

Broke a Rib
Miss Nancy Shusterman, met with a painful mishap at her home on West Main street Thursday night. She had been in the back yard and she was going up the rear steps, she slipped and fell, breaking a rib on the right side. The injury is very painful but will not prove serious.

Dance at Waldo
A delightful dance was given last night at the Waldo. A good number of dancers were in attendance and they all spent a pleasant evening. Wells' orchestra furnished the music for the affair.

Will continue to give the same careful attention to the interests of its customers that it has done for the last half century.

There is a Reason why

We command such enormous volumes of the clothing patronage of the whole State. It's because we produce them direct to the consumer, cutting out several intermediate profits, enabling us to give you better cloth, better trimmings, better make, better fit, better comfort and better style than can possibly be produced by any other concern in the country.

Price is Seldom a Criterion for Value.

Our standard of excellence is very high although the price is exceptionally low.

All Suits $15 No More
All Overcoats $15 No Less

The 'Woman's Store'
Coats Underprice

THROUGH the season, which has been an unusual heavy one, various odds and ends have accumulated in spite of our sharp lookout to prevent it. These coats, we have gathered together, reduced the price and separated them from the others. All are absolutely this season's style in Empire, Loose-back and Tight-fitting styles. All at a big reduction to clean them out quickly. Come and see.

RAINCOATS

Still selling as well as ever. This morning's express brought 50 more of those variously pleasing designs. Special $8.75, $9.98 and $12.00.

BROADDUS IS PROSPERING

The work of the fall term is almost completed. The term has been a pleasant one, because of the satisfactory work done by teachers and students. Among the new plans of work is a lecture course under the auspices of the English department. The first of this series of lectures was given by Prof. J. H. Cox, of Morgantown University, in the chapel.

A pleasing feature in the musical department is the weekly parlor recital. These recitals are given every Tuesday night in the presence of a few friends. They will be followed later by public recitals at the church.

The winter term will open December 4. This will be a good time for new students to enter.

UNDERTAKER'S LICENSE MUST BE RENEWED

The undertakers and embalmers throughout the state, have received notices during the past week from the Secretary of State Charles W. Swisher, that they must go before the clerk of the county court in their respective counties and renew the licenses which were issued to them some years ago. In giving the undertakers and embalmers notice that they must have their license renewed the state official did not give any further instructions and the undertakers and the county clerks are in a quandary what to do in the matter.

An Extra Sunday

There will be 53 Sundays in this year, an occurrence that will not happen again for 110 years. This extra Sunday can be utilized in attending church, calling on your best girl, reading scripture, playing with the children, playing a game of football or in some other way. One hundred and ten years from now you will probably be paying the penalty or enjoying the pleasure of the method in which you choose to spend this extra Sunday.—Exchange.

POLICE COURT

For the third time in succession there was no chance of holding court this morning. No citizen was public-spirited enough to get himself pinched. The state of affairs is unprecedented. The police are completely exhausted from hunting up a criminal. All the most approved methods that even a Sherlock Holmes or a Hiram Shade could devise, have been tried, we have used gum shoes, dark lantern, hand-cuffs, and we would be afraid to state how many gallons of clues the officers have used, but to no avail.

As a distinguished former patron of our bar said, "We ain't got no more court than a rabbit; there ain't no more court a' tall." We asked one of the officers if this would last and he said if this kind of weather lasted all winter we would have fine hunting. Rather ambiguous, but probably he knows what he is talking about.

POETS ARE BORN AND NOT MADE

The following verses are published because they show signs of unmistakable poetical ability and promise. At the author's request we withhold his name, but suffice to say this rising young bard hails from West Milford, that glorious region whose sons have already made their mark in various fields of usefulness.

It is indeed a poem full of promise, the delicate way in which disguise is made to rhyme with pies, shows the rhymster's tasteful gift is slumbering neath the tattered coat of this Arcadian piper. And then you will notice the sly humor in the "envoi." He doesn't want to be known, the rascal, but the light of this genius is not to be hidden under any bushel in West Milford. We predict a great and glorious future for this young poetaster.

We deeply regret that we are not able to pay any real money for poetry, but we extend to this rising son of poetic our heartiest "Banzais," also the laurel wreath that the muse expects and also our sympathy:

"I AM ONLY A TRAMP IN DISGUISE."

No doubt you'd think by the clothes I wear
That I am a multi-million air,
Or that I have money, money to burn;
But all that I have got, I have got yet to earn.

OH, I'M ONLY A TRAMP IN DISGUISE.

No doubt you'd take me for a preacher,
Or perhaps a Sunday school teacher;
But I am most anything else but that,
You can't tell a man by the cut of his coat or his hat,
(Unless he talks through the said chapeau.)

ENVOI.

He is somewhat of a poet,
His face don't show it,
His friends don't know it,
The editor promised not to blow it,
[We hope to be favored with more communications from this sweet singer.—W. C. M., Poet General.]

BROADDUS VS. HIGH SCHOOL

There will be a very interesting and hotly contested game of football on the old fair grounds gridiron tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock between the High School and Broaddus eleven. This is the third game between these rivals for local championship. Last year Broaddus defeated High School 2-0, and also beat them this year 6-0. There will be no Althouse-Gaston business about this game.

The line-up of both teams is as follows:

High School	Broaddus
Lynch	Kemper
Williams	Wilson
Boyle	VanWagon
Deason	B. Stout
Kyle	Zinn
Shawalter	Stout
Bayard	Alderson
Coughlin	Feister
Weidenhamer	Bonghner
Peck	Walter
Smith	D. Bonghner
Osborn	Wells

Osborn and Wells substitutes for High School.

An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged, the proceeds to be used to purchase a complete set of the books of Old King Brady and Nicholas Carter.

WESLEY CURRENCE IS AN EPILEPTIC

John Wesley Currence, the U. S. prisoner who has been confined in jail at Parkersburg for several months, awaiting trial, was examined today by Dr. W. S. Keever and Rolla Camden, pursuant to an order entered by Judge Dayton, while in that city Monday.

The physicians find that Currence is subject to epilepsy, and he has had numerous attacks since he has been incarcerated in the jail, and on one or two occasions he was in a critical condition, consequently his mind is impaired, the physicians reporting that persons suffering with a malady
