An Evening Echo.

The tears live in an onion that should water this sorrow.—SHAKESPEARE.

Free Fruit at Land Show.

The fruit growers of Oregon have arranged through the Fruit Growers Development League, of Portland, to send a car load of Oregon apples to the Pittsburg land show for free distribution to visitors there. The railroads will give this car free transportation from the Pacific slope.

West Virginia and Maryland will also have fine fruit displays in this show, and it is likely that the fruit growers of West Virginia will imitate the example of Oregon in providing a large quantity of apples to be used as free gifts to visitors.

Bailey on Cowards.

No one who knows Senator Joseph W. Bailey will say that he lacks courage. Therefore it is natural that he hates cowards. The senator recently expressed the opinion that very few men in Congress were venal or corrupt, but he declared that most of them were cowards, afraid to live up to their convictions because of the effect it might have on their constituents.

The senator condemned vigorously this trait in men in public life and declared that when he found that he could not honestly exercise his convictions in Congress, he would resign and retire to private life.

Goff Has the Call.

The Weston Independent says in a one-line editorial: "Goff has the call." That is right and the call is greater every day from the people.

Democratic state-machine politicians and press, of course, are doing their utmost to discredit that call but it resounds throughout the entire state with a terrifying force to that machine. The Independent also calls attention to the fact that everyone is joining in except the Watson followers. Here is what the Independent says about that and it is as true as Holy Writ:

The growth of the Goff sentiment is such as to inspire Republicans all over the state with new hope. The demand for his election to the United States Senate springs from the popular heart. Everybody is joining in except the Watson followers.

Democratic Tariff Revision.

Here are a few of the inconsistencies in the hodge-podge Democratic tariff bills prepared by the Democratic House of Representatives, and vetoed by President Taft:

The protective duty on West Virginia and Pennsylvania iron and steel products covered in the so-called farmers' free list bill, is entirely wiped out, but the protective tariff duty enjoyed by the Louisiana sugar growers was left intact.

The protective duty on West Virginia coal was entirely abolished, but the protective duty on Florida pineapples was untouched.

These are some of the inconsistencies and some of the partisan sectional legislation from which the vetoes of President Taft have saved the people. The majority of the Democratic party in the House of Representatives comes from such states as Florida, Louisiana and Texas. The handful of Democratic congressmen that are contributed by the northern states have practically no influence on Democratic legislation.

Had the bills prepared by the Democratic majority become a law, the protective duties on West Virginia wool, on West Virginia coal, and on West Virginia iron and steel products would have been entirely abolished or radically reduced, while the protective duties on southern products were left unimpaired. Tariff revision does not mean revision solely for the benefit of one section, as the Wheeling Intelligencer says, and to the injury of another. It means adequate, equal and fair reductions along conservative lines. The tariff revision which the Democrats of the South and the West propose means tariff revision on West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania products, but ample protection for their own.

Honor Scrapping the Court.

Considerable interest is taken in West Virginia in the outcome of a little scrap Thomas R. Hornor, a former resident here, is in on the Pacific coast, and there is a diversity of opinion as to just how it will end. Those who know him best believe he will get out of it some way, although it may take a lot of squirming.

The Parkersburg Sentinel calls attention to the fact that Tom Hornor, who used to practice law at Weston, and who "ran a militant newspaper at Clarksburg," is one of the ten Seattle, Wash., citizens arrested by order of the United States District Judge Hanford for alleged contempt of his court in connection with a recent injunction restraining a Seattle trolley system from issuing transfers to certain passengers. Mr. Hornor was one of the speakers at a mass meeting organized to inaugurate impeachment proceedings against the judge, who holds the action to have been in contempt. The Sentinel expresses the opinion that Tom will prove able to take care of himself and that there will be something interesting doing before the judge succeeds in landing him in jail, whatever may be the facts upon which the offense is charged.

Life-Saving Problem.

Thirty thousand miners killed in the United States in the last ten years!

Seventy-five thousand miners injured, many of them maimed for life, in the same period!

Eleven thousand widows made by the deaths of the miners!

This terrible record represents not only the accidents in the coal mines but also the metal mines.

It is the story of the tragedy of the mines, but not the whole story. If the mines of the United States in those ten years had had the same standards of safety as in the European countries; if the United States had killed two in every one thousand employed, instead of three, four or five, fifteen thousand of the thirty thousand American miners killed might be living today.

