SANTA CLAUS VISITS THE TELEGRAM OFFICE

Appoints the Editors His Special Representatives From Now Until Christmas to Find Out What the Little Boys and Girls Want to Receive Christmas Morning.

He Was in His Great White and Silver Sleigh Drawn by Four and Twenty Reindeers on His Way to His Rome in the Land of the Midnight Sun.

Santa Claus visited the Daily Telegram office early this morning. He came into the editorial department while the editors were upstairs in the press rooms seeing this issue of the Daily Telegram to press. Not supposing that any person was about he left a note for the editors. The jolly old fellow was in a great hurry and had just stepped into the Telegram office on business. The newspaper men upstairs heard the jingling and jangling of thousands of little silver sleigh bells in the street just outside the office door and hurried down to see if it was really Old Santa for they had received an inkling that he would call to see them on a business trip.
Upon arriving in the editorial rooms the editors and reporters found that Santa had really been there for upon the floor lay several Christmas tree twigs and one or two glistening and sparkling tree ornaments and the front windows were heavily frosted. Upon the first desk in the office he left the following note:
"Office of Santa Claus, Land of the Midnight Sun, North Pole. December 8, 1904.
Editors Telegram:
In great hurry. Am in by big white and silver sleigh with my twenty-four reindeers hurrying me to my home in Kriskingleland. I appoint you my representatives in Clarksburg from now until Christmas night and I want you to find out what all the good boys and girls in Clarksburg want for Christmas so I will know what to leave them. I have been rushed nearly to distraction in getting all my presents ready and will have to keep working day and night until Christmas in order to get them all finished. I have several factories working day and night turning out fine toys, playthings and all kinds of good things for the good boys and girls. You can save me great trouble and worry if you will have the boys and girls of Clarksburg to write their letters to you and ask what they want for Christmas. Put my name down on your subscription list and I will get your paper every day and read those letters. Then I can tell what to bring to Clarksburg with me Christmas night and save an extra trip there.
"I will give nice Christmas presents to every boy and girl who writes letters to the Telegram telling what they want. Have them to address them to me as follows: 'Santa Claus, 127 Iceland Avenue, Land of the Midnight Sun, in care of the Daily Telegram.'
"Tell the boys and girls to hurry and let me know what to get them right away before the factories run short of material."
Hastily,
"SANTA CLAUS."
Santa Claus is greatly rushed this year in getting his things ready as can be seen by his own writing. The boys and girls who expect to get anything for Christmas should write their letters to them at once and mail them to the Daily Telegram office. The Telegram guarantees that the letters will be received by Santa Claus and that he will send them something for Christmas if they do.
