THE THEATERS

At the Odeon tonight will be seen America's greatest and foremost accordionist, the original who civilized the accordion. Also Fougere and Wilson in a refined singing and dancing act. John Bunny and Flora Finch are shown dancing the tango in a delightful Vitagraph comedy. Also a dandy Edison comedy, "Lo, the Poor Indian," and a Selig comedy, "Mike's Adventures."

Number 38 of the Pathe Weekly will be shown at the Odeon Friday afternoon and evening. Among the im-

Weekly is only one day old and will be shown at the Odeon Friday afternoon and evening along with the first pictures of "The Perils of Pauline," the great $25,000 serial story now running in all the leading papers throughout the country.

James T. Powers may take the place of DeWolf Hopper in the revival of "The Yeomen of the Guard."

"Our Mutual Girl," in the seventeenth reel, which is showing today at the Orpheum revisits her old home in the country. There you get to its full, the fascination of the personality of "Our Mutual Girl," which has contributed so much to the amazing success of the series. A beautiful American play is also shown entitled "A Soul Astray" in two parts, an intense Scene in "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," the vastly amusing comedy in which Mrs. Fiske is to make her first visit to Clarksburg, appearing at the Robinson Grand Thursday, June 4.

portant events shown will be Vera Cruz, American troops at Vera Cruz water works fired upon by Mexicans and General Funston rushing reinforcements to the scene.

The A. B. C. peace mediators meet with delegates from Huerta and the United States to settle the crisis in Mexico, if possible. They meet at Niagara Falls, Ont.

Our "Teddy" comes home from Brazil and its fevers, changed in face and figure by his fight against disease. Also ten other pictures of the latest events of the world. This Pathe sociological drama vibrating with real heart throbs. Ed. Coxen and Winifred Greenwood have the leads supported by an able cast. Tomorrow a strong Beauty play is shown entitled "Her Heritage," featuring Marguerite Fisher and Harry Pollard.

John Phillip Sousa has composed a march for the minstrel parade of the All-Star Lambs' Gambol, and will himself head his band when it is played.

What is pronounced by the press and educators the country over to be the greatest motion picture film ever constructed will open a limited engagement at the Robinson Grand theater commencing Monday, June 1. The great Biograph films represent the very highest in motion picture construction and the world's very best artists were brought from Italy, Germany, France and England and together with the American expert motion picture photographers spent two years and four months in the construction of the complete seven reels that will be shown here. The press of the country everywhere give columns, to the daring of the foreign photographers on the South Pacific expedition to the sea elephant rookeries, the only living herd in the world, and the only expedition that has successfully filmed these monsters of the deep.

The Bijou program today is especially arranged to please a critical audience. It includes a two part Vitagraph, a two part Biograph and two single reels. The high school graduates were entertained this afternoon. The second number of "The Perils of Pauline," an Edison two part picture, "The Unopened Letter," and two one reel subjects will be included in Friday's bill.

On account of the success of the revival of Clyde Fitch's "Truth," Winthrop Ames is going to make an annual revival of an American play.

Mrs. Fiske's powers in serious drama have often been extolled, but that she revels in comedy is as true as that the public delights in having her do so. Thus the announcement of her appearance at the Robinson Grand June 4 in "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," in which she is appearing for a brief season following two years of "The High Road," will doubtless give rise to eager anticipation. The play is a comedy of character and of types. Mrs. Fiske playing one of them—the daughter of an Indian patent medicine king—and her characterization of this backwoods product who becomes a parvenu social climber, is said to be ludicrous in the extreme. The usual Fiske care and discrimination are to be expected in the personnel and in the work of the supporting company.

Arthur Bourchier, the famous English actor-manager, has bought the English rights to "Little Miss Brown," the comedy by Phillip H. Bartholomae.

John Mason will star in "Drugged" by Owen Davis. In his company will be William Sampson, Robert McWade, Amelia Gardner, John Emerson and Katherine La Salle.
