An Evening Echo.

The fine and noble way to kill a foe is not to kill him; you with kindness may So change him, that he shall cease to be so; Then he's slain.
—ALEYX.

One wonders whether Governor Dawson has commanded Governor Claiborne to be for "Governor" Dillon.

So far the Telegram has not heard from Houston G. Young in the gubernatorial contest.

The "ins" were out at the New Martinsville convention and the "outs" were in. That is a fate politics sometimes brings.

The big noise was made at the New Martinsville convention by Cecil B. Highland with a band even if he was not the "big noise."

It is claimed by Swisher that he withdrew four years ago for party harmony. Some have been cruel enough to say that he withdrew for pay. How about it?

A Weston newspaper says "you will find the best assortment of jewelry at the 5 and 10 cent store." The assortment may be the best but how about the jewelry?

The Democratic county executive committee expects all the Democratic magisterial district conventions today to name Woodrow Wilson men, but it is dollars to doughnuts that they will not all obey the committee.

Colonel Charles F. Teter's dream of getting the nomination for congressman-at-large was suddenly dispelled when Howard Sutherland announced himself, and now the former has to knuckle down to hard campaign work. It promises to be an interesting race.

If the editor of the Parkersburg State Journal shows much more wrath over the fact that in speaking of candidates for congressman-at-large, the Telegram said, he was large enough to run at large, the Telegram will have to admit that he is not as big as it thought he was.

Dawson appointed Dillon state tax commissioner once. Should Dillon be elected governor, he can return the favor by appointing Dawson state tax commissioner. Maybe that is where Dawson sees another job in sight. He never loses an opportunity to stay on the state pay roll.

Dawson says he is for Dillon because he knows him to be "an honest and clean man." No one doubts that Dillon is just such a man as Dawson thus describes but none would have ever guessed that that fact would have led Dawson to be for Dillon. There must be some other reason as the one Dawson gives is incredible so far as Dawson himself is concerned.

While all Telegram readers have read the platform of Dr. H. D. Hatfield, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, it will be the privilege of all who desire to hear him tell them face to face Friday night at the court house, what he stands for and what they may expect of him if he is elected governor of the state. The governorship of the state is a vital matter to all Republicans and should be to a large number of Democrats who feel that the present Democratic state machine usurped its power by inducing men, they sent to the legislature, to betray them. Dr. Hatfield is a man of candor and he will frankly explain his platform. He has said time and again that he does not want to be governor if the people of the state do not want him. Go and hear him at the court house and you will then be able to make up your mind whether you want him for governor.

Distinctions in Slang.
Editorially commenting upon the subject, an eastern newspaper declares that the college girl takes to slang with more enthusiasm than she takes to quadratic equations or the investigation of Greek verbs. Or at least that is the conclusion drawn from an interview recently given by the editor of the Wellesley News. She acknowledged that she herself used slang, because, as she explains, "I just can't help it at college," and she acknowledges that neither fines nor penalties have resulted in suppressing such expressions as "Cut it out" or "The dickens you say," or "I am just wild about that," or "I am just crazy about this," etc. and so on. But the editor of the Wellesley News is emphatic in the statement that "vulgar slang is not used at Wellesley." To illustrate just what she means by vulgar slang, she mentions "Oh, you kid" and declares that Wellesley girls who would use that sort of slang are decidedly in the minority.

It is regrettable that the Wellesley editor did not mention a few more vulgarisms in slang, continues the eastern newspaper, so that the average individual who is anxious for light and learning in choosing his slang might have some reliable authority upon the question. And why is "Oh, you kid" a vulgarism and "The dickens you say" not a vulgarism? The last mentioned phrase is rather ancient—is it age that gives it respectability? The popular taste really needs enlightening and guiding in the use of slang and there is fine opportunity for some sweet girl graduate (by the way is "sweet girl graduate" objectionable slang to the upper class college woman?) to write an essay in which the distinctions in slang usage shall be nicely drawn. Slang has constantly enriched the language, but we must not have too many slang vulgarisms incorporated.

High Price Theories.
A writer in the Review of Reviews, who claims to have given considerable investigation to the high cost of living question, is convinced that the cost of living in Europe, when it is upon the same level of convenience and comfort as in the United States, is just as great as it is in this country. When living is cheaper in Europe it is cheaper because of the mode of life and not because of cheaper sustenance. Another item which lessens the cost of living in Europe is the cost of service. That is a very important item and service is much cheaper in all European countries than in the United States. This service cost, it must be remembered, touches the food cost at a good many points; in the growing, in the transportation, in the preparation for table use and finally in the delivery at the kitchen door and the cooking.

