JUMPING COW KICKS TOP OFF A LEAD MINE

"Old Punkins," Brindled and Crumpled-horned, Unearths Wealth for Missourian.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 7.—It is ordained that Mrs. O'Leary's cow that kicked over a lamp—and incidentally the greater part of Chicago—is to have a rival in the Ozark country of Missouri. "Punkins" is just a brindled cow, largely yellow, as her name indicates. She has no long pedigree with miles of blue ribbons and medals, but she is some "Punkins" just the same.

made sad havoc of the beet crop. The indignant Lyman put her up and refused to deliver her until Bluefield paid the damages, which he placed at a round sum. This Bluefield refused to do and at once brought suit in replevin in justice court for possession of the cow. The matter dragged slowly through the lower court and on up into Green county circuit court where it was tried twice. On final settlement of the cause the total expenses of the suit were $325, and, as is usually the case, a lawyer got the cow.

"Punkins" Again Sallies Forth. This was not glory enough for "Punkins," for she now comes into prominence more as a maker of wealth than a destroyer of temper, peas and products.

E. N. Wright, a Springfield attorney who defended "Punkins" in the series of lawsuits, still owns her, and she still manifests an anxiety to study the geography of the surrounding country, unmindful of fences and other barriers. Last week while out on one of her exploring trips she strayed into a nearby cornfield. Her discovery there by Ellis Achenas led to considerable activity on his part, during which "Punkins" was forced to flee for life and liberty, a la Villa.

In the pursuit of liberty she was chased by Achenas, who was ably aided and abetted by a pack of Missouri hounds in full chorus. It was just possible that her bovine mind was filled with visions of the past litigation in her mad rush for more congenial company. In any event her heavy weight and rapid flight caused her to sink deeply in the newly plowed cornfield, which had been considerably softened by recent rains.

Farmer Makes a Discovery. Achenas, who was encouraging his hounds, and was himself in hot pursuit, happened to notice several shining pebbles where she had sank deeply in the softened ground. Further investigation revealed to the astonished Missourian that old "Punkins" had kicked up quite a number of pieces of lead.

The whole neighborhood about the little town of Galloway is excited over "Punkins" finding lead, and preparations are being rushed for mining on a large scale. There are old Spanish legends to the effect that much lead is to be found in that vicinity. Local historians are busy with these legends and are also comparing "Punkins" with Hualapa who accidentally discovered the celebrated Mexican silver mines, while climbing a mountain. And so old "Punkins" has come into her own, and if she is not worth a lead mine she seems at least to have led to the discovery of one, and she is no longer considered an outlaw, but is looked upon as a regular "sheerine."

GERMAN SUBMARINE MINE-LAYER PRIZE OF THE BRITISH NAVY

The German submarine mine-layer U-C 5, lying in the Thames off Temple pier, London. The submarine mine-layer is a prize of the British navy, and British sailors are shown on the deck of the captured under-sea boat. The photo clearly shows the mines in their casings on the deck near the conning tower. This craft is one of the latest types of German submarine mine-layers.

OLD MAIDS ONLY IN KANSAS TOWN

Victoria City is a Community from Which Mere Man is Barred.

LODGE CITY, Kan., Aug. 7.—A new town is being born in southwestern Kansas. Its name is Victoria and it is unique. It is a town of old maids, bachelor maids—the Kansas headquarters for spinsters—the place from which men are barred, except as they are willing to give up their prerogatives and allow the women to rule. The founding of Victoria City is an outgrowth of the Kansas Queen Victoria Club, a spinster union, organized by Miss Georgia Hook, of Sabetha. The club was launched to protect the interest of spinsters. At first it was local, but the idea spread and other clubs were formed throughout the state. It has a membership of several hundred unmarried women. President's Idea. In the brain of the president, Miss Hook, was born the idea of a city for spinsters, where they could enact such laws as they desired and live according to their own views. The idea came to Miss Hook coincidentally with the announcement from the federal government that there were about 20,000 acres of land in Kansas, especially in the southwest, which was open to homestead entry. Miss Hook investigated.

