REVUE AT ODEON BRINGS LAUGHTER

Clever Singing and Dancing Also Mark Work of Jewell's "Jubilee Girls."

Jewell's "Jubilee Girls" are the attraction at the Odeon theater this week. This is a clever, popular and up-to-date tabloid musical comedy organization and it presented a new show of merit to appreciative audiences at the Odeon. The bill now being presented is "The International Revue," and everybody is enjoying it, as the fun is fast and furious. The company is a capable one and each member is worthy of considerable praise.

Among the favorites who appear are Leslie Golden, a prima donna who captivates audiences from the start; Sam Evans and Mae Brown, funny comedians who keep the audience in an uproar; Florence Richmond, a likeable miss, who sings "Mary Dear, It's You I'm After," and Max Golden, the "man who feeds them all." The chorus is a handsome one composed of singers and dancers with gorgeous costumes for each musical number. The company is far above the average "tab" show.

"Time and Tide," a "Flying A" comedy featuring Alfred Vobshur and Neil Franzen, shows clever use of the ebb and flow of the tide in Santa Barbara bay.

The Lewis-Oliver Company will present again tonight for the last time at the Palace, the big success of Christmas day, "Felecia," the powerful drama of mother love, a play gripping in intensity, a wonderful story, beautifully told in four strong

Why You Should Use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Because it has an established reputation won by its good works.

Because it is most esteemed by those who have used it for many years as occasion required, and are best acquainted with its good qualities.

Because it loosens and relieves a cold and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition.

Because it does not contain opium or any other narcotic.

Because it is within the reach of all. It only costs a quarter. Obtainable everywhere—Advertisement.

REJOINDER

On the Part of British Labor Unions to Ministers of Cabinet Stings.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—After the cabinet ministers made an earnest appeal to the trade union congress to defer demands for increased wages until after the war on the ground of national economy, the suggestion came from the unions that the ministers themselves might set an example in economy by giving up part of their salaries, which in some offices are princely. It was indicated in parliament that such a movement was contemplated by the ministers. But now a leading liberal paper makes an ingenious defense of the old scale of salaries.

"It is an old saying," the paper argues, "that a minister who gives his whole attention to the nation's affairs has little time for his own, and in the case of some cabinet ministers a sudden drop of a third to a half of their income would create private financial problems, and therefore some distraction of mind. Ministers are supposed to be of importance to the nation's business, and distraction of mind is therefore a thing to be avoided. It is not at all unlikely this consideration may prevail."

OLD FRENCH MILL IN USE

Once More as the Germans Retrieve the Same from Many Years of Inactivity.

IN THE ARGONNES, France, Dec. 28.—Several miles behind the front, yet near enough to it so that its products can be transported to the trenches with little difficulty, lies the so-called Hindenburg Mill—a one time French sawmill that for years had lain inactive, and which has been utilized by the Germans for fitting up their positions.

Every bit of machinery in the mill is French—most of it requisitioned from similar establishments in all parts of the Argonnes forest. The Germans estimate that they have spent not more than 1,000 marks in rehabilitating the institution, which today is turning out from 17,000 to 30,000 marks' worth of furniture a month.

The mill originally was purely a saw mill, but departments have been added in which stoves, saws, being made for the trench shelters at the front, and in which many metal parts are moulded for the manifold need of the fighting men a few miles away.

Several scores of soldiers, carpenters and machinists by trade, have been assigned to the Hindenburg Mill, and are daily turning out by the wholesale window sashes, chairs, bookcases, desks, tables and other things for the "rooms" where the German soldiers, at leisure, spends his time.

A moving picture machine built to prevent delays, has three reels mounted side by side, and as the end of one is reached the other is thrown into action.

Finally, the last scene in the first act of the tragedy, the inhabitants could see the German, Austrian and Hungarian flags thrust out through the apertures in the top of the still undestroyed white tower. This was early in the morning of October 9, when the united troops reached the tower and a German soldier carried his name into a beam in the tower, with date and hour, and added the title of the old European hymn, "nun danket alle Gott" (Now praise ye all our God).

Not until after the fighting had

SEMMLIN BACK TO HUMDRUM OF DAILY LIFE

Although Not More Than Two Months Ago Shells Began to Fall There.

SEMMLIN, Hungary, Dec. 28.—It is not two months since shells were falling in this old Hungarian city, but the civilian population has already settled back into the humdrum routine of normal city life. Some soldiers are still in the city, and an occasional column of prisoners is marched through the streets, but apart from this there are only some destroyed houses in the southeastern section of the town and a few houses scarred by shrapnel bullets to remind the inhabitants of the stirring scenes of the early October days.

Perhaps never in the world's history has so splendid a spectacle been staged free of charge for civilian spectators as was the taking of Belgrade. From their housetops the inhabitants of Semlin could see every move in the desperate undertaking. The broad river lay in front of them, and on the other side, perched some two hundred feet above the stream, rose the Kalemegdan, the old Belgrade fortress with its white tower and its walls dating from the days when the Turks were still masters of the city.

To their left and behind them were the Austro-Hungarian artillery positions, and off to the right the German guns were hurling their projectiles against the Serbian capital. The Austro-Hungarian regiments crossed the river in plain view for the naked eye, and a half-way good glass enabled one to watch the Germans farther toward the west, making their bloody struggle to cross over the Gypsy Island. The inhabitants could see thinned battalions of Hungarians, lying with their feet still in the river on the Belgrade side of the stream, held in check by a murderous rifle and machine gun fire from the old walls of the Kalemegdan. The could see damaged pontoons full of dead men, floating down stream with the swift current. The heights southward from Belgrade were ploughed by heavy projectiles searching for the Serbian artillery positions. Serbian guns were dropping their shells into Semlin and to the rear of the city, trying vainly to find the guns that were gradually battering down the defenses of the Serbian capital. The Austrian "thirty-pounders," the twelve-inch mortars, were throwing entire houses into the air and making great craters within the walls of the Kalemegdan.

Reports show that in 1913, 117,000 parcels weighing 59,319,360 pounds were sent through the Chinese mail. Modernization of the department is progressing rapidly.

"The Cinderella Man," a comedy by Edward Childs Carpenter, has been produced in Washington, under the direction of Oliver Morosco. The play tells the love story of a young heiress and a poor but proud poet. The leading roles were played by Shelley Hull and Phoebe Foster.

Colonel William F. Cody, better known to the American public as Buffalo Bill, is going into the moving picture business, presenting famous Indian battles in the West and pictures of which are to be made under his personal supervision.

"The Other Woman" in which Blanch Walsh was starred. "The Painted Woman," with Florence Reed and "Mr. Buttes," with Henry E. Dixey.

Paul Panzer, the famous versatile actor, known throughout the world as the villain of the "Perils of Pauline," and now engaged as leading man with the Imp-Universal, will soon be seen in several high-class dramas. Mr. Panzer is immensely popular and his fine work with Mary Fuller in "Under Southern Skies," for the Universal, marks him as one of the most versatile actors in the business.

Colonel William F. Cody, better known to the American public as Buffalo Bill, is going into the moving picture business, presenting famous Indian battles in the West and pictures of which are to be made under his personal supervision.
