HOW THE MARCH WAS WRITTEN

The Way John Phillip Sousa Came to Write the March For His Famous Light Opera "El Captain"

When Sousa was writing "El Captain," one of the most successful comic operas of many years, he studiously avoided any semblance of march time in the music, presumably for the very reason that the public would naturally anticipate a march of some sort in a Sousa opera, and that he would demonstrate that he not only was not over-inclined to march time but really avoided it save when he saw fit to give to the field of band music a special contribution. Therefore the opera was born and christened devoid of march time. It has a more or less war-like atmosphere, and there was every opportunity for a real stirring martial ensemble climax, but Sousa used the chance with other treatment equally effective.

Time came for staging the opera and the producers were enthusiastic. At the first rehearsal one of them suggested that a certain martial scene should be sung in march time. The suggestion at once created an impression throughout the company as well as among the producers, and the latter set to find Sousa who was living at the Grenoble at the time.
"Look here, Mr. Sousa," said the spokesman, "the finale of the second act of 'El Captain' offers a magnificent opportunity for a grand march, and we have come to ask you to write one especially to fit the spot."
"Nonsense," replied Sousa, "that is the very thing I avoided doing."
"Ah, but you do wrong! You throw away a grand chance! Please do it!"
For more than a week the famous composer was obdurate, but so much pressure was brought to bear that at last he consented to write a special march for the opera and not only that but he put a band in the scene and that scene has never failed to arouse an audience to high pitch. This is how one of Sousa's greatest marches came to be written.
"El Captain" will appear at the Traders Grand opera house Tuesday evening, September 27.

A Chance for Northern Farmers.
Are you tired of our cold northern winters, with their sickness and disease? Are you tired worrying over the danger of a crop failure and consequent financial ruin? Are you tired of working hard all season without a fair financial return of your efforts? Do you want to avoid all this, and live in a country where the air is always balmy and the climate healthy; where crop failures are unknown and financial troubles vanish; where land can be bought cheaply and taxes are almost nothing; where churches and schools are plentiful and the country thickly settled? All of these advantages can be secured along the line of a double tracked railroad, and with the greatest markets in the United States at your very door. A postal or letter addressed to the undersigned will bring you FREE OF CHARGE, descriptive matter and particulars. E. A. RICHTER, T.P.A., Ill. Cent. R. R. 512 PARK BUILDING, PITTSBURG, PA. jan29wtf.

A Remarkable Tree.
The most remarkable tree yet discovered in the island of Pterio, one of the largest of the Canary group. This island is so dry that not even a rivulet is to be found within its boundaries, yet there grows a species of tree, the leaves of which are narrow and long and contain green throughout the year. There is also a constant cloud surrounding the tree, which is contained and falling in drops, keeps the cisterns placed under it constantly full. In this manner the natives of Pterio obtain water, and as the supply is limited the population must of necessity be limited also.

Had Made a Change.
"Isn't there something in my policy," asked a caller at an insurance office the other day, "about my having to report any change of residence?"
"Yes, sir," said the man at the nearest desk, picking up a pen. "Where have you moved to?"
"I haven't moved anywhere," rejoined the caller. "I have made a change in my residence by painting it a light straw color and putting a chimney pot on the kitchen chimney. I think that's all. Good day!"
Suggesting an Improvement.
The owner of the new apartment house was exhibiting it to his brother-in-law, who was an architect.
"I had it built according to my own ideas," he said, "and it's built for keeps. An earthquake wouldn't have any effect on it!"
"That's a pity," said the brother-in-law. "An earthquake might improve it."—Chicago Tribune.

An Outrage.
Conductor—You'll have to pay fare for that child, sir; he's over six. Passenger (magnanimously)—Well, that's the first time I've ever been asked to pay fare for that baby, and he's ridden with me on cars for nine years and more.

National and Explanational.
"Is that congressman what you would call a national figure?"
"Well," answered the village wag, "when he's in Washington he's a national, but when he gets back here he's explanation!"—Exchange.

The Dear Girls.
Milly—You know, dear, we've been engaged for two years, and I think it's time we were getting married. Tilley—Oh, I don't know, dear. If you really love him you'll let him be happy for a little longer yet.

THE LUDDITES.

