Our Annual SALE OF SILKS

Fall and Winter 1910-11

Sale Begins Tuesday, September 27th, Continues Wednesday 28, Thursday 29, Friday 30, Sat. Oct. 1

The Greatest and Most Interesting News That You Have Ever Heard

We are quite safe in saying that in no store in America in any town of the size of Clarksburg are there as many yards of silk sold during a special occasion as at this Silk Sale. No city—no matter the size, offers such tremendous silk bargains as we do during these great events.

For weeks our friends have been asking "When are you going to hold your Annual Silk Sale?"—and we know of many a good dollar that has been laid by in order that it may purchase $2.00 worth of good Silks on this great occasion.

There are several reasons why we can surpass all former offerings on this occasion. The Eastern Silk markets have been in a badly congested condition this spring—too many silks were made—and there was a great assortment of good things to be bought way under price when our buyer went on his special silk buying trip. This fact brings you—

Over twelve thousand yards of the finest plain and fancy Silks ever shown or sold at this store and at prices which in many cases are less than maker's cost.

Every yard of silk is stylish, seasonable and worthy—not an inch of trash at any price—we guarantee the greatest values that you have ever bought at this Store—and to those who never miss these Silk Sales—not another word is necessary.

Come Early--Extra Display Space, Extra Sales Force

Nearly all the whole store and nearly all the clerks will be devoted to the selling of the greatest Silk Bargains you ever experienced.

GOOD RURAL DRAMA

Is "The Little Homestead," Which Will Be Shown Saturday at Grand.

The amusement loving people who enjoy a good rural drama of the pronounced type, but still with plenty of good comedy, sensation and heart interest, should witness "The Little Homestead," which comes to the Grand Saturday for matinee and night performances. The story is from the pen of Mr. W. B. Patton, who has written a number of well known successes and in "The Little Homestead" has written a play that will live in the hearts of the people. It is told in four acts of an erring wife, who leaves a happy home to be degraded and carried to destitution by a false lover, but virtue triumphs in the end.