Forty thousand out of the seventy-five thousand injured might have escaped injury.

Five thousand five hundred widows might not have been widows.

Fifteen thousand orphan children might still have fathers.

This is the whole grim tragedy of the mines epitomized. It is one of the most serious problems of the country and the one that brought the federal bureau of mines into being. It is the great problem that the bureau of mines, under the leadership of Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, its director, is attempting to solve.

What you have already read in this editorial is a part of a press dispatch recently sent out from Washington. The last paragraph seems to contradict others concerning the saving of life. Perhaps it was used only in a general sense for the purpose of setting forth that the mine bureau is only in its infancy. No one doubts that the operation of the bureau will soon bring the casualties and fatalities down to a minimum and the bureau should receive governmental and individual support to the fullest extent. It is in a worthy cause.

Still Shaking.

Another Shaker elder has broken into print concerning the chloroforming of a female member of the sect in Florida to hasten her death and administered to her "through mercy." He is Arthur Bruce of the Canterbury, N. H., Shaker colony, and he does not even intimate that divine revelation caused the act as did one of the higher elders of the cult. It is interesting to read what Elder Bruce has to say. Here it is:

"It seems to me that Brother Egbert Gillispie and Sister Elizabeth

Sears, according to what knowledge I have, acted, to say the least, most unwisely. Nothing is desired by the Shakers for them other than justice before the law. If on trial of the facts it shall appear that the chloroform was administered with intent in a manner to illegally cause the death of Sadie Merchant, no Shaker would demur if punishment according to law followed. Shakers as a whole will have nothing whatever to do with the legal aspects of the case, and will not furnish funds for any possible defense."

Telling the Whole Truth.

(William E. Chilton, so-called United States Senator from this state, is admonished by the Charleston Mail to "let the whole truth be told.") The Mail says:

"Not one single Republican member of the Senate would vote for the Oregon system, either with a referendum or without a referendum, and the Oregon plan was denied the people of the state, solely because no Republican senator would support it."—Senator Chilton in his Pineville speech.

Let's see a little about this. If Senator Chilton will kindly turn to Page 30 of the Senate Journal for May 30, 1911, he will find recorded the following:

"Mr. Smith, (of Cabell): Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege and would like for my remarks to appear in the Journal of this Senate. In my remarks this morning upon this floor I stated that if my friends on the other side of the House would cut two points out of the French bill; these two points are the referendum and the disfranchisement. Now, Mr. President, I want to renew that offer and state that if you will cut those two points out of the bill, why gentlemen, I will support the bill in this Senate. I came here honestly and earnestly to try to get for the people of this state a primary election law. For more than six years I have stood for the Fifth senatorial district of this state and have been telling my people that I would stand for them; and I want to stand for them; and I am honest when I tell you that I will stand for that bill if you will cut these two clauses out of it. Now, gentlemen, it is up to you."

"Mr. Grimes: I wish to join my colleague in the statement that he has made."

If Senator Chilton will kindly note, here are two distinct instances in which Republicans of the Senate offered to vote for the French so-called Oregon primary law if the Democrats would cut out of it two wholly obnoxious points—the referendum and the disfranchisement. The Democrats would not do it. Therefore, the bill failed of passage. Whose the fault?

Money Couldn't Do It.

Money wouldn't really pay for some medicines. In cases of acute or chronic cases of rheumatism Martin's Rheumatic and Flood Elixir has more than a dollars-and-cents value.

You can always feel safe with a bottle of this reliable medicine in the house. Makes the blood pure and rich. Has no equal as a tonic for enfeebled conditions of the system. Cures rheumatism by dissolving the uric acid. All dealers sell it.

At all grocers—five cents a cake.

BONDS EMPIRE BUILDING

BONDS HAVE THREE GREAT ADVANTAGES OVER ORDINARY MORTGAGES, VIZ:

(1) The return on real estate loans are limited to the interest received, whereas, in addition to the interest, bonds enhance in value when the property enhances, and often may be sold at a considerable profit.

(2) Holders of bonds are free from the necessity of watching over the matters of insurance, payment of property taxes, etc., as the Trustee relieves them of such responsibility.

(3) Real estate mortgages are slow assets.

FIRST CLASS BONDS MAY ORDINARILY BE PROMPTLY AND ADVANTAGEOUSLY SOLD AND THE INTEREST RETURN IS REGULAR AND DEPENDABLE.
