An Evening Echo.

The current of the mind grows more and more restricted to the course in which habit has taught it to flow. These intellectual and moral habits form many peculiarities of character and chiefly distinguish one individual from another: they are, therefore, of the utmost importance.—GOODRICH.

Philippi ought to be connected with Clarksburg by rail or traction line, as it is a fact that all roads are leading to Clarksburg now as a center.

The Telegram congratulates the Pythians upon the good taste they showed in naming their state camp here for Virgil A. Lewis. He was a loyal Pythian and a patriot and gentleman not only Pythians but others take pride in honoring in memory.

The Glen Elk bridge will probably hold up another year. Unless the county court does something else than think that it will wake some morning to realize that something terrible and horrifying has happened. No one wants any bridge horror.

"All aboard for Clarksburg," coming from street car conductors will tickle Westonsians within thirty days. Clarksburg and Weston will then become closely allied. The traction line will be beneficial to both.

The facts that prison reform is recommended in New York after numerous convicts have burned down prison buildings and that safe guards from fire are ordered after many lives have been lost in a factory fire, are plain indications that the members of the Democratic administration there have been playing politics instead of attending to their duties.

One can almost hear George Byrnes turn over the political grave he dug for Louey Bennett when reading of the appointment of Adam E. Patterson, a Democratic negro of Oklahoma, by President Wilson to be register of the treasury. An appointment like this by a Republican president would have been a crime but President Wilson is not being indicted as a criminal.

Can Be the Edge.

It is the hope of the Dispatch-News that Parkersburg is beginning an industrial growth which will, in the not very distant future, make it the manufacturing center of West Virginia.—Parkersburg Dispatch-News.

It has long been the ambition and hope of Clarksburg to become the manufacturing center of West Virginia. There will be no objection, however, to letting Parkersburg be the manufacturing edge.

Neither Republican nor Progressive was pleased when this district sent John W. Davis back to Congress. They recognized him as a man of ability but they knew that his tariff views and the course he would pursue could not benefit the congressional district but to the contrary would hurt it. Neither Republican nor Progressive wants a Democrat to succeed Davis. Both Republican and Progressive believe in reasonable protection for the district's industries and desire that wages shall be raised and not lowered. It will be up to them this year at a special election to fight the common foe and not one another.

Needed Street Repairing.

If there is a small strip of street anywhere in the city that needs repairing more than that between the West Virginia and Pittsburg division railroad track and the bridge over the West Fork river in the West End, the person knowing about it will do well to come forward with the specifications.

The strip indicated is only about fifty feet long but, because of the bridge, the railroad track, a curve and about forty holes in it, it is a menace to all sorts of traffic. It seems strange that the principal paved thoroughfares of the city and the best road in the county leading to them should be practically disconnected by this dangerous collection of mud holes.

If the street can not be paved to the bridge as it ought to be, the bad strip could at least be filled with rock cracked by city road convicts in a short time and at but little expense.

This District in Congress.

The retirement of John W. Davis from Congress and the special election to follow to select his successor bring prominently before the people of the congressional district the represented several matters of vital interest to the welfare of the district. The Wheeling Intelligencer pointedly sets forth some facts as follows: all who have the welfare of the district at heart should heed when it comes to voting at the special election:

"The First West Virginia district is essentially a protective tariff district. More than ninety per cent of the voters of this district either are employed directly in protected industries, or are benefited directly by those industries.

"This is one of the greatest iron plate making districts in the United States.

"This is one of the greatest sheep-growing districts in the United States.

"This is one of the greatest coal producing districts in the United States.

"It is one of the greatest districts manufacturing steel, glass and pottery products.

"All of these industries have thriven wonderfully under the protective tariff system. They have waxed and have grown strong. In attacking these industries the Democratic party has attacked the most substantial interests of the First congressional district."

These features so well set out by the intelligencer can be met only by the election of a man to Congress who believes in protective tariff.

When Mr. Davis ran the first time the impression got over the district that he would not support free trade but that as he had lived so long in a manufacturing district and seen its wonderful development under the protective tariff policy he would exercise liberality in the matter of tariff voting.

By his own course in Congress he showed this impression to be wrong and only the candidacies of others for other positions saved him.

