An Evening Echo.

Have you learned lessons only of those who admired you, and were tender with you, and stood aside for you? Have you not learned great lessons from those who reject you, and brace themselves against you, or who treat you with contempt, or dispute the passage with you?—WALT WHITMAN.

Increased Taxes.

Of the most vital importance to a great number of citizens are the propositions of Secretary McAdoo to raise additional revenue. This he would do, and it is understood that the president endorses his scheme, by levying special taxes on gasoline, kerosene and all forms of lubricating oils formed from petroleum, on all forms of engines, according to horsepower, on all automobiles, and, as he expresses it, "various other articles not necessary to mention."

Furthermore, Mr. McAdoo proposes to increase the income tax by lowering the minimum income taxable, so that all single men making $2,000 a year and all married couples making $3,000 a year, or more, would be taxed. He also proposes increasing the tax on the income of all corporations.

"These taxes," he says, would be wisely diffused and little felt, a conclusion which is emphatically rejected by all the Republicans and many Democrats, including so staunch a supporter of the Wilson administration as Senator Core of Oklahoma, who has come out in an interview against the proposed taxation of gasoline, kerosene, etc.

High Finance Run Mad.

The chief characteristic of the program of the secretary of the treasury for financing the government during the next fiscal year is insincerity. Secretary McAdoo's statement is a highly ingenious and intricate attempt to deceive the public, both as to the past performances of this administration in its handling of Uncle Sam's finances, and as to the future needs of the government. With an ingenuity which would yield a fortune to the promoter of a "get rich quick" concern, Mr. McAdoo utterly belittles the facts and creates an impression utterly unwarranted by them. Stripped of "McAdoo-isms," this is the situation: On March 3, 1913, the Republican party turned over to the Democratic administration a treasury balance of $149,335,711. On November 1, 1915, this balance had been reduced to less than $5,000,000.

Juggling with the Future.

The same chicanery which characterizes the administration's discussion of past finances marks its discussion of the finances of the future. Mr. McAdoo—and it must be remembered that he had the cordial endorsement of the president in his statement—contends that the administration will need to raise additional revenue of not more than $112,806,000.

Republican experts who have analyzed his figures contend that they show of themselves that the Democrats will be compelled to raise $300,000,000 if they are to leave the treasury in as good condition as they found it, and that if they raise more than $150,000,000 they will leave it actually empty.

A thoroughly deceptive statement, chiefly notable for what it attempts to conceal, is the way in which the Republican experts sum up the McAdoo-Wilson statement of the government's finances.

Mr. McAdoo himself estimates a deficit for the next fiscal year of $50,000,000, and he then estimates expenses for the military establishment approved by President Wilson, explaining that while the sum estimated may be appropriated, it will not be necessary to pay all the bills next year.

Furthermore, Mr. McAdoo makes no allowance for his own hobby, the ship-purchase bill, on which he would expend $50,000,000, for the rural credits program, to which the administration is pledged, and for numerous other schemes which will involve large expenditure.

The Tariff Deficit.

So cleverly concealed in Mr. McAdoo's statement of the government's finances that it requires an expert accountant to dig it out is the admission that the Democratic tariff bill has failed by $124,525,000 to supply the needs of the government for the current year. To the inadvisability of continuing in force a bill which falls so far short of its purpose and to the grave blunder made by President Wilson in insisting that sugar be put on the free list, Mr. McAdoo makes no direct reference, but he does urge that the free sugar clause, which goes into effect May 1, next, be repealed, estimating that such repeal would obviate a further diminution of the revenues by $15,000,000.

Although the United States is not at war, and although the imports have not materially fallen off because of the war, Mr. McAdoo would continue in force the "tar tax," from which source he estimates $41,000,000 would be received. Although compelled to admit that the Democratic tariff bill has so far failed of its purpose as a revenue measure, and although "a tariff for revenue only" has long been the slogan of the Democratic party, neither President Wilson, in his forthcoming annual message, nor Secretary McAdoo in his public statement, have the courage to face the fact that the tariff tinkering of this administration has proved a rank failure and that, even from a Democratic standpoint, the Underwood bill should be so radically revised as to make it yield sufficient revenue to meet the needs of the government.

THE DAILY NOVELET

THE CAPTURE OF INDIAN RED.

Oh, in the wild and woolly West, Ee-oy-ee—Whee-ee! That's the country I like best, Ee-oy-ee—Whee-ee!

