RIVER BILL

Provide for Expenditures That Will Prevent Big Floods in Future.

(SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM) WASHINGTON, April 25.—Of the score or more bills introduced during the Sixty-third Congress, which the Sixty-third Congress, and which probably have escaped attention by reason of the change in the administration of the government, providing for the relief of flood sufferers in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, for flood prevention through the building of reservoirs, for the deepening of rivers, etc., probably none will command more general attention than the bills introduced by Senator Ransdell of Louisiana and Representative Humphreys of Mississippi on the first day of the session...

These bills are identical and provide for an expenditure of $60,000,000 to cover a period of five years, $12,000,000 to be made available July 1, 1914. Of this $12,000,000, and for every year thereafter until the full amount is utilized, three-fourths, or $9,000,000, are to be used each year for the protection, repair and construction of levees and the balance for bank re-vestment work and for work in the interests of navigation.

The appropriation of this large sum of money, however, is conditioned upon the states, or levee districts interested, appropriating a sum equal to one-third allotted to each levee district affected by the bill.

This amount, carried over a period of five years, it is believed, will complete and so strengthen the levees between Cape Girardeau and the head of the Passes as will give immunity from everything but extraordinary floods, and safeguard such floods as that of last year and the one that recently swept down the valley.

In this connection, it may be said that the bill embodies the ideas of the Mississippi River Commission, which has been studying this vast stretch of water for upwards of thirty years, and it contains the best thought of the best minds of the Mississippi valley, brought in frequent consultation to devise a practical plan for the prevention of flood devastation.

And what are the interests behind this bill of Messrs. Ransdell and Humphreys? It will be supported with practical unanimity by the people in the overflowed delta of Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana, with the especial backing of the powerful Mississippi Levee Commission, with headquarters at Memphis, Tenn.

So varied are the interests the people of the United States have in the Mississippi valley that it is only through a concrete recitation of them that the country gets a fair knowledge of their extent and the ramifications of their activities.

The overflowed delta of the Mississippi valley contains 28,000 square miles, in round numbers 19,000,000 acres of the most fertile soil in the republic. Within this dominion there is a large section especially adapted to the production of the long staple cotton so largely used by the New England mills. If this section could be thoroughly protected from overflow there seems to be no reason why another pound of long staple cotton need be imported from Egypt, but instead, it would raise enough cotton not only to supply our own mills, but to change the balance of the long staple cotton trade in our favor.

When an overflow occurs, however, not only is the immediate country laid waste, and one hundred different industries put out of business, to say nothing of lives and property destroyed, but the farthestmost commercial enterprise feels its effect, for the people of the Mississippi valley use a vast quantity of manufactured goods, fabrics of the richest, as well as the plainest kinds, machinery, farming implements, live stock, etc., commanding the attention of those who are in trade and commerce from the Atlantic ocean to the Missouri river.

According to figures obtained from the board of engineers of the United States army, the present levee system on the Mississippi has cost about $91,000,000, of which the local communities have furnished more than two-thirds, which, with an addition of $60,000,000, as proposed by the bills of Senator Ransdell and Representative Humphreys, would make a total of $151,000,000. The expenditure of this sum will have extended over more than a half century.

No Longer Cranky About His Meals

Has Perfect Digestion From the Use of a Well-Known Remedy That all Can Obtain.

The temper of the family and the good cheer around the table, depend so much on the good digestion of each individual present that the experiences of some former dyspeptics who overcame their trouble should be of interest to those now suffering in this way.

The best advice one can give—but it is advice that is seldom heeded—is to eat slowly and masticate each mouthful carefully. However, if slow eating and careful mastication fail the next aid is one close to nature, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This remedy is an excellent digestant, and in addition to helping in the digestion of the food, acts gently on the liver and bowels, ridding them of the accumulation of waste that should long ago have been passed off. It is safe, reliable, pleasant-tasting, and results are guaranteed.

In the opinion of such people as Mr. L. J. Quinn, 1117 Newport Ave., Chicago, it is the ideal remedy for indigestion, no matter how severe, constipation, headaches, gas on the stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar annoyances.

Mr. Quinn says: "We use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as a family remedy and every member of the family from the five-year-old, who is the youngest of six children, to Mrs. Quinn and myself, use it for stomach trouble, sick headache and to regulate the bowels."

You can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter also being bought by heads of families already familiar with its merits. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

When you see Syrup Pepsin you will see the fallacy of chewing mints and tablets or of taking cathartics, salts, pills and similar drastic medicines. Unlike these, Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect, and by automatically training the stomach and bowel muscles to do their work, soon restores these organs to normal. If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed to you.