In view of the erroneous impression spread for Davis and the fact that he is upheld by the Democratic press of the district for voting against the industrial interests of his state and district, the voters in the district should not tolerate a repetition of the deception.

The only safe way to have the industries protected and to guarantee good wages is to send a man to Congress who believes in reasonable protection and who will constitute one of the members of the new Congress after the Underwood-Simmons tariff law has been tested and found to be a fake. The party which nominates a free trader such as John W. Davis is has the natural and logical right to expect defeat at the polls.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

"Hip! Hip!—" "Therere, little slit-skirt, don't you cry, you'll find a stopping place by and by."—Charleston Mail.

Very Likely.

Manufacturers of street cars are making the steps lower. If they had waited until next year the passing of the tight skirt might have made the change unnecessary.—Wheeling Register.

Cheap Talk Sometimes Pays.

Considering the fact that William J. has salted away $170,000 in the last ten years, that old saying that talk is cheap ought to be revised along with the rest of the tariff.—Wheeling News.

Democratic.

The Central District and Printing Telegraph Company was stringing a large cable along Main and Third streets.

has gone to reading the Wheeling Register in addition to the Parkersburg Sentinel and the Clarksburg Exponent.—Parkersburg State Journal.

Encouraging.

The interest being manifested over the state on the subject of good roads is encouraging. Fayette and Raleigh counties are doing and planning good work, and a "road bee" day has been set, on which to improve the roads from Mount Hope to Beckley. Come on, boys, let's get in the game.—Charleston Gazette.

A Fashion Change.

There was a young lady from Princeton Did something that no one has since done, With a hobble so tight, Mounted a street car all right, But the hobble turned into a slit-skirt.—Bluefield Times.

Hard Lines.

Hon. John W. Davis having been assigned to a position under the Wilson administration, Washington correspondents serving West Virginia newspapers have lost their most prolific source of news.—Huntington Herald-Dispatch.

What is What.

After a careful perusal of newspapers and the news dispatches from Washington, we have reached the unalterable opinion that we will have war with Mexico immediately and that we will not have war with Mexico under any contingency whatever. From the unimpeachable authenticity and trustworthiness of the reports received, it is impossible to reach any other conclusion.—Charleston Mail.

The Paramount Reason.

Louis Bennett's Washington press agent in giving reasons why Mr. Bennett should succeed John W. Davis in Congress, points out the very important one that "Mrs. Bennett and Miss Bennett occupy a high position in Washington society and would not be at all averse to coming to the capital." It will be most unkind for the Republicans to put a man in the field against Mr. Bennett with such a laudable ambition burning in his breast.—Fairmont West Virginian.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dread disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. It cures by destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and restoring nature in doing its work. The proprietors have a much faith in this catarrh cure, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that they fail to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CUREY & CO., Toledo, O. TO MAKE TABLE CLOTHS LAST.

Table linen is expensive. It costs more today than it did five years ago. When it begins to wear in holes, to come from the wash with worn spots that tell how soon it will be no good, no wonder the housewife despairs. Cheap, common soap fails to dispair. That eat the linen are greatly to blame. Easy Task laundry soap is an enemy to dirt and stains and a friend to the table linen. Get two five cent cakes; try it, and if it does not surprise and satisfy you the makers will return your money.—Advertisement.

The Best Medicine in the World.

"My little girl had diphthery very bad. Though she would die, Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured her and I can truthfully say that I think it is the best medicine in the world." writes Mr. William Orvis, Claze, Mich. For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

Who Gives You The Poorest Service?

Is it the merchant who has the brightest store, the most attractive things to sell you, a polite and intelligent sales force to serve you and an all around general home-like welcome at his shop—waiting you in his shop—and then tells you about it in his advertising?

Is it from that kind of merchant that you receive poor service? It is not probable.

The chances are ten to one that the poorest service and the least satisfaction come from the shops where business is done under antiquated conditions; where the merchandise is badly chosen and badly displayed; where salespeople are not well informed and courteous and obliging; and where the merchant either has nothing much of interest to advertise or "doesn't believe in advertising."

There MAY be exceptions but, if so, they indicate the rank of the business. The best service comes from the business that has so much confidence in its methods and its merchandise, that it is a part of its splendid service to tell you about it. Faithful ad-readers seldom go to the wrong store.
