If you like coffee but dare not drink it, try Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee. It is true that real coffee does disturb the stomach, heart and kidneys. But Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee has not a grain of true coffee in it. Being made from parched grains, malt, etc., it forms a wholesome, food-like drink, yet having the true flavor of Old Java and Mocha Coffee. "Made in a minute." Call at our store for a free sample. Sold by all dealers.

It always takes a woman to strike terror to the hearts of telephone pole men.

Dancing Proves Fatal. Many men and women catch colds at dances which terminate in pneumonia and consumption. After exposure, if Foley's Honey and Tar is taken it will break up a cold and no serious results need be feared. Refuse any but the genuine in a yellow package. Sold by Sturm & Wilson.

Dairy and Food Commissioner's Report.

The Minnesota Dairy and Food Commission's analysis shows that Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar contained opiates and croton oil. Opiates are poisons and croton oil is a violent poisonous purgative. Refuse to accept any but Foley's Honey and Tar in a yellow package. Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates or dangerous drugs and is the best cough and cold cure. Sold by Sturm & Wilson.

Minerals in Water.

Lead or zinc ore can be so finely pulverized that a tablespoonful may be mixed in a bucket of clear water without being visible to the naked eye. When thus powdered the particles are so minute that it often takes half an hour for them to settle to the bottom of a vessel full of water. This fact makes it evident that a stream may carry large quantities of minerals rich in metals.

Nearly Tamed.

"Now, Pat," said a magistrate to an old offender, "what brought you here again?" "Two policemen, sir," was the laconic reply. "Drunk, I suppose?" queried the magistrate. "Yes, sir," said Pat; "both of 'em."

The Worst.

"Doctor, I must positively insist upon knowing the worst."

"Well, I think my bill will be about $100."

Cured of Bright's Disease.

Mr. Robert O. Burke, Elmora, N. Y., writes: "Before I started to use Foley's Kidney Cure I had to get up from twelve to twenty times a night, and I was all bloated up with dropsy and my eyesight was so impaired I could scarcely see one of my family across the room. I had given up hope of living, when a friend recommended Foley's Kidney Cure. One 50 cent bottle worked wonders and before I had taken the third bottle the dropsy had gone, as well as all other symptoms of Bright's disease." Sold by Sturm & Wilson.

When Thackeray Struck.

A letter written by Thackeray to the proprietor of Fraser's Magazine is quoted under the head of "When Thackeray Went on Strike." As a matter of fact, Thackeray, so far from acting on the principle of individualism, acted on precisely the opposite principle and asserted his right to individual preference. "Well," he says, "I dare say you will be very indignant and swear I am the most mercenary of individuals. Not so, but I am a better workman than most of your crew and desire a better price." He ends amiably, "You must not, I repeat, be angry or, because we differ as tradesmen, break off our connection as friends."—London News.

THE SAIS OF EGYPT.

Warning Runner Who Bellows Like a Bull as He Goes.

The sais is a runner who keeps in front of a carriage and warns common people out of the way and who beats them with a stick if they do not hurry up about it.

It is obvious that to do this he must run quickly. Most men when they run bend their bodies forward and keep their mouths closed in order to save their wind. The sais runs with his head and trunk straight, and his hands held out in front of him like a walking stick, and he wears a soft shirt of white stuff and a sleeveless coat buried in gold lace.

He is a perfect ideal of color and movement, and as he runs he bellows like a bull or roars as you have heard a lion roar at feeding times in a menagerie.

There are sometimes two of them running abreast, dressed exactly alike and with the upper part of their bodies as rigid as the wand pressed against their sides and with the ends of their scarves and the long tassels streaming out behind.

As they yell and bellow donkeys and carriages and people scramble out of their way until the carriage they precede has rolled rapidly by. Only princesses of the royal harem and consuls general and the heads of the army are permitted two sais; other people may have one.

SWEET MELODY FLOUR.

Sir Walter Scott's First Brist.

Sir Walter Scott had his share of the usual curious experiences shortly after being called to the bar. His first appearance as counsel in a criminal court was at Jedburgh assizes in 1792, when he successfully defended a veteran poacher. "You're a lucky scoundrel," Scott whispered to his client when the verdict was given. "I'm first of your mind," returned the latter. "and I'll send you a maulin (i. e., a hare) the morn, morn." Lockhart, who narrates the incident, omits to add whether the maulin truly reached Scott, but no doubt it did. On another occasion Scott was less successful in his defense of a housebreaker, but the culprit, grateful for his counsel's exertions, gave him, in lieu of the orthodox fee, which he was unable to pay, this piece of advice: "The value of which he (the housebreaker) could professionally attest: 'First, never to have a large waterdog out of your terrier within, and, secondly, to put no trust in nice, clever, gimcrack locks but to pin his faith to a huge old heavy one with a rusty key. Scott long remembered this incident; and thirty years later, at a judge's dinner at Jedburgh, he recalled it in this impromptu rhyme:

Ye'll see, rusty key, Was Walter Scott's best Jedburgh fee. —Westminster Gazette.

