The comedy is well taken care of by the two clever comedians, Eddie Smalley as Schultz, and Nat Wixon as Heinz, and they keep the house in a roar of laughter with their funny situations. Corinne Chellis plays the part of Rose and her charming manner is a delight to the audience. Dewie Rumley plays the part of Tom, a wise boy, and the part of a wild cowboy in a capable manner. Hale Montana and Ida Lemuels have minor part and give entire satisfaction. The chorus is as charming and pretty as ever and delivers the songs and dance in a sprightly manner.

An entire new program will be given Friday and Saturday.

Scene from "Gretna Green," Big Photoplay offering Today at the Robinson Grand, with Miss Marguerite Clark in the Leading Part.

Marguerite Clark, who more quickly than any other stage star converted to the screen sprang into national fame as a distinguished film artiste, appears again on the Paramount program at the Robinson Grand in the Famous Players Film Company four-part film adaptation of the popular stage success, "Gretna Green," by Grace Livingston Furniss, which so vividly depicts the woes and delights of the beaux and belles of old England during the rousing, heroic times of good George III.

To find herself married to the man whom she actually believes she detests is the unusual position Miss Clark finds herself in at the climactic period of her portrayal of the famed character of Dolly Erskine, heiress of a vast fortune, belle of Harrogate, and coquette, in the film version of this noted romantic comedy, of Scotland in the early nineteenth century.

Miss Clark's winsome personality.