Convinced by what she discovered that her idea was feasible, she consulted other members of the Queen Victoria club. The idea took hold of them. Five spinsters agreed to enter the scheme, give up their former homes and invade the frontier. Only in Its Infancy. Into the southwest they went. Land was obtained and in the center of the new settlement Victoria City was laid out. It is not far from Dodge City. The town is only in its infancy. There are a few scattered houses, but many of the women are waiting for clear titles to their land before they begin the final development of their city.

However, while the actual building of the town is progressing slowly, because of the delay in proving up the land, the growth along governmental lines is almost completed and it is in its governmental form that the town has achieved its distinction. Miss Hook is the mayor, and the city council includes Miss Mabelle Morton, Miss Sylvia Cawker, Miss Mildred Minter and Miss Elizabeth Whitling. These officers were elected by the original fifty members of the town site company.

GENERAL OBREGON IS OF IRISH STOCK

Ancestor Was a Son of the Auld Sod in Service of Spanish Army.

EL PASO, Aug. 7.—Ninety-five years ago an Irishman was sent by the king of Spain to rule as viceroy over Mexico. His name was John O'Donahue—or Juan O'Donofu, in Spanish. His closest friend and constant bodyguard was one Mickey O'Brien, renamed by his adopted Iberian brother Miguel Obregon, and it was to him that Juan O'Donofu turned when turbulent and his army, flying the banner of the "first empire," decreed the end of the 300-year rule of the Mexican viceroys.

shall or shall not do in his relations with foreign powers. He demanded that Carranza keep his all but impossible promise and give the people of Sonora lands for farming and saw to it that Carranza made good. He married Maria Tapia, the belle of Sonora, and carried her to the American border after his father-in-law had put him out of the Tapia home. When his bride told him he should be minister of war, he traveled 1,300 miles to Mexico City to secure the appointment. He is able and ambitious—a man to be reckoned with in the near future of Mexico.

Up the mountain wall from Vera Cruz went these two sons of Ireland to where Cordoba clings like a swallow's nest to the seaward side of the Sierra. And there Jack O'Donahue and Mickey O'Brien agreed to repudiate their emperor and allow Iturbide, the Morellan Indian, to rule until a king of Mexico could be chosen.

So well did Mickey serve the first empire that he became General Miguel Obregon, and was placed in control of the western coast of the land of Mowuabtesuma, where, with his wife, who came from the land of his fathers, he left some to lay him to rest when his last day came.

A few weeks ago General Carranza, almost at the end of his rope, sent Alvaron Obregon, a great-grandson of that same Mickey O'Brien, to the rim of his country, bearing to the United States government, ungrateful requests, but with an army of some 400,000 troops supposedly to back him up if it came to blows.

Obregon is said to be more a master of his country today than anyone has been since the time of Porfirio Diaz. From a small hacendado he has become minister of war, an honor forced from Carranza practically at the muzzle of an automatic pistol.

From head of a band of Yaqui Indians he has risen to command an army of 150,000, probably the best army Latin-America has ever known; and from an underling in the Madero and Carranza armies he raised his voice to dictate the policies of his government and define what his chief

Bob Mohr, Leach Cross, Frankie Burns, Jimmy Britt, Mike Gibbons and Harley Tommy Murphy are particular instances.

WOMAN AVOIDS OPERATION

Medicine Which Made Surgeon's Work Unnecessary.

Astoria, N. Y. — "For two years I was feeling ill and took all kinds of tonics. I was getting worse every day. I had chills, my head would ache, I was always tired. I could not walk straight because of the pain in my back and I had pains in my stomach. I went to a doctor and he said I must go under an operation, but I did not go. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told my husband about it. I said 'I know nothing will help me but I will try this.' I found myself improving from the very first bottle, and in two weeks time I was able to sit down and eat a hearty breakfast with my husband, which I had not done for two years. I am now in the best of health and did not have the operation." — Mrs. JOHN A. KOENIG, 502 Flushing Avenue, Astoria, N. Y.

Every one dreads the surgeon's knife and the operating table. Sometimes nothing else will do; but many times doctors say they are necessary when they are not. Letter after letter comes to the Pinkham Laboratory, telling how operations were advised and were not performed; or, if performed, did no good, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used and good health followed.
