CLARKSBURG, W. VA.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1916.

An Evening Echo.

Beautiful it is to understand and know that a thought did never yet die; that as thou, the originator thereof, hast gathered it and created it from the whole part, so thou wilt trace it to the whole future.—CARLYLE.

Kept.

I hereby consent to the use of my name as a candidate for the presidency.—Woodrow Wilson to Charles G. Hildebrand, secretary of state of Ohio. We favor a single presidential term, and to that end urge the adoption of an amendment to the constitution making the president of the United States ineligible for re-election, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle.—From the Democratic party's platform.

War Order Prosperity.

Increased sales and better collections all over the United States, as a result of our war order prosperity, are shown by the second annual merchandise research report of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, which compares the 1915 trade in six representative business lines with 1914. During two-thirds of 1914 trade in all lines was stagnating in this country, but in 1915 the ring of gold poured into the lap of American labor by the stupendous trade incentive of the European war, becomes the clink of coin on the counters of the retailers.

The report shows the following increases in sales, by percentages: 1915 over 1914, in the lines investigated: Department stores, 19 per cent; grocery stores, 8.8 per cent; clothing stores, 17.9 per cent; hardware stores, 18.3 per cent; drug stores, 11.6 per cent; jewelry stores, 18.9 per cent. Every geographical division shows an increase in retail trade in these six lines in 1915 over 1914, the smallest being recorded in the Pacific states—California, Oregon and Washington, where the effect of the war order stimulus in dispelling the Democratic business depression of 1914 has been felt more remotely. The S. H. Kress Company, five and ten cent stores, show increased sales, over 1914, of 30.1 per cent.

An Old Story Revamped.

Commenting on the free advertising certain women of the city gave "September Morn" here, for which the management of the theater should be quite thankful and give the women free passes as an expression of its appreciation of their invaluable assistance, the Fairmont Times says: So far as we can hear, the management of a Clarksburg theater did not even furnish passes to a certain evangelist and a number of the women members of his flock who advertised an attraction at the play house so well that the seating capacity was entirely inadequate at each performance. While the affair created more than passing notice at the neighboring town, its results are as old as the amusement business.

Nothing pleases the management of an attraction so much as to have some highbrowed person take exceptions to it. There is a local case on record where the managers of the city, armed with paste and paper covered up the blemished limbs of chorus ladies, displayed on boards. The result was that the "old rink" on Madison street, which served then as Fairmont's only place of amusement, was packed. The same thing happened at Clarksburg, for the agitation against the show, which is said to be a really meritorious one, simply made business for it.

The self-appointed custodians of the morals of a community need not get exercised in the direction of immoral attraction. Time has proved in the show business that the big cable that pays its money to be amused is not going to tolerate an attraction that is suggestive or disreputable. Such a line need not the push of the guardians of the communities to make them hit the toboggan. Their descent is quick and sure.

Another McAdoo Scandal.

Secretary McAdoo is exerting all the power of the administration to compel Congress to enact a bill which involves dishonest dealing by the government and which has been condemned by the American Institute of Architects. In June, 1910, the treasury department called on architects to submit designs for the new building for the department of justice. The advertisement specifically stated that the successful architect, having made such revision of his plans as the secretary of the treasury might indicate, should receive the usual fee of "six per cent upon the cost of the work executed from his drawings and specifications and under his superintendence." Sixty architects competed and the award was made to Don M. Barber, of New York. The bill McAdoo is now trying to get through would repudiate that contract. It provides that "the superintendence or local supervision shall not be paid for as a part of the architectural services, etc." and empowers him to bestow it by favor. When McAdoo's attention was called to the bad faith involved, he replied that the obligation to Barber was merely "a moral one." Telegram readers probably have not forgotten the McAdoo scandal recently described as to how McAdoo had paid $33,000 to his former business associate, Mr. Stillwell, for a report which merely duplicated a report on a building which already had been made by the regularly employed architects of the treasury. Perhaps Mr. Stillwell wants this new work which the government is only "morally obligated" to give to Mr. Barber.

THE DAILY NOVELET

THE TRAGEDY.

A railroad director worth millions Desired to increase them to billions; He was caught in the act, And 'tis told as a fact 'Twas he suffered cold chills by the trillions.

Those screams! Those yells! Those cries! Those groans! Lafacido Snipes, the tragedian, clad in a bathrobe and a look of apprehension, rushed from his room in Mrs. Hooley's theatrical boarding house and pounded on the landlady's door. "Did you hear those sounds?" he cried hoarsely. "There's a murder going on!"

At the same moment, softly Herring, leading man, the Sissy Sisters, Quivers, the clown, the Nine Hoodonit Brothers, the Mehtabel, the Child

WEST VIRGINIA BRIEFS

CHARLES TOWN: Former Senator William Campbell, editor of the Virginia Free Press, has been appointed to a lucrative position with the federal trade commission upon the recommendation of United States Senator William E. Chilton.

