A Simple Way To Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store. (This is all you need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

AGGRIEVED HUSBAND SLIPS FROM OFFICER

Man Who Charged Wife With Desertion of Babe Skips Out.

Frederick Shreve, the painter who is complainant and defendant in two different suits before magistrates as the result of a squabble between himself and wife, slipped away from Constable Charles McVicker Friday morning in the basement of the court house and is now at large. In consequence postponements were taken in the non-support suit instituted by Mrs. Shreve against him in Magistrate T. G. Nicewarner's court and in the case before Magistrate Jackson V. Carter in which the husband charged the wife with abandoning her six-month-old babe at Broad Oaks, scheduled for 1 and 2 o'clock, respectively, Friday afternoon.

When Mrs. Shreve swore out the non-support warrant against her husband, he was arrested and placed in the county jail. Thursday night word came to him in the jail that his little baby was in a dying condition and he was permitted to go to the child in custody of Constable McVicker. That officer had charge of Shreve all night and returned with him Friday morning to Magistrate Nicewarner's court. While court officers were standing around there to see what further proceedings were to be taken in the case, Shreve slipped out and disappeared.

Mr. and Mrs. Shreve separated a short time before the institution of the suit in Magistrate Carter's court and she went to the home of her parents near Buckhannon, where Constable Robert McClung arrested her under a charge of deserting her tiny baby.