This is corroboration of a theory that has been entertained by numerous other investigators of the subject. It is in direct conflict with the theory so often advanced of late that a protective tariff system is the cause of a higher cost of living for, if commodities in foreign countries are as dear as they are in this country, of what avail would be a radical change of the tariff system unless it is proposed to lower the standard of American living? The Baltimore American figures it out that this places some of the would-be tariff doctors of this country in a dilemma, as follows:

It is the fashion just now by such expounders as Dr. Woodrow Wilson to insist that a protective tariff is the one and only cause of high-priced beefsteaks and the rise of food commodities. If that is so the doctor will have some trouble rubbing his tariff reform ideas in on the farmers of the United States in case he should happen to be put in the presidential running at the Baltimore convention. But as a matter of fact, foods have gone up since the tariff rates went down. The Payne tariff is upon a lower average than the Dingley tariff and the Dingley law lowered the rate prevaent under the McKinley law. But food prices were lower under the McKinley tariff than under the Dingley tariff.

Dr. Wilson is like some other famous doctrinal expounders of his party—the facts of experience cut next to no figure with him. For another thing, he is just about as cocksure of his theories as ever William Jennings Bryan was in the days of 18 to 1.

Teaching Good Will.
Warfare is to be ended for all time, at least so far as the United States is concerned, and the standard of citizenship in this country is to be put on a higher plane than ever before, by a course of study in good will which is devised for the elementary schools throughout this country. Such, at least, is the hope of those who have formulated the course. A complete outline of the topics covered in this new school subject is contained in a government publication just issued for free distribution by the United States Bureau of Education.

In the lower grades, according to the Bureau of Education's monograph, the child is trained in habits of forbearance, consideration, gentleness and self-control, while in the later grades emphasis is laid upon the principles of the world peace movement.

Thus in the first grade the child learns the treatment he should give his companions and pets. The second grade deals with home life; the third, with school and play time, while the fourth takes up the home town or city. In grade five the course broadens to include a consideration of the whole country; in the sixth, the child takes up good citizenship; in the seventh he studies the world family, and in the last he learns what the larger patriotism means.

In this way the child grows up in the understanding that the good will which he must show his friends and parents should also be extended to all the inhabitants of the earth. He begins by learning that he must be kind to animals and playmates because he is in constant relations with them; then he comes to understand that all nations should be at peace with all others, because all nations are interdependent; and this finally leads to the last topic in the whole long course—the united world.

The moral qualities essential to the world peace movement, such as faithfulness, generosity, gratitude, hospitality, fair play, honesty, and consideration for others, are emphasized. The practical operation of these qualities in the field of world politics is shown objectively by consideration of such questions as: How can we help our community? How can we serve our country? What have other nations given us? What are our obligations to them? What are the effects of war? What are the moral substitutes for war? Who have contributed most to civilization? And why?

FIRST TIME

In Many Years General Assembly Meets South of Historical Line.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 16—Two thousand churchmen of the Presbyterian denomination today organized the one hundred and twenty-fourth General Assembly, the first in many years held south of the Mason and Dixon line. Retiring Moderator Dr. John F. Carson preached at the opening. Of the candidates mentioned for moderator, the Rev. Mark A. Matthews, of Seattle, will probably receive the largest vote on the first ballot. The name of the Rev. William G. Taylor, of Rochester, N. Y., is expected to be put before the assembly if several ballots are necessary.

"My Feet Were Just Aching For TIZ"

Let Your Poor, Tired, Chafed, Tender Feet "Spread Out" Gloriously in a Bath of TIZ!

"O, dear, what a feeling! Wonderful what TIZ will do for your feet!" Just take your shoes off, and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, achy, corn-tortured, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a TIZ bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy. They'll look up at you and almost talk, and then they'll take another dive in that TIZ bath! Yes, TIZ is life to feet! The man or woman who says there's anything like, or as good as, TIZ never had a foot in a TIZ bath.

When your feet ache, get tired, swollen, tender or sore, just try TIZ. Your feet will just feel fine; also your corns, bunions and calluses will disappear. You'll be able to wear smaller shoes, too; your feet will keep cozy, they'll never be frost-bitten, never chafed.

TIZ operates under a new principle, drawing out all the poisonous exudations that make feet sore, corny and tired. There's nothing else like TIZ, so refuse any imitation.

TIZ, 25 cents a box, sold everywhere, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill. Recommended by all Drug Stores, department and general stores.
