NEGRO ESCAPES WITH THE ROPE

Dangling Around His Neck and is in the Mountains Now.

CHARLESTON, Mar. 31.—A special sent out from Tazewell, Va., under date of Sunday, gives interesting particulars of an attempt to lynch a negro at that place and of the aforesaid negro's spectacular escape from the would-be lynchers. The story runs:

John Morgan, the negro who was reported as being lynched, near Pounding Mill Saturday night, was brought to the Tazewell jail under heavy guard Sunday morning. The negro is charged with the murder of Grover Lambert, a white man, and watchman for Walton and Company, contractors on the Indian Creek branch of the Norfolk & Western railroad, the details of the tragedy having been published in Sunday's papers.

The reports that were received here on Saturday night stated that the negro had been hanged, and his body riddled with bullets. The facts in the case were far different. The negro, shortly after shooting Lambert, was captured in a shanty in one of the camps on Indian Creek by a mob that had been searching for him in the mountains. His whereabouts was divulged by other negroes who were present when he rushed into one of the shanties and hid himself. The leader of the mob grabbed him and tied his hands in front of him and after marching him up and down in front of the negro quarters by the camp, a suitable tree was located to which he could be hanged. One of the superintendents of the operation in front of which the lynching was contemplated, objected and pleaded with the mob not to execute the negro at that point for the effect it would have upon the other negro employees. One of the mob told the superintendent he would get a bullet, and the superintendent retired to more general surroundings. Preparations were under way for the execution, the place being under a large walnut tree, with many strong limbs overhanging. Some members of the mob climbed the tree and were affixing the rope, when of a sudden the negro made a dash for liberty down a forty foot embankment into the thicker and disappeared. The mob fired upon him, but the bullets went wild, and the negro was soon swallowed up in the mountains. He lay in the mountains the rest of Saturday night and all day Sunday, and became sick and hungry, and tired, and under cover of darkness, stole into the camp, where he had friends, and asked to be protected and carried to jail. On account of a wound in his leg he was unable to prolong his wanderings in the mountains. The superintendent of the company and others who held obedience to law far above the gratification of personal vengeance, took care of the negro until after midnight Sunday, when he was quietly taken through the mountains to the hotel on the railroad, where he was heavily guarded until morning and was then taken to Tazewell.

The negro strongly protests his innocence of murder, giving as an excuse for shooting Lambert that Lambert had shot him first, and that Lambert had shot him while running from him. The affair has caused a great deal of excitement in this community, especially where the dead man is well known, and a lynching would be no surprise.

G. T. Franklin, who had charge of building the Norfolk and Western's large tunnel on the Indian Creek branch, says the contractors face an alarming state of affairs, as the white people of that community have given orders to the negroes who are employed on the works, to vacate at once. Mr. Franklin states that over 150 have left, and that his operation, as well as others, has been forced to practically shut down.

Nearly every negro in the vicinity left Sunday for parts unknown, upon orders received from the white men of the west end of the county.

HIGH SCHOOL

In Wetzel County is Likely to Be Located at Smithfield.

NEW MARTINSVILLE, Mar. 31.—The appearances seem to be that Smithfield will put up a new high school, although Pine Grove has put up a strong fight for the school and the residents of the last named city certainly show a fair spirit and say that it makes no difference whether the school is at Smithfield or Pine Grove, they propose to attend it. Jacksonville has been suggested as a compromise, being about midway between the above named towns; but the Jacksonville location would be decidedly unhandy to the residents of Smithfield and Pine Grove. It appears that the people in New Martinsville, or at least most of the influential citizens, are using their influence for Smithfield, and the present indications are that the school will be located in that city.

PRODUCER

Is Being Drilled on the Swan Farm by the South Penn.

In the Shinnston pool in Clay district, this county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled a second test on the A. P. Swan farm 25 feet into the fifty-foot sand and has a show for a producer. The hole has filled up 1,000 feet with fluid and there is a chance for a second pay. In the same district the South Penn Company has drilled its second test on the S. A. Janes farm 27 feet into the fifty-foot sand and has developed no oil or gas.