The great detective looked out the window.

"I have him! There goes Indian Red, the notorious Indian lander! All dressed up in workman's clothes!"

Dashing and crashing through the doorway, he jumped into his Cantara 1909 200 H. P. car and in less than a fraction of a second, threw open his coat, showed his badge and had Indian Red beside him on the brown granite-skin seat. They sped along a mile a second in the direction of the station house.

The great detective took his catch to the chief of police and claimed his just reward. This spoke he, "I have Indian Red here. Wanted for horse stealing on the high seas. $2,000 reward. Give me the money in twenty-five's—seventies and nineties. Quick, please. I'm in a hurry."

"Whatcha talkin about—Indian Red—I ain't no red Indian," spoke up Indian Red. "I works in a red paint factory, I does, an' dis tint on me face is cultivated, see?"

And, with that, the great detective did see "red" stars.

He boasts it was Mars, but we know better.

Don't we?

IN MEMORY

Of Miss Pearl Davison, a Popular Young Lady Who Resided at Wallace.

Pearl Davison, daughter of I. L. Davison, was born August 6, 1896, and departed this life November 28, 1915, aged 19 years, three months and twenty-two days. She gave her heart to Christ at the age of 13 and united with the Smith Baptist church at Wallace, and lived a faithful Christian until the One that doeth all things well claimed her for one of His jewels. She was loved by all who knew her and her death was a shock to her many friends and relatives.

Pearl was an every-day Christian, always looking after the interests of others and aiming to make those around her happy. Many of her friends have spoken of her pure, Christian life and the good and noble example she set for others while here in the world. She was never known to give her father or mother a cross word, or say a harmful word of anyone. Pearl never had an enemy, but was kind and loving to everyone she met. The funeral services were held at the Smith Baptist church, conducted by the Rev. W. M. Bainbrage, which was attended by a very large host of relatives and friends, after which her body was laid to rest in the Independent Order of Odd Fellows cemetery at Brown. Father, mother, sister and brother, weep not for Pearl. She is safe in the arms of Jesus.

—ONE WHO LOVED HER.

WEST VIRGINIA BRIEFS

FAIRMONT: Gottlieb Brambler, who was killed by an explosion of gas in the Baltimore and Ohio railroad round house, died of his injuries in the Miners' state hospital here.

HUNTINGTON: A. E. Summers, president and other officers of the Progressive Manufacturing Company, all of Wheeling, announced while on a visit here that they would establish a plant here for the manufacture of wrapping machines provided they could find a suitable site.

CHARLESTON: West Virginia's state license tax on corporations will net almost $800,000 during the first year of its operation, according to estimates compiled in the office of secretary of state. During 1914 the license tax on corporations paid into the state treasury amounted to approximately $450,000. So far this year the proceeds from the same source have totaled $700,000 in delinquencies to be collected.

CHARLESTON: A verdict of not guilty was returned by the circuit court jury which heard the case of Earl Golligh, charged with the murder of Elmer Williams at Kayford last January. The jury was out five minutes. Golligh's mother, upon hearing the verdict, exclaimed, "Thank God," and swooned. Golligh was found guilty of second degree murder in intermediate court, and was sentenced to twelve years in the penitentiary. Appeal was taken to the higher court which heard the case on its merits.

WHEELING: Prominent divines and church workers, appointed as delegates to represent the state of West Virginia at the conference of the Commission on Church and Country Life, to be held in Columbus, O., December 8, 9 and 10, leave Tuesday to be in attendance at the opening session. The Hon. Gifford Pinchot, former United States forester, is chairman of the delegation. The West Virginia delegates are: The Rev. J. E. Bird, of Charleston; S. W. Walker, of Huntington; W. H. Newcomb, of Huntington; H. M. Smith, of Montgomery; John T. Heckman, of West Union; T. J. Crowe, of Bramwell; C. H. Howard, of Buckhannon; Charles H. Robinson, of Wheeling; L. C. Anderson, of Welch; U. G. Young, of Buckhannon; William P. Morgan and William Byers, of Grafton.

WHEELING: Suits for 20,000 have been filed in the Marshall county circuit court against the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for the deaths of Dessie Robinson, Guy Hardman and Dennis Carpenter when struck by a train at Shad's crossing, Benwood, which they were crossing in an automobile.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lax, dizziness, nervousness, or any of the symptoms of a clogged liver and disordered bowels, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound, mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like.
