Tomorrow Finds Us Ready With Goods People Need in the Dollar Sale

The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to the cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.—Speech at Gettysburg.

Rosier to Speak.

Joseph Rosier, of Fairmont, will address the teachers of the Clay district at their monthly meeting in the graded school building at Shinnston at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. It is expected that a full attendance of the teachers from the rural, as well as the town schools will be present. Following the address the following round table topics will be discussed:

"What a Teacher May Do Toward Improving the School Property."

Okcy M. L. Cogar.

"Domestic Science in the Rural Schools. Can it Be Done? How?"—Edna E. Alderman.

"What Effect Does the Condition of the School Property Have Upon the Pupils?"—D. C. Bailey.

A Wonderful Achievement.

When Helen Keller made her debut as a public speaker, the press of the country announced the event as one of the greatest achievements of recent times. The girl whom Mark Twain had bracketed with Napoleon as "the other most interesting character of the nineteenth century," whom Edwin Markham had hailed as "the most interesting being on the planet," whom Edward Everett Hale, Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, Richard Watson Gilder and Oliver Wendell Holmes had claimed as "the marvel of the day in which we live," suddenly added another to her list of accomplishments and appeared as a public lecturer. That she was successful in her attempt was proved by the ovations she received everywhere on her transcendent lecture tour last season. Cities small and large turned out en masse to greet this remarkable woman and her companion whom she calls "teacher" even today. They are to lecture here and are announced for the Masonic auditorium Saturday night, February 12, at 8 o'clock.

Birthday Social.

"Aunt Love Wolf" highly entertained a few of her friends at her home at West Milford Tuesday, it being the eighty-third anniversary of her birth. She was at her best being cheerful and happy all day long, recalling many scenes and events of her more youthful days. Although she says "I don't feel old now." At the noon hour all were invited to the dining room, where a most bountiful meal was served by Mr. Bond (her companion.) She was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. Mrs. Porter Maxwell, her niece, deserves special mention as she sent the delicious "birthday cake" and many other sweetmeats which were a delight to all present. Those who enjoyed her hospitality were, Mrs. Mary Frances Price, Mrs. Mary Ludwig, Mrs. Helen Mundy, Dr. Susan Dew Hoff, Miss Shada Ludwig. All left wishing her many returns of the day.

District Convention.

The seventh district convention of Rebekahs convened here Thursday in an all-day session at the Independent Order Odd Fellows hall on Main street, beginning promptly at 10 a. m. Salle Rector, of this city, president.

Mollie Halping, of Adamston, treasurer.

Bessie Golden, of Bridgeport, secretary.

A grand dinner at noon was served in the banquet room by Golden Rule Rebekah Lodge of this city, and they surely do know how to serve every thing good. The convention will meet at Wallace in June. OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

The New Tunics.

Many of the new dresses have the overskirt of extremely full and almost even in length with the underskirt. In other models the tunic is long in front or at the sides, with a rounded, pointed or cascaded outline in the other sections. Some of the new tunics are trimmed with small ruffles or have groups of tucks, large or small, as a trimming. Frequently the material is different from that of the underskirt in weave or color, or in both. The broken skirt lines supplied by the shaped tunic of uneven length give a very graceful appearance to the stout woman.

Codfish Hash.

Freshen one pint salt codfish, add to it one quart boiled potatoes, mix well, cut three slices of salt pork in very small pieces and fry brown; remove half the pork and add the fish and potatoes to the remainder; let it stand and steam five minutes without stirring; be careful not to let it burn; then add one-third cup of milk and stir well; put the remainder of the pork around the edge of the pan and a little butter over it. Simmer slowly for half an hour until a brown crust is formed, then turn on a platter and serve.
