THE THEATERS

"You can stake the reputation of your paper," says J. B. White, dramatic critic of the Charleston Gazette in a telegram received today by the Telegram, "on saying that Miss Thayer will give one of the most artistically satisfactory entertainments you will have this season. Her work is most remarkable considering her youth and we predict a great future for her. The opera is clean, brilliant, well staged; the orchestration ample and every principal a star. Cheerfully recommend it to your readers."

In addition to the great naval drama, "Victory," in five reels, a three-reel Eclair feature entitled "Into the Wilderness" is being shown today at the Lyceum moving picture play house. Barbara Tennant takes the leading part in this play. Those who have witnessed the big naval drama say it is one of the biggest and best things in motion pictures they have ever seen.

Laura Hopes Crews is to star next season in a play by Charles W. Bell, a Canadian author.

Douglas J. Wood appeared in the title role of "Prince Karl" at a benefit performance in New York with much success. The play was staged by Mr. Wood himself.

Today's program at the Orpheum theater includes a powerful Warner feature entitled "Trapped in the Castle of Mystery." It is a weird story of a gang of counterfeiters, in three parts. Those who like ghost stories will like this remarkable feature with its atmosphere of mystery and sensational situations. A dandy Keystone comedy "A Robust Romeo," featuring "Fatty" is also shown.

The Bijou theater is showing a two-reel Keystone comedy today that Manager Simeral says will awaken the natives. Ford Sterling and Maude Normen are the fun-makers. Four other reels are also shown, making a variety of subjects. Next week a four-reel Spanish historical drama, "Rup Bias," from Victor Hugo's novel will be shown. It is an exquisite picture of Spanish court life at the end of the seventeenth century.

As indicated by its title, "The Wreck," the costly and elaborate photoplay that is showing at the Odeon theater along with fine vaudeville numbers, pictures a head-on collision between passenger trains in which hundreds of passengers are killed. The story is of an overly suspicious husband who kills a manly young chap and finds out too late that the boy was innocent. A just retribution comes when he loses his son in the wreck.