Wastebasket Treasures.

"I have in my employ," said a dealer in autographs, "a number of celebrities' housemaids. Thanks to these young women, I secure at nominal cost many an autographic gem. All I ask of the maids is that they slip me weekly the contents of their masters' wastebaskets. They bale the stuff up in burlap, and every Monday or Tuesday it comes to me by freight. I go over it carefully, making many finds. Here will be a begging letter from a famous author in hard luck. Here in a brief note a great actor will boast of his baskets. They will be a dinner invitation from a celebrated millionaire. Some celebrities, of course, save their valuable letters, and some send them, but the majority throw into the wastebasket most of the mail they receive, and I, searching the baskets' contents every Monday morning, find my reward in many a letter worth $10 or $20."

A Snob.

Thackeray designated a snob as a being on a ladder who is quite as ready to kiss the feet of him who is above him as to kick the head of him who is below.

Nothing sharpens the arrow of sarcasm so keenly as the courtesy that polishes it. No reproach is like that we clothe with a smile and present with a bow. —Chesterfield.

SWEET MELODY FLOUR.

Bees Like Light Clothes.

"There's one thing you want to remember if you go into the bee culture business," remarked the man who had just torn a hive to pieces to demonstrate how easy it was to handle bees, "and that is never to approach the bees when dressed in dark clothes. Bees have a decided aversion to dark habiliments, and they show their repugnance in a lively fashion. Wear white duck and you'll meet their approval. I never think of crossing with my bees so long as I'm wearing a dark suit, and my wife, to whom the bees are not accustomed, never has the least trouble in approaching the hives if she is wearing a white gown. A bee bears a grudge about as long as an Indian will. He makes no allowances for mistakes or an accident. Once you harm him he will have it in for you for the rest of his life. Bees are not naturally bad tempered, and they are really timid by nature, but if you carelessly crush them they will show an anger out of all proportion to their size and will sometimes sting you until they themselves drop dead."

His Part.

In the English "Cap and Gown" is told the following story of Oxford life. It is called "Hauled by the Deau." The dean, who had rebuked Mr. Brown for having assisted at the ducking of a fellow student, asks the offender, "What part did you take in this disgraceful affair?" Mr. Brown replies meekly, "The left leg, sir."

A Frenzied Convict.

"This confinement," said the long faced prison visitor, "must distress you greatly." "Yes," replied the frenzied convict, "I find the prison bars grating." "Ah, life to you is a fair one?" "Yes, it's nothing but a cell."

No Chance to Grow.

Miss Newbold—Dear me, these eggs are very small. Grocer—They are indeed, mum, and I'm sure I don't know why. Miss Newbold—Oh, I dare say it's because you take them out of the nest too soon.

Mosquito Eggs.

The eggs of the mosquito are fastened together by a viscid secretion from the insect's body. From 250 to 300 eggs are laid at a time, and the little boat shaped mass is so constructed that it will not overset. It cannot be sunk nor in any way injured by wind, rain or water. It is abandoned by the insect and the eggs are hatched by the heat of the sun or atmosphere. A temperature below freezing is said not to destroy the vitality of the mosquito's eggs.

The Secret of His Life.

Sir William Grove, the eminent scientist and jurist, never forgave himself for not discovering the spectroscope. "I had often observed," he said, "that there were different lines exhibited in the spectra of different metals ignited in the voltaic arc, and if I had had any reasonable amount of wit I ought to have seen the converse—viz. that by spectral lines the materials of which they are composed."

Elephant Power.

How many men would be needed to pull a weight hauled by an elephant? Fifty. The answer is the result of recent investigations made to determine the respective pulling power of horses, men and elephants. Two horses, weighing 1,000 pounds each, together pulled 3,750 pounds, or 500 pounds more than their combined weight. One elephant, weighing 12,000 pounds, pulled 8,750 pounds, or 3,250 pounds less than his weight. Fifty men, aggregating about 15,000 pounds in weight, pulled 4,750 pounds, or just as much as the single elephant. But, like the horses, they pulled more than their own weight. One hundred men pulled 12,000 pounds.
