GLASSCOCK IS NAMED AS STATE CHAIRMAN OF PEACE LEAGUE

Which is Organizing State Branches after the Fashion of Political Parties.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—According to an announcement made here, the League to Enforce Peace, of which ex-President William H. Taft is head, and which has for its object the maintenance of world peace after the close of the European war, has begun the organization of state branches, using as its model the plan followed in the organization of political parties.

The announcement makes it clear however, that the league is non-partisan as far as party politics are concerned, its membership comprising men of prominence from all political organizations, the plan in question having been worked out under the leadership of Alton B. Parker, the chairman of the league's committee on home organization.

Mr. Taft has asked ex-Governor Glasscock to act as temporary chairman for West Virginia.

Mr. Taft's letter follows: "My dear sir: "The absolute necessity, revealed by the European war, for establishing a new, better and more permanent basis for future international relations leads the officers and the executive committee of the league to enforce peace to feel under obligation to the utmost to fulfill the trust reposed in them by the conference held last June in Independence Hall, when it instructed them to take all proper means to carry into effect the resolutions there adopted.

"The reception, both in this and in other countries, of the proposals put forth at that time has been such as to encourage the friends of the league, and to point as the next step in its establishment, to the creation of organizations in the several states. The objects sought in so doing are to acquaint still further the people of the country with the league's platform, and to lay the foundation for securing action by our national authorities and their representatives, looking to the establishment of the proposed league of nations in an international conference.

"As president of the league, it has become my duty to appoint temporary chairmen for the several states and I take pleasure in asking you to serve in this capacity for your state and to take the initiative, together with other gentlemen to be chosen from the charter members of the league in your state, in establishing our work there. The plan of organization, as worked out by Judge Parker's committee and adopted by the executive committee, is enclosed in printed form. We need your cooperation and I earnestly hope that you will be able to give it.

"On receipt of your acceptance, the secretary of the league will submit to you a list of our charter members in your state with the suggestions regarding the willingness of some of them to be of active service. I understand that all are being notified that they should hold themselves in readiness to respond to your call for the purpose of organization. The nucleus of your committee might be chosen from this group and supplemented from other sources as you may desire. It is our wish to have the state committee as broadly representative as possible of the various interests and political parties and of every section of the state.

"Thanking you for giving careful consideration to a request which Judge Parker and the executive committee join with me in making, I am "Very truly yours, (Signed) "WILLIAM H. TAFT, "President."

It is understood that within a short time the temporary state chairman will call together all the members of the league who are residents of this state, for the purpose of forming a regularly constituted state committee, and electing a permanent state chairman. It is the plan then to follow with the organization of county committees, and other officers corresponding closely to those in the various political organizations.

When its present scheme of organization is completed, the league shall consist of a national president and chairman, a national treasurer, assistant treasurer, secretary and assistant secretary.

There will be fifty-one vice-presidents, for each state in the union. A national executive committee of twenty-five, and a general committee of two hundred and fifty, and a national committee directly representing the state organizations.

The league's announcement makes the statement, that an outstanding feature of its plan of state organization is the purpose to urge political action in favor of the league's platform adopted at the Independence Hall conference last June. To that end, the statement reads, each county committee is requested at its first meeting to adopt a resolution calling to the attention of members of the state legislature, the aims and objects of the league; each state committee is expected to take similar action with regard to United States senators and members of the House of Representatives; and at the first meeting of the national committee it is planned to appoint committees to wait upon the various national party conventions with a view to the adoption of a plank in favor of the league's proposals.

Arrangements are to be made also for the calling of delegates from county committees in each state, to meet in convention for the purpose of urging political parties in each of the states to adopt as planks in their platforms, favoring the league.

A national assembly of the league is to be held annually in Washington.

The League to Enforce Peace was organized in Philadelphia, in Independence Hall, on June 17. Mr. Taft was elected president and a platform, consisting of four definite proposals, was adopted, the main points and it is contained in the third proposal. This was proposed by A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University. It provides that all great powers agree to use their joint armed forces against any one nation which shall refuse to submit its dispute to arbitration or judicial review, before going to war.

The entire platform of the league is summarized as follows: "It is proposed that the United States join with other great powers agreeing: (1) before resorting to arms to submit all questions to an international court, or (2) to a council of conciliation. (3) In order to enforce such a general treaty of arbitration, it is proposed that the nations agree to boycott any nation refusing to keep its agreement in arbitration, and if necessary, to undertake a joint military expedition against it as was done in the case of China at the time of the Boxer uprising. (4) As a means of perfecting judicial procedure in cases of international dispute, the adoption of a code of international law is proposed."

The contention of the founders of this league is, that no nation would be likely to refuse to carry out its agreement, in the face of such a threat as is contained in the third proposal.

It is not the plan of the league, however, to provide for an enforcement of the decree of the court or of the council of conciliation. A nation dissatisfied with the award, would be at liberty to reject it, and to declare war, without any interference on the part of the other signatory powers.

Fire Follows in Wake of Stork at Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 4.—While the stork was paying a visit to one home and only a few hours after it had left another baby at the house next door, firemen fought to save both dwellings from flames that communicated to a third home before the fire was put out. Joe Jacobs, a neighbor, who helped firemen rescue Mrs. Theodore Zarembo and her newly born child from the bed and carry them to a nearby house, was burned so badly he was taken to St. Alexis hospital. The fire started in the Zarembo house and spread to where Mrs. Tanski gave birth to baby boy.