WHEELING: Efforts of the Wheeling board of education to put a ban on school fraternities will be fought. The board has already passed an order prohibiting officers of the student body of the high school from conducting fraternities.

MARTINSBURG: Mrs. Frances Hamilton Henshaw LeFevre, wife of Dr. Edgar Brown LeFevre, prominent physician, died at her home at Inwood after a brief illness of pneumonia, aged 35.

HUNTINGTON: Will Williams, 26, of Willard, Ky., a prisoner being returned to Kentucky by John L. Potts, sheriff of Carter county, that state, made a sensational jump through a window of a swiftly moving Guyan Valley passenger train near here and made his escape. He was handcuffed when he made the leap. Some time afterward he was captured. Williams is wanted in Carter county on a charge of felonious shooting.

HUNTINGTON: Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be urged to attend the state convention here this summer of the West Virginia Federation of Labor, it is announced by C. W. Mylar, chairman of the entertainment committee named for the convention.

CHARLESTON: James Ross, wealthy farmer of Blue Creek, was held to the grand jury on the charge that he conspired with William Kincaid to wreck an oil well so that the drilling company could not continue its operations on a farm near that of Ross.

WHEELING: After an extended investigation into the wreck which occurred at Riverview Crossing, opposite this city, Coroner Henry Reger rendered a verdict declaring it unavoidable. James King, a motorman, and W. C. Stewart, prominent manufacturer of Cleveland, O., were killed when a freight engine struck a Belaire trolley car.

HUNTINGTON: Attorneys for Mrs. Lulu Defoe held in the Cabell county jail for the murder of Mrs. Rosa McMasters, who she shot to death on a street car Wednesday have deferred their application for bail for the accused woman. Funeral services Wonder, issued from their rooms in alarm. Meanwhile the dread sounds continued from the room of Hempla Plum, the 240 pound sourette. Those yells! Those groans! Those screams! Those moans! Mrs. Hooley, concerned with a rolling pin in one hand and a talking machine in the other, and with one lunge of her mighty shoulders stove in Miss Plum's door.

Hempla Plum, within, was trying on a pair of new Kelleite Annermann corsets!

over the remains of Mrs. McMasters, who was shot while in company with the DeLoe woman's husband, with whom her assistant believed her to be eloping, were held in the Washington Avenue Baptist church. Hundreds of people were in attendance. John McMasters, husband of the slain woman, refused to come from Dover, Tenn., to attend the funeral.

CHARLESTON: S. F. Barnes, aged 65 years, manager of a local orchard company near here, who disappeared two weeks ago; was found dead in an unoccupied house on an adjoining farm. The body was frozen and had been there for some time, the authorities believe. The cause of his death was not determined.

HUNTINGTON: Efforts will be made next Monday to recover the six bodies, victims of the towboat Sam Brown disaster, who lost their lives when the boilers of the big boat exploded February 2 here, according to a statement issued by H. L. Pleasing, insurance inspector, of Pittsburgh. The river is falling and it is thought the waters will be sufficiently low by that time to resume work.

CHARLESTON: The Wheeling Commercial Association of Wheeling, proposing to effect the union of various business clubs and associations for civic uplift in that city, has been issued a certificate of incorporation by the secretary of state. The organization has no capital stock. The incorporators are Seaton Alexander, John B. Garden, R. F. Boyd, R. B. Naylor and J. H. Brennan, all of Wheeling.

WHEELING: When Herman Hess, of Cameron, employed by the federal government as deputy internal revenue collector, refused to answer questions on the witness stand in the case of West Virginia versus Jacob Ceel, of Cameron, charging violation of the Yost prohibition law. Judge H. C. Hervey of the Marshall county circuit court at Moundsville ruled that he showed contempt of the court and sentenced him to serve thirty days in jail.

WHEELING: Miss Gene Dittman, of Homestead, Pa., is in the Ohio Valley General Hospital as a result of two bullet wounds, alleged to have been self-inflicted, and probably will die. Miss Dittman, who formerly resided here, has been visiting the home of Miss Carrie Frazier here for several weeks. She has been brooding over the death of her sister, Miss Etta Dittman, by drowning in Pittsburgh several years ago and over the illness of another sister in Homestead, from whom she received a letter today.

WOMAN TO LECTURE

The woman who lectures in the court house tonight will have a grand message for the working people to hear. She will tell how it is possible for each adult person to have employment, at profitable pay, all the time, and by working only four or five hours a day, receive enough to enjoy the comforts you would like to have. Isn't such a message of hope worth while? Come and hear Janet Penimore Korgold, of Chicago, who is a speaker of wide reputation. No charge for admission. Court house, 7:30 o'clock.

THE ROAD TO SUCCESS

is not a path that is shrouded in as much "red tape", luck, push, pull and mystery as many of you young men and women suppose. The secret lies in two words—thrift and economy. Thousands of successful men and women began their travels toward their goal by saving. Be systematic in your savings and you will accomplish what you've set out to do. An account here is the first step in the system. Come in and ask about it.