Authors of the Famous Stocking Frame Riots in England.
Early in 1811 bands of distressed stocking knitters in Nottinghamshire began a long series of riots, marked by most wanton mischief. Assembling in parties of from six to sixty under a leader styled general or Ned Ludd, disguised and armed with swords, pikes, hammers and axes and bound together by illegal oaths, they succeeded in smashing stocking frames in all parts of England, and their daring outrages continued even when a large military force was brought into the neighborhood and two London police magistrates came down to assist the civil power.

To such a pitch had this dangerous disturbance grown that a royal proclamation was issued offering a reward of £50 for the apprehension of any of the offenders. Not until October, 1816, did this wholesale destruction and violence cease, by which time more than a thousand frames and many lace machines had been broken up and the mischief had spread into neighboring counties.—London Chronicle.

The American Honeycombs.
Faithful in few things, the American public yet remains true to an old honeycomb tradition which assigns those to whom Europe is an impossible expense to Niagara Falls and Washington, the national capital. In these two centers bridal parties have been since the prey of hotel men and cabin. Modern maidens may consider them a little old fashioned, but when the time comes to choose a wedding tour the west, the middle west and the rural east of the United States are still true to Niagara Falls and Washington. It is in the spring and summer, when of course the larger number of marriages take place, that these resorts are so popular. In the winter New York itself is the Mecca of the newly wed.—London Telegraph.

Men Who Soap Themselves.
"We still find men who have a limited faith in the old fashioned idea of giving their hair 100 strokes with the brush night and morning," said the old barber. "Some of them are not content with the old fashioned hog's bristle brush. They use a wire brush, electric or otherwise. It's all a fake. A brush drags out the hair by the roots much more quickly than a comb. A man who wants to save his hair should use the brush as little as possible. With women it is different. They have thick, long hair, and if it is not brushed daily it is likely to fall out. Besides, a brush gives gloss to the hair, and that's what women like. But with a man a healthy head of hair looks as well without the gloss as with it. All that is necessary for him is to keep the hair clean and use the comb. He has very little use for the brush."—New York Press.

Danish Pensantry.
The Danish peasant have a not able love of order and symmetry in household arrangement, placing their furniture wherever possible in pairs and in exactly corresponding positions. One peasant who had accumulated a little money and had been prevailed upon to buy his daughter a piano seriously considered buying another to place against the opposite wall. Their bedsteads consist of great boxes, generally painted red or green and heaped with feather beds between which they thrust to themselves winter and summer. If unable to afford so many feathers, the underbed is of straw and receives so little attention that mice build their nests in it and race back and forth squealing shrilly without disturbing the stolid peasant slumbers. The bedding is not washed oftener than once or twice a year.—London Standard.

Judicious.
Many a true word is spoken quite by accident. There were two middle aged women in the waiting room of a department store the other day, and, looking over the railing, they espied an acquaintance on the floor below.
"There's Mrs. Blank," said one.
"Well, I must say that she's done a wise thing for once. No woman ought to go on living with a man that acts like her husband's done."
"What's she done?" asked the other.
"Ain't you heard?" queried the first. "Why, she's got a judicious separation."—Washington Post.

Bamboo Crab Traps.
A curious use of the bamboo in some islands of the Pacific is as a crab trap. The jointed bamboo is stuck into the ground. Each piece has a little bow half way up, and a string set at tension to shoot off an arrow and heaped through an aperture in the lower part of the cylinder. It is set at the mouth of crab holes and when the crab proceeds to climb up to the upper part of the tube a delicately set hook releases the broad arrow, which closes the lower aperture and imprisons the crab.

Origin of the Word "Farm."
The origin of the word "farm" is as follows: In the Saxons' time the estates which the lords of manors granted to the freemen were at first but for a term of years, with a reversion to a rent, which in those days was of corn and other produce. The leases so made were called fermes, or fermes, but times ensuing turned the fermes into freeholds and terms of years to terms of life and inheritance.

Sins of the Fathers.
Fair Girl—I am sure papa would not object to you, but I am afraid mamma will. She says your family have traveled tastes. Rich Grocer's Son—Good gracious! Where did she get that idea? Fair Girl—I think she judges by the butter that your father used to recommend as good.

The Dear Girls.
Milly—You know, dear, we've been engaged for two years, and I think it's time we were getting married. Tilley—Oh, I don't know, dear. If you really love him you'll let him be happy for a little longer yet.
