BEER CONFISCATED WRONG LABEL USED

But No Penalty is Imposed Upon Benwood Brewing Company.

OWING TO PRACTICE Of Companies Engaged in the Business Gathering Up Any Bottles Found.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.—The department of agriculture has given notice under the provisions of the pure food and drug act concerning a case of misbranding of bottled beer by the Benwood Brewing Company, of Wheeling. It is stated that in last October 984 bottles of beer manufactured by the Benwood company were shipped into Ohio bearing the labels of various Ohio brewing companies. Action was brought by the Hoster-Columbus Associated Breweries Company, whose label was on 867 of the bottles, and after a hearing in court all the bottles were ordered confiscated, the contents destroyed or disposed of according to law, while the bottles were ordered to be returned to the owners in Ohio.

While it was held that the sale of the beer in bottles bearing the names of other brewers than those who made the beer was a misbranding under the pure food law, still the trouble seems to have been the outgrowth of a practice of gathering up any bottles that are found and refilling them. Evidently it was not considered a serious violation of law for no penalty was imposed other than the loss of the beer.

BOX OF TACKS

Brings a Dollar at Express Package Auction in Front of the Court House.

Much amusement resulted from the sale of unclaimed express shipments that was conducted Saturday in front of the court house by the United States Express Company. Samuel W. Gordon was engaged as the auctioneer and he was ably assisted by Prof. G. C. Finley, of the West Virginia Business College, who is an old hand at the business.

All the packages were sold in their original wrappers without being opened and many buyers got things they did not expect. Frank A. Willison paid $1 for a small box of tacks and before his father got through laughing over the transaction, the latter was fooled with a box of mouldy pretzels, for which he bid $2.75. Another fellow paid $2.50 for a large box that contained a few pieces of torn and dirty clothing. The sale was largely attended and it was thoroughly enjoyed.

BLOW

On Eye and Hasty Farewell Husband Gets After Having Wife Arrested.

A stunning blow from her fist and a scornful farewell is what Josepa Meraak, an Hungarian laborer of Grassell, got from his wife for having her arrested. He complained to Constable James M. Criss, in that addition, Friday evening that she was about to abscond with $150 of his money and the officers arrested her and took her before Justice G. H. Gordon in this city.

When arraigned for trial, the woman declared that the money was her own, having been earned by her by taking in boarders. Joe, however, desired a peaceful settlement of the case and after considerable talk in their native language he agreed to withdraw his charge and pay the costs of the case, which was done.

The pair then boarded a street car and went to Grassell. On alighting from the car there, the woman, who is rather husky, knocked her spouse over with a heavy blow on the eye, and started across the hill on a dead run declaring that she did not like him and would not live with him. There may be further legal developments in the case.

WETS WIN

Decisive Victory and a Minister and An Editor Have a Fight.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 3.—On the question as to whether retail liquor licenses should be issued in this city during the next two years, the "wet" forces won a decisive victory yesterday. Their majority over the "drys" was 510 out of a total of 4,382, representing about 60 per cent of the registered voters. The wet forces carried seven of the ten wards. Despite the small vote there was considerable excitement. The Rev. T. M. Hare, superintendent of the anti-saloon league, and Editor Ed. Kenna, of a local paper, had a fist encounter on Capital street over remarks made by T. Marcellus Marshall, an aged temperance advocate, last night, in which the character of the late Senator Kenna, Editor Kenna's father, was attacked. Hare claimed he did approve the remarks made by Marshall.

About two dozen arrests were made for vote buying, among them being A. C. Lawrence and John A. Jarrett, wholesale liquor dealers. Many women were active about the polls.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.—Because what is said to be marked discrepancies in the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company by the United States Steel Corporation, as given by John W. Gates and Ebert H. Gary, the Stanley "steel trust" committee of the House today determined that further light on that deal must be obtained and that every person who had anything to do with it should be examined.

The committee is considering the necessity of summoning former President Roosevelt and former Secretary of State Root for verification of a conference with Gary and Frick on the Tennessee transaction. The next hearing of the committee will be Wednesday.

Contrasts Seen in the Women Fruit Peddlers Down in Mexico

Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

MEXICO is a land of contrasts, and the traveler sees them on all sides. The towns are much alike, and a picture of a street in one city might do for a scene in forty other towns of a similar size. The native women who sell fruits in the streets are always picturesque either for their beauty or the lack of it. Compare the two street merchants pictured above. They are native Mexicans—that is, they are of Indian stock. The one is young and attractive, the other is the reverse. It is difficult to believe that the girl will ever grow up to become what the old crone is, but time works wonders in Mexico as elsewhere. The pictures were made a short time ago in Torreon, in the present zone of disturbance.

Is the Tribute Paid by Committee on Commerce Department's Outlay.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.—But little importance was attached by the committee on expenditures in the department of commerce and labor to the testimony produced before it yesterday, bringing out the facts that United States Fish Commissioner George N. Bowers, appointed from West Virginia, was a close personal and political friend of the late Senator Stephen B. Elkins and owed his appointment to him and that Senator Elkins was a member of the company which has the lease of the seal killing privilege on the Bristol Islands. It is alleged that the seal killing privilege has been so abused that the seal herd is in danger of extermination.

In his own behalf, Mr. Bowers, who was present at the hearing, stated that although he had been at the head of the bureau of fisheries since 1898 he had had no connection whatever with the sealing on the Bristol Islands until two years ago, when the regulation of the seal killing was transferred to his bureau.

The committee seemed to see no use in discussing any connection between Senator Elkins and Commissioner Bowers and dismissed the subject. Prof. Henry Elliott, of Columbus, O., questioned the fitness of Mr. Bowers for his position.
