chateau. The two thieves have made all their preparations to rob the house of all the valuables they can secure, and, to aid them in their escape, Ravennes has persuaded Erminie to elope with Eugene, she orders a carriage to be brought from the stable for that purpose, and all retire for the night. The thieves then begin their operations. The chevallier, who cannot sleep and goes into the garden to take a walk, returning by mistake gets into the room of the old princess, whose screams alarm the household, and the thieves are arrested with their plunder.

Just at this moment the true viscount arrives, having been released from prison, and the marquis, learning for the first time that he is already betrothed to Cerrise, consents to the marriage of Erminie and Eugene everything thus ending to the entire satisfaction of everybody except the two thieves whose fate will, no doubt, be a hard one. In view of the amusement they afford.

R. A. Watts forfeited $5, which he had deposited at the time of his arrest on the charge of allowing his horse to stand on the street without hitching.

MRS. DE VOE, FAMOUS WOMAN

Mrs. Emma Smith DeVoe, president of the Equal Suffrage association of Washington, and leader in the recent campaign which ended in the enfranchisement of 175,000 women, was in Ogden yesterday and talked of the great feminine victory, to a reporter of the Standard.

Mrs. DeVoe is a motherly looking woman and is not of the militant type of suffragette. In fact, the Washington representative of the equal suffrage movement says that the victory in the great western commonwealth was not in any sense of the word a fight and that there was no "agitation" by the women preceding the contest at the ballot box on November 8.

"We used methods of our own," she said, ransacking in her scrap for the newspaper evidences of the peacefulness of the campaign, "and there was no struggle of any kind. We carried on the campaign in a very lady-like manner and had occasion to resort to nothing that would not have looked well in a drawing room. We had the support of all the broad-minded men of the state and nearly every newspaper was with us."

At this juncture, Mrs. DeVoe took from her satchel a bundle of newspaper editorials clipped from the papers of her home state, and commented on their fairness. She gave a great part of the credit for the triumph of the movement to the newspapers of Washington.

"It was the greatest victory that the women of the country have ever gained," she continued. "We now have five states in the union where the women have equal suffrage and they are all western states. The first state to recognize the right of women to vote was Wyoming, the second Colorado, then Utah, Idaho and Washington, the last having the largest population and the first having the smallest."

To show the subtleness of the campaign which the women waged in Washington, Mrs. DeVoe confessed that one of the greatest agents in the propaganda for equal suffrage was a cook book, which was printed by the association and distributed broadcast throughout the state. On the back of the book were those often flouted words, "Votes for Women." It was an appeal to man's stomach and it did not fail. The vote on the question of giving the women of the state the right of franchise was carried by a proportion of two to one. The exact size of the vote has not yet been determined.

When asked what she thought of the militancy displayed by the women of England, Mrs. DeVoe changed her mood, and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

$3.50 RECIPE CURES WEAK MEN FREE

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, falling memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4429 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.
