

CRAWFORD WASTES NIGHT TALKING TO SLUMBERERS

In the Senate Chamber to Prevent a Vote on the Lorimer Case

VOTE WILL BE TAKEN

Thursday if an Agreement Pending Now Should go Through

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 28—All last night the Senate struggled with the Lorimer case, friends of the junior Illinois senator seeking to break down the determination of his opponents not to permit a vote, unless important concessions were made to them in relation to important measures of pending legislation.
At 8:09 o'clock this morning a recess was taken until 11 o'clock, and it was announced there was a chance of an agreement.

The basis for the proposed agreement was understood to be that a vote should be taken on the Lorimer case at a fixed hour Thursday and that at a later hour the same day a vote should be had on the permanent tariff board bill, the amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill proposing an increase of postal rates on advertising sections of magazines should be eliminated and that all other concessions should be made.

At one time it was suggested that an agreement might be reached by a division which would permit a vote on the Canadian reciprocity agreement, with a pledge in advance that enough members pledged to vote for the commercial pact would sustain themselves and encompass its defeat. The purpose of this suggestion was to avoid an extraordinary session if possible. It is not believed, however, that there will be any trade by which the Canadian reciprocity agreement will be sacrificed, although it is not likely a vote can be had in the Senate upon this measure.

Crawford, of South Dakota, carried on a filibuster during the night.
His lungs were the medium through which a vote on the Lorimer case has been prevented in face of the determination on the part of Lorimer's supporters to give the endurance of his supporters to the test.
More members and older members were kept in the Senate chamber throughout the night than on any occasion with the recollection of most of the experienced legislators present.

Again and again there were roll calls to develop whether there was a quorum present and not once did the attendance fall below sixty-six, which is twenty more than a majority of the Senate membership.
There was no disorder, the members being too tired.

Every settler in the cloak rooms, marble room and around the wall of the Senate chamber was occupied by sneepers. When the bells sounded for roll calls the senators would pile off of improvised beds and take their places until names were reached. Then they would scramble for their couches.

The filibuster actually began at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.
Crawford took the floor at 10:18 p.
m. and held it until 6:18 this morning. He appeared good for another

CITIZENSHIP

Of a Syrian is Brought Into Question When Passport is Asked For.

A question was raised at the state department a few days ago as to the American citizenship of a Charleston man. The matter arose over an attempt upon the part of Representative Gaines to get a passport for Joe Corey, of Charleston, who wanted to go to Syria to visit his parents. The question of his citizenship was raised and it was shown that his parents came to this country from Syria some years ago and he was born while they were residing in Indiana. When he was two years old his parents took him back to Syria, they remaining there, while Joe came back to the United States and settled in Charleston. It was finally decided that Corey was a citizen and the passport was issued.

BROWN VISITS

Washington Again and is Ready for an Extra Session of Congress.

Congressman-elect W. G. Brown, of Kingwood, was in Washington for the end of the week. He was again an interested spectator in the House seeing how things are rushed along at the end of a short session where much has been left unattended to until almost time for adjournment.
Mr. Brown is arranging his affairs so he can come over to Washington in a few weeks to stay as long as the extra session lasts, in the event it is called, as seems likely.

Chinese Minister at Washington Wears Rich Raiment at Functions

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

CHANG YIN TANG, China's minister to the United States, is one of the most spectacular figures in Washington when he appears in his gorgeous raiment at state functions. Minister Chang is rather slight and is about five feet seven inches high. It will thus be seen that his size is not imposing and that he must rely on his garb to attract attention. His clothing does all this and more. The diplomat is fifty years old, but looks younger in spite of the air of a student that is habitual with him. Mr. Chang is avowedly a believer in the United States and in western civilization. His son recently was graduated from a Philadelphia law school, and his two daughters are finishing their education in Washington. The minister hopes to see American educational methods introduced in his own country.

FARMERS' BANK GOES INTO ITS NEW HOME IN THE GOFF BUILDING

And Will be Open There for business tomorrow Morning

THE PUBLIC IS INVITED To Attend its Opening in the Elegant New Banking Rooms

When the Farmers' bank next opens its doors for business it will be on the ground floor of the new Goff building at West Main and Court streets. The banking equipment and supplies were moved Tuesday from the rooms on the ground floor of the Irwin building facing West Pike street, which the bank occupied since its organization, and it will be all ready for business in the new quarters at the usual opening hour Wednesday morning.

Beautiful fixtures of Alabama white marble and bronze are installed in the new banking room. They are arranged so that the working quarters are situated in the center of the room and a public lobby extends around the front and sides nearly to the rear of the room. There is a vestibule entrance and to the right and left of it are triangular shaped rooms, the former of which is used as a cashier's room and the latter as a writing room for women. The wood work is finished in dull mahogany and trimmed with bronze ornaments that match the bronze counter fixtures. The floor is laid in white marble and the walls and ceiling are simply decorated in soft tints of green.

In the rear of the main room a large, two-story, steel-lined Diebold vault having triple time locks is built into the wall. In the lower story the bank's magnetic steel safe, weighing 5,000 pounds, and the safety deposit boxes are installed while the second floor contains compartments for the storage of books and supplies.

The directors' room is in the rear of the main banking room and opens on Court street. It is finished the same as the main room.

The bank was seven years old the first day of the present year. A. J.
Fletcher is president, Charles W.
Fudge cashier, E. M. Goodman teller and H. E. Davison bookkeeper. The directors are A. J.
Fletcher, Ransel Johnson, David L.

Glover is accused of having emptied the contents of a jug of oil on the

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ashcraft, occaped with their lives. Trouble arose over the ownership of the house, it is claimed between Glover and Ash-the controversy by burning the

For the Greatest Fair in All the History of Harrison County

WANTS A LOOP LINE

And a Committee is Appointed to Secure Rights of Way

At a meeting of the West Virginia Fair Association Monday night, steps were begun for the next annual fair to be held September 19, 20, 21 and 22. It is planned to erect a floral hall and a number of other buildings necessary for the conduct of an exposition on the largest scale ever known in the county and second to none in this section of the state.

In addition a committee consisting of W. G. Osborn, W. G. Kester, J.
B. Supler, C. P. Stout and Lee Maxwell was appointed to procure rights of way through the lands of George W. Southern and sons, Joseph Fucy, the Union Land Company and the Industrial Company for the purpose of an extension of the street car line from the fair grounds around through the Industrial addition to the Industrial bridge, thus making a belt or loop car line, the completion and operation of which will bring the street car service up to the highest point of efficiency. In addition it is proposed to build and maintain a fine driveway along the projected extension of Fairmont and Clarksburg traction the street car line.

The fair association will use the Company and the citizens residing in the neighborhood of the fair grounds to build the car line. It is hoped that the line and driveway will be completed in time for use at the next annual fair.

In this connection it is announced that the West Virginia Central Agricultural and Mechanical Society, (the "old fair"), will not hold a fair this year.

With the completion of the projected buildings and the construction of the loop and driveway, the "new" fair will be one of the finest exposition propositions in the state, the grounds and track not being discounted now by any in West Virginia.

Of the board of directors present at the meeting were S. C. Denham, president, A. D. Parr treasurer, W.
G. Osborn, R. J. Gasley, M. G.
Sperry, E. B. Nelson, Wilbur E.
Hurse and Ellsworth Cook.
