ADVICE GIVEN AS TO CARE OF THE BABY

Health of Child in Summer is Very Important, Say Experts.

(Prepared for this paper by the children's Bureau, United States Department of Labor.)

Nothing is so important to the health of the baby in summer as the right kind of food. When for any reason, breast milk cannot be had, a substitute must be found.

Experience in many thousands of cases has shown that cow's milk is the only food that can take the place of mother's milk with even a fair prospect of having it agree with the baby. Neither condensed milk nor the infant foods sold in the stores are so good as clean cow's milk for the baby who cannot have breast milk.

But to have clean milk it is necessary to have clean cows, clean barns, clean milkers, clean pails and clean handling. Later articles in this series will deal more particularly with the subject of milk. The country mother is often able to see the condition under which the milk she uses is produced. City mothers, on the other hand, have the protection that is afforded when the city inspects its own milk supply.

In some cities it is possible to buy milk known as "certified" milk. This costs a little more than ordinary milk, but its purity is guaranteed by the authorities. But when certified milk cannot be had, and when it is impossible for a mother to see herself how the milk she uses is produced, she should heat all the milk she uses for the baby, in order to kill the disease germs which it may be carrying. Among the disease germs which thrive in milk are those of tuberculosis, typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever and diarrhea.

Germs multiply very rapidly in milk so rapidly, in fact, that even if it is reasonably clean when drawn, it may become dangerous food if left standing in a warm place for sometime. These germs may be killed by heating the milk. Boiling it for half an hour is a safe method, and is sometimes advisable in very hot weather; but the method of heating the milk without boiling it called pasteurizing is usually employed. An easy method of home pasteurization is as follows:

Put a gallon of water over the fire in a clean pan or kettle. When the water is boiling hard, take the kettle from the fire and allow it to stand on a table for ten minutes uncovered. Then put in the filled and corked nursing bottles and leave them for half an hour, covering the kettle meanwhile with a blanket. At the end of the half hour, remove the bottles and cool them in the kettle on her arm. If it feels just slightly warm, it will be right for the baby. After the baby has finished, the bottle should be emptied, rinsed and filled with cold water. At some convenient hour in the day, the mother will wash all the used bottles with soap and warm water, using a bottle brush to clean the inside of them. She should then rinse them and boil them in the same pan or kettle in which they were pasteurized. This kettle and all the dishes used in preparing the baby's food should be kept for that purpose.

The nipples should be washed carefully. A little salt rubbed on the inside will remove the milk. They should then be rinsed and dropped into boiling water for a few moments. They will dry with their own heat when removed. They should then be put away in a dry glass jar that has also been boiled, covered and kept out of the light.

When handling the sterilized nipples take hold of them by the lower rim. Do not touch the part which is to go into the baby's mouth. Never put the nipple into the baby's mouth as the milk as the baby might easily be made sick if the mother happened to have a cold or throat trouble.

It will be found convenient to have enough bottles, nipples, and clean bottle corks for the entire twenty-four hours, and it will be a great saving to have all the feedings are made up at once. This will also insure their being uniform quality.

A later article will give a few directions for modifying the milk for babies of different ages. Whenever possible, it is best for a mother to have the advice of a good physician in regard to feeding her baby.

Whenever possible the baby's bottles should be kept on ice. A home-made refrigerator which will keep the milk sweet twenty-four hours is easily and cheaply made at home. For this purpose procure a hard or candy pail, or a galvanized bucket, or even a wooden box with a cover. In the bottom place a layer of sawdust an inch thick. Inside the box or pail, place another smaller receptacle, such as a ten quart pail (tin) with a cover and fill all the space around it with sawdust. This inner pail holds the ice and the milk.

The ice will keep longer if it is broken up and inclosed in a small covered pail. Put the little pail in the bottom of the refrigerator and pack the bottles around it, and put the cover on. Then close the outer cover, which for additional protection may be lined with newspapers, or with a cushion stuffed with hay or straw. Where ice can not be had, the bottles may stand in a pail, under a stream of running water.

A bottle baby should be fed with the same regularity as a nursing baby. The bottles may be given at 6 and 9 a. m., at 12 noon, and at 3, 6 and 9 p. m. Up to the age of four months the baby will need one more night feeding. After that he should sleep all night.

Beginning at the fifth month the time between feedings should be lengthened a quarter of an hour each week until the interval is four hours.

when the baby is six months old. Give no other food than the bottle feedings and drinking water in the first few months of the baby's life.

The baby should nurse slowly, but ought to finish his feeding in about twenty minutes. If he is inclined to take his food too greedily, withdraw the nipple from his mouth several times during the feeding and let him rest a moment.

It is especially important in summer not to over feed the baby. It is far better to keep him on rather a low diet than to bring on an attack of diarrhea by giving him too much food, or that which is unsuitable, or by feeding him at irregular intervals.

BIG RATTLES

Invades Pigeon Cote but His Snakeship's Death Comes Quickly.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 11.—A rattlesnake with seven rattles, a button and a husky appetite invaded the pigeon house at the home of Mrs. J. A. Porter on Belmont street and attempted to surround a pigeon.

The noise made by the frightened bird attracted the attention of Mrs. Porter's daughter, who called her mother. When Mrs. Porter entered the pigeon house and saw the reptile, instead of screaming, she picked up a crowbar and hit the snake on the blow which stretched him dead. The pigeon tottered a few feet and also fell dead. The snake was three feet in length.

Death Or Wedding? He Wed

Seeking Divorce, Man Tells Why He Became a Husband.

NEW YORK, June 11.—John Schmech 22 years old, of Park Ridge, N. J., told Vice Chancellor Griffin in the Jersey City chancery chambers that the reason he married his wife, Mrs. Mary Schmech, from whom he is now seeking a divorce, was because she threatened him with death if he didn't.

"She threatened to kill me unless I consented to marry her," said Schmech. "I concluded that life was pretty sweet and knowing that she was very wild when in certain moods, I consented."

After the wedding the couple had luncheon and returned to Park Ridge. They never lived together. Schmech said that all efforts to see his wife were futile. The court reserved decision.

FUGITIVE ARRESTED. CUMBERLAND, June 11.—George Phillips, aged 19 years, of Philippi, has been arrested by Patrolman Johnson and Robert Pollack, a detective of West Virginia, at the W. R. Rice grocery store, Wine street, on the charge of being a fugitive from justice. He broke jail several weeks ago at Philippi.

REMARKABLE CASE of Mrs. HAM

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her Life and Sanity.

Shamrock, Mo.—"I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before using your medicine. I had falling, inflammation and congestion, female weakness, pains in both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a place in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I certainly would have been in grave or in an asylum if your medicines had not saved me. But now I can work all day, sleep well at night, eat anything I want, have no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, fears and dreads are gone, my house, children and husband are no longer neglected, as I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your remedies, and all is pleasure and happiness in my home."

Mrs. JOSIE HAM, R. F. D. 1, Box 22, Shamrock, Missouri.

MRS. SATERFIELD DEAD. FAIRMONT, June 11.—Mrs. Lucy Virginia Satterfield, wife of Lake Satterfield, died at her home on Market street Thursday evening at the age of 41 years. She passed away at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Satterfield had been ill for three or four months and for weeks past had been growing steadily worse.

It has been estimated that nearly 300,000,000 feet, or more than 55,000 miles of film are used up yearly to satisfy the world's demand for moving pictures. Chinese indigo production is being increased.
