NEW PROCESS FOR COLORING FILMS FOUND

Professor Alder Obtains the Results When Negative is First Exposed.

William Alder, professor of cinematography and camera expert at the Quality-Metro studios in Hollywood, Cal., has just given a public demonstration of a new process in obtaining colored photography for motion pictures which bids fair to revolutionize the industry, and upon which he has been conducting experiments for several years. The result of Professor Alder's researches was given a public exhibition at the Majesty theater in Los Angeles recently and was conceded by both the audience and local press as being the best work in colored motion picture photography ever shown.

For more than ten years Mr. Alder has devoted all his spare time to the study of photography, and for four years has been working on a color process that would photograph natural colors through the lens of the motion picture camera. He only color effects produced so far, before Mr. Alder's discovery was made, were obtained through coloring the positive after it was printed from the negative.

In the next Quality-Metro production, in which Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne will appear, Mr. Alder will photograph a few scenes with his new color process camera, for a general experiment. It is said that a manufacturer of films and camera equipment has already offered Mr. Alder $200,000 for his process and patents on the camera.

Can Be Seen at Bijou Theater

Herewith is the latest photograph of William Courtleigh, Jr., who plays the name part in the interesting Pathe serial, "Neal of the Navy," which is being shown regularly at the Bijou

BOSTON FILMED.

Boston, the city of culture and tradition, viewed through the pretty eyes of the Mutual Traveller, constitutes the subject matter of the latest Gaumont (Mutual) scenic split reel and comic release "See America First."

REAL AMERICAN GIRL IN THIS KLEINE FILM

Irene Fenwick Has Great Part in Feature Billed for Bijou.

There is nothing of the "nimby nanby" or "wishy washy" girl about Amy Cary as portrayed by Irene Fenwick in "The Sentimental Lady," to be shown as the leading feature at the

THE SENTIMENTAL LADY

Bijou theater Monday. Others—especially his own. His daring and heroism quickly transforms Amy into "The Sentimental Lady," and cupid comes into his own. This masterpiece of film production is a Kleine drama, written by Owen Davis and released through the Kleine-Edison feature service. New Wallingford Picture. "Three Rings and a Goat" is the title of the Wallingford picture to be shown Tuesday at the Bijou. This is number three of this interesting serial, which has caught on just right with the motion picture public. George Ade's fable, "The Sorrows of the Unemployed," will be shown. "The Woman in the Box," a two act Vitaphone drama with J. Roger Lytton and Harry Morey, will conclude Tuesday's bill. "His Hand and His Seal" is the title of a three act Klav and Erlanger offering billed for Wednesday. Vera Sisson and Jose Ruben are in the leads. This is very much out of the ordinary run of pictures.

Turns on Him. Amy's companion, Bob Nelson, a young attorney, bent only on averting threatened financial disaster, but hoping also to avert a matrimonial tragedy, both overshadowing the heroine, is "hard put" when the girl he wants to protect turns on him, but he weathers the storm successfully and caps the climax by winning her affection when he makes a daring, dangerous swim, proving to her that he held her interests paramount to all

OTTO RETURNS

As a Director to the Universal Film Company from the American.

Henry Otto, one of the best known character actors of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company four years ago, has returned to the company as a director.

During the last fourteen months, Otto had been directing with the American company at Santa Barbara, Cal., and it is planned to have him do the same thing for the Universal. He was with the Selig company for two years appearing as leading man in the productions of directors Le Saint and Campbell.

Otto knows dramatics thoroughly, having had a long experience on the legitimate stage, at one time serving as stage manager for Richard Mansfield.

BEE IS BUSY.

The matrimonial bee continues to buzz about and sting Balboans with surprising regularity. The latest member of the studio force to "go and do it" is Alden Willey, an assistant director. His bride was Miss Inez Wyson, of Long Beach, who has appeared in a number of Balboa productions.

STARS CALLED TO NEW YORK

Bushman and Bayne to Be Permanently Situated in Metro Studios There.

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, the famous Metro stars, who have been making all their pictures at the Quality-Metro studio at Hollywood, Cal., have been called to New York, where they will be permanently located in other Metro studios. Helen Dunbar and other prominent members of the distinguished cast who support Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne, accompanied them. They begin work immediately on two important screen productions. The first will be a picture of "The Yellow Dove," a stirring romance of international secret service, by George Gibbs. It was accepted in manuscript form for screen production before its publication by D. Appleton and Company.

The other production in which Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne will be featured is "Richard Carvel," the great Winston Churchill historical novel. The interiors for both pictures will be taken in New York, while the exteriors for "Richard Carvel" will be made in Maryland and Virginia, in historically correct settings.

LOANED

Is Wellington Playter to Play in Film of "Pennington's Choice."

Wellington Playter, who recently signed a contract to play characters and leads with Kolb and Dill, Inc., has been loaned to the Quality-Metro forces for two weeks to play the part of Jules Blondeau in the production, "Pennington's Choice." Playter, who has made quite a reputation in Famous Players and Universal productions, is an unusual type of man of powerful physique and unusual dramatic ability. Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, the popular screen stars, will have the leading parts in "Pennington's Choice."

ARTIST'S MODEL IS ENGAGED FOR FILM

AUDREY MUNSEN, FAMED MODEL, APPEARING IN "INSPIRATION" A MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE

"The Panama-Pacific Girl." Such is the name given Audrey Munson, the world famed artist's model, who will be seen in the Thanhouser Mutual Masterpicture "Inspiration," to be released Nov. 18. Miss Munson is known as the "Panama-Pacific Girl" because she posed for most of the art and sculpture work at the fair at San Francisco. Her figure adorns much of the mural decoration from the hands of New York artists.

Miss Munson was also the model for the Firemen's monument, the Pulitzer memorial, for the Maine monument and for almost every work of real genius in New York city ever since she was first discovered.
