ALLEGED HEAD OF THE IRISH REBELS

Is Placed on Trial in the City of London for Part in the Rebellion.

BELFAST MAN TESTIFIES Witness Says Accused Man Offered Irish Prisoners Money to Join Germans.

LONDON, May 15.—Sir Roger Casement, the supposed head and prime instigator of the Sinn Fein rebellion in Ireland, was arraigned today in the Bow street police court and charged with high treason.

The few spectators who were permitted to enter the famous old police court were considerably surprised when a second prisoner was placed beside Casement in the dock.

This man was Daniel Julian Bailey, a private soldier whose home is at Wemphry, a village near London. Bailey was arrested near Tralle, Ireland, April 21. He was jointly charged with Casement with high treason.

The first witness was John Robinson, of Belfast, formerly a corporal in the royal army medical corps, who was one of the prisoners taken to Germany in the early stages of war and recently released.

He said that of 4,000 Irish prisoners gathered at Lemberg to hear Casement's exhortations between fifty and sixty joined the Irish brigade.

Robinson first saw Casement in the prison camp. "What was he doing?" asked counsel for the prosecution.

"Spouting about the Irish brigade," Robinson replied in a rich brogue. He said Casement promised the Irish prisoners ten pounds each if they joined the Germans and passage to America if Germany lost the war.

The attorney general said Casement was found concealed in what is known locally as McKinnon's fort. He gave the name of Richard Morton, of Buckinghamshire, and his occupation as an author. He was seen to drop a paper which contained a code including the following:

"Await further instructions. Have decided to stay. Further ammunition and rifles are needed. Send another ship."
