Mrs. Lee's Lecture.
The New York Tribune's critic of a lecture by Mrs. John Clarence Lee, of Philadelphia, says:
"Across Siberia Alone" does not impress me as the work of a practiced, professional writer, but it is not without interest for all that, and I am bound to say that it has given me a new view of a far-off country about which much has been written while but little is known. Moreover, it reveals life in a more cheerful light than readers of Russian fiction would deem possible. Mrs. Lee has given a cheerful view of more than one interior, and her descriptions of Siberian hospitality convey the impression that life in that frozen land, although not all beer and skittles, nevertheless has its redeeming moments."

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Buttons are Popular.
Buttons are used on street wear of all types and particularly on the suits. They combine well with fur trimmings and are made to harmonize with all the fashionable suit colors, including black, rich deep blue, Russian green, African brown and odd shades of plum. Very heavy ivory buttons in ball, half-ball and barrel shapes are used on suits. Sometimes one large ball droy constitutes the sole ornamentation.

For dress decoration jet and steel buttons are much used. They are appropriate for use with rich dark velvets. Smart Scotch plaid buttons have black or cooled rims. Plain dome-shaped buttons and massive shapes with high rolled edges decorate separate coats.

Both salt and fresh water fish are caught in Lake Maracalibo, Venezuela.
